Kelth's Theatre—An Arctic scene with real water and real ice floating in it and a man swimming amongst the ice will be one of the sensations offered by Mr. Kelth in his Boston house next week, as a feature of one of the strongest bills he has yet offered. As the headline feature there will be Yvette Guilbert, the famous French artist, who has been for years the sensation of European capitals with her delightfully clever songs. It is doubtful, however, whether even this high priced artist will cause as much comment as that remarkable swimmer, Sam Mahoney. For this act Mr. Kelth has provided a most elaborate stage setting with light effects such as have never before been seen in vaudeville. The entire show will be made up of headline features, including Willard Simms & Company, in one of the most laughable ever written, called "The Paper Hanger"; James and Sadie Leonard in a Roman travesty; Soisell Brothers & Mack, who are at the head of the acrobatic comedians; Greiger and Walters in a production called "The Street Singers"; and a number of others.

SPLENDID WORK ENCOURAGING REPORT MADE PUBLIC

The following report of the work of the Playground and Social Service League has been prepared and has been submitted to the members.

The organization was completed May 3d, 1909, as follows:

The corporation is constituted for the purpose of promoting the development and use of public playgrounds; providing and extending opportunities for wholesome recreation especially for the boys and girls of the community; rendering social service; and furthering the social, intellectual and moral betterment of Newton Centre and its vicinity in co-operation with existing social, philanthropic, and religious organizations.

The governing body of the organization is an Executive Committee annually elected in April and made up of one representative nominated by each of the established churches in Newton Centre; one nominated by the Newton Centre Improvement Association; one by the Newton Centre Woman's Club; one by the Mayor of the city of Newton; one by the School Committee, and six additional members to be elected at large by the Society.

The Treasurer and Secretary of the Society are also members of the Executive Committee ex officio.

Persons twenty-one years or over are eligible for full voting membership and are divided into variously designated classes as follows, all having equal privileges:

Patron Members paying a membership fee of one hundred dollars a year or over.

Sustaining Members paying a membership fee of ten dollars a year or over.

Regular Members paying a membership fee of a dollar a year or over. The work immediately at hand was for the young people of our village, especially the boys, to provide amusement and instruction for them through competent supervision on the Public Playground.

To assume direction of this Playground Committee was formed.

On June 7, this committee engaged Mr. William N. Howard, of the Y. M. C. A. Training School at Springfield, as athletic director for one year. His services have been given with fidelity and greatly to the profit of the children morally and physically, though at the start he had to overcome most discouraging difficulties, as the necessary grounds equipment was then lacking. The city officials gave him police authority, and the power of issuing permits for games or for the use of any part of the grounds at stated times. Of greatest help was an unexpected appropriation of the city, available for the Newton Centre Playground, for beauty or utility.

Conferences were held with a committee of the Newton Centre Improvement Association, to whom the community is indebted both for the field and for the comprehensive and beautiful plan of its completed appearance, and with Mr. Charles I. Buckman, the City Forester, who is directly in charge of the city parks and playgrounds, and with Mr. E. H. Rogers, the City Engineer. In consequence the city has added to the Playground the following improvements:

12 swings, 6 teeter boards, 6 sand boxes, 2 new baseball backstops of wire and steel, posts set in cement, baseball diamond repaired, cement bubbling drinking fountain, jumping box, running track repaired, football field marked out and roped off, football goal posts specially designed for both rugby and soccer, basketball field, posts and cages, new cement bridge, new concrete walk, unsightly dump near the Centre street entrance cleared, filled, graded and grassed, old tennis courts raked and rolled, three new tennis courts of the best construction built with back nets of wire and steel pipe set in cement, and the necessary grading and seeding around the courts, tennis nets, baseball bases, etc.

And in addition care and maintenance has been provided to a greater extent than ever before, even including some care of the kindergarten gardens during the vacation season. The co-operation of the city authorities has been invaluable and we believe they now share with us the pride we have in the development of this playground.

The League bought the balls, catchers' gloves, croquet sets, quoits, and sundry articles outside of the city's province to supply, and necessary to promote the actual playing of the games.

For the month of August Mr. Howard successfully carried through an All-Newton Junior Baseball League of seven teams from Newton Centre, Newtonville, Newton Highlands, Newton Upper Falls and Newton. The Newton Centre team won after triple trying twice, in an after series in September.

On Labor Day, besides the baseball games, the first All-Newton all around Athletic Field Day for amateurs was held. Mrs. T. H. Thomas of West Newton won. In between times some events for the boys were run off.

"During the same week the tennis tournament, which is to be an annual feature, was commenced. Through the generosity of Mr. E. Ray Speare, handsome cups were given by the League, for boys and for women, each winner's name to be inscribed and a three times winner to be given ownership of the cup. Miss Elsie Harrington and Mr. Edward Richardson won.

Two football leagues are now starting, one of boys under thirteen, a Junior league of five teams from Newton Centre and the other of boys thirteen or over from all Newton. A committee of young ladies has undertaken to instruct the girls on the basketball field, and before the end of October, it is hoped to begin soccer football which can be played until the snow falls, and also in the early spring. For all these athletic events the League has provided, or is providing, suitable mementos for the winners.

From the time the Playground was put in well-equipped condition there has been an attendance of boys and girls, some of them accompanied by their elders, of from 50 to 100 during vacation in the mornings, and 75 to 200 in the afternoon, and all engaged in play or practice of athletic games, from the modelling in sand by the wee children, to the athletic contests of the full grown. This has all been under direction of the League except the Saturday afternoon contests of the N. C. A. A. baseball club and the baseball games between the married and single men.

Special committees have spent much thought and hard work on the various branches of sport and the co-operation of our own people has been most hearty. The Playground Committee hopes that a way will be found to flood the ball field and to keep an ice rink in good order in weather favorable for winter sports. Such an opportunity will continue without interruption the good work now well begun, and will additionally afford delightful exercise to many of the older people in our community as well as other villages in Newton.

For the children in the winter there will be cross-country, running, hare and hounds, snow shoeing, coasting and possibly tobogganing. This committee wishes to emphasize the necessity of toilet conveniences on the Playground and, as soon as possible, of a shelter. It is a pleasure to state that a marked improvement has been noted in the conduct of the boys engaged in the sports whether in practice or in contests.

The League has had a great many worthy lines of endeavor urged upon it. To carefully consider them a Work-Extension Committee was appointed, and upon their recommendation social work at Thompsonville was undertaken and a committee appointed.

During the summer months a room in the Bowen school has been open one evening a week to boys for games and reading, and on one evening the parents were present. The attendance has been from 25 to 40, and the committee urges the need of more frequent meetings this winter, both for boys and girls, three or four evenings for parents, a library reading room open at least twice a week, and the forming of a boys' club. The Thompsonville people are co-operating in this work and the League wishes to help them. The Trustees of the Newton Library are assisting and the School Committee is doing what it can.

There being no playground or public park land in Thompsonville, it is most gratifying to report that the Newton Theological Institution has given this League for the term of five years, without charge, the use of a three and a half acre tract of land alongside Langley Road, as a playground for the smaller children and the mothers. Before spring, arrangements should be made to enclose this land and supply seats, sand boxes, swings and teeters or other simple means of amusement.

The League is planning through its Education Committee a winter series of lectures or talks, possibly four in number, especially interesting and helpful to the boys and girls.

The Entertainment Committee is also maturing plans for the winter, of which announcement will be made later.

The attention of the members is called to the list of Committees herewith. Each chairman by vote of the Executive Committee has authority to add to his committee as may seem advisable. Although scarcely five months old the organization of the League's undertakings for the first twelve months is nearly completed.

The Membership Committee reports that the number of members to date is one hundred and fifty, and the committee requests the help of those who have already subscribed in extending to others information about our League and in asking their support.

The Finance Committee is pleased to report that the current expenses of the League including equipments, prizes and every item, paid out to October 1st, with the exception of the athletic director's salary, amount to only $125.71. A large increase in our membership and in our income is needed to carry us through the winter and spring. It is the hope of the Committee to reserve if possible, the larger subscriptions toward the building of a playground shelter. While more money is needed for the general work of the League as above outlined, special subscriptions will be gratefully received for any specific branch of the League's interests.

Members of the Executive Committee will be pleased to receive suggestions or criticisms from the organizations they represent or from the public at large, the purpose of the League being solely to minister, as may be required of it, to the needs of this community.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM C. BRIDGER,
Chairman.

The officers of the League are as follows:

William C. Bridger, chairman; L. H. Fitch, vice chairman; William H. Rice, treasurer; Samuel B. Paul, secretary. Executive committee: A. E. Alford, N. C. I. A.; Matt B. Jones, City Government; William E. Parker, School Committee; Mrs. Alice M. Shedd, Woman's Club; S. Harold Greene, Baptist Church; S. T. Emery, Methodist Church; M. John Barry, Roman Catholic Church; Addison Burnham, Unitarian Church; L. H. Fitch, Episcopal Church; Abbott B. Rice, Congregational Church; William N. Howard, Executive Director for the League. At large: Mrs. Grace R. Badger, Frederic G. Melcher, Alfred Pearson, Gardner C. Walworth, William C. Bridger, Waldron H. Rand, Jr.

SHEET BRASS FOR HOME WORK

We have sheet brass worked with patterns for lamp and candle shades, with cutting and bending edges plainly shown. We find this appreciated since, while insuring accuracy, it does not take away the pleasure of the personal work.

A brass working outfit costs little and is worth having, even for only occasional use.

We have brass, fringe, fasteners, patterns, and tools complete in neat boxes that will make an interesting gift.

The small margin by which Gov-nor Draper pulled thru last Tuesday is not at all creditable to the intelligence of the Massachusetts electorate, in that it allowed such entirely extraneous matters as the national tariff law, the alleged bossism of Senator Lodge and reciprocity with Canada, to enter into a discussion which purely affected state issues.
The only state issue which arose during the campaign was in regard to the Governor's admirable veto of a political amendment to the existing eight hour law, and even here, many voters got the idea that the Governor had vetoed the general principle of eight hours, rather than a vicious and tricky amendment. While this city gave the Governor a fairly good vote, it was not nearly as large as it ought to have been. The Republican city committee did little work other than remind the voters by postals and transparencies that an election was pending, and there was little evidence of that hustling effort to get out the vote which has characterized elections in previous years.

Newton should have given Gov-nor Draper at least 500 more votes than it did, and there is seemingly no excuse for its failure to do so.
The state should be congratulated that it did save its face in re-electing Governor Draper, but thinking men deeply regret that the election shows how lightly the average voter feels his duty to the public weal.

The campaign to raise $150,000 for a greatly needed new building for the Newton Young Men's Christian Association which began yesterday, should be received most generously by Newton residents. No institution in the city is doing the good work which this Association is now carrying on in its present inadequate quarters. In keeping young boys off the streets, in training them physically, and morally and in setting before them excellent examples of manliness, its value cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Its success under adverse conditions has been most gratifying and it would seem as if its future was so important that its request for modern equipment should be realized. Let everyone give, large or small and help this worthy cause.

We are unavoidably delayed in issuing this week's paper in order to give the fullest possible account of the Y. M. C. A. movement to raise $150,000.

A MISTAKEN IDEA.

Many people have gained the impression that only the very wealthy can afford to sit for the beautiful photographs made at the studio of Morris Burke Parkinson, 603 Boylston street (Copley square), Boston. This is a mistake which can be corrected by calling or sending for price list.
Prices, considering the quality of work, will be found very reasonable.
Now is the time to sit for Christmas Portraits. Visitors for inspection are always welcome whether they desire sittings or not.

SARAH HULL CHAPTER.

The Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., held an enjoyable meeting at the Newton

MR. HATFIELD ACCEPTS

Flattering Invitation To Become Candidate For Mayor

Mr. Charles E. Hatfield,
West Newton, Mass.

Dear Mr. Hatfield:—
We have learned that the present
Mayor of Newton cannot undertake another term. It is therefore necessary to consider the selection of a candidate for the election next December, and it is desirable that the citizens, as has been the practice in the past have ample opportunity to consider the subject. We desire to support you for this office and ask that you become a candidate, pledging you, in case you accept this invitation, our earnest support. We do this for the following reasons:—

First: You have for many years been connected with important business affairs, and intimately associated with those directing the largest enterprises, giving you an experience which should be of great value to the City if you are to administer its affairs.

Second: You are one of the most active of Newton citizens in social and political affairs, and have thereby acquired knowledge of conditions and an acquaintance with individuals which we believe is a valuable possession for the head of our City Government.

Third: You have the capacity to accomplish results and are able to devoted the time necessary to carry on the work in the Mayor's office; both good reasons for your being invited to become a candidate.

Fourth: Finally, you are known to us as a man of high personal character, a loyal friend, an untiring worker, an agreeable companion and popular citizen. These personal qualities are no mean elements in the necessary equipment required to make a successful official. Your having them gives you a personal interest in your candidacy in addition to the larger reason that you are thoroughly fitted to be Newton's Mayor.

May we ask for an early reply and that we have permission to publish this correspondence.

Yours very truly,

NOTICE.

Miss Cornerals will open a set of Assemblies to be held in Norumbega hall, Auburndale, every other Friday night during the winter, starting November 12. Terms, $4.00 for ten As-semblies, from half past seven to half past nine o'clock.

HUNNEWELL CLUB.

The first Neighborhood Night last Tuesday was the largest in the history of the club, fully 350 persons being present. Bowling, cards and dancing furnished the entertainment for the evening, followed by refreshments. Mrs. F. E. Stanley was in charge.

LODGES.

The Garden City Mutual Aid Association held a regular meeting in A.
U. W. hall, West Newton, Wednesday evening, Nov. 3. After the meeting a smoke talk was held with a banquet, and a very enjoyable evening was held. Remarks were made by several members, and singing and music finished the evening.

Mr. Hatfield's Reply.

Hon. John W. Weeks, Samuel L. Powers, Seward W. Jones, Alonso R.
Weed, Edgar W. Warren, Marcus
Morton, William M. Flanders,
Frank A. Day, Elias B. Bishop,
George M. Flske, Andrew B. Cobb and others,

Gentlemen:—
Your letter inviting me to become a candidate for Mayor of the City of Newton has been duly received.
I have delayed answering because I have been uncertain whether it would be possible for me to serve if nominated and elected. But affairs have so adjusted themselves that it becomes possible for me to accept your request to be a candidate. In accepting, my hope is that, if elected, I shall so conduct the duties of the office as to merit the approval and respect of my fellow-citizens.

Thanking you for your many expressions of good will and support,
I am,

Yours very truly,

CHARLES E. HATFIELD.

Albert Metcalf of Highland street was the scene of a large gathering on Tuesday evening. The occasion being the first of a series of musicales to be given the "Chorus Club" during the fall and winter.

MR. GAMMONS HURT.

As a result of trying to avoid a collision with an automobile in West Newton Saturday morning R. F. Gam-mons was thrown out of a carriage, sustaining a fracture to his right leg,
and an automobile operated by F. H.
Keyes of 117 Mt. Vernon street was run into a telephone pole and damaged.

The accident occurred about 8.30 at Putnam and Murch streets, where the view of each thoroughfare is obstructed by the superstructure of a bridge over the Boston & Albany railroad. Mr. Gammons was driving the carriage on Putnam street when the automobile came toward him through Murch street.

Mr. Gammons pulled his horse to one side. Mr. Keyes quickly steered his automobile off to the other side, running into the pole. At this the horse shied, throwing out Mr. Gam-mons, who after being attended by a doctor was taken to his home at 125 Webster street in the police ambulance. Mr. Keyes escaped injury. The horse or carriage were not damaged.

Safety For Your Estate

Our method of administering estates and trust funds has not only all the advantages of an individual trusteeship, but other points of superiority that one-man direction cannot have. Sickness, accident or death cannot endanger a trust confided to us, because no one man is responsible for it. Our executive board act together, and are ready for business every business day in the year.

Every investment made, or other important action taken, represents the collective wisdom of a group of men expert in trust management, and their services cost an estate no more than it would pay an individual.

All our securities are officially inspected three times a year. We give bonds equal to twice the amount of the personal property of an estate we administer; and these bonds are backed by a guarantee of $4,500,000. An individual acting as executor or trustee rarely is required to give security.

The rooms were filled with a delighted audience of "grown ups" and children, who were enthusiastic in their appreciation of the very interesting stories as told by Mrs. McCann.

—The third of the interesting and instructive lectures given Sunday evenings at the Methodist church by the Rev. Dr. C. H. Melden will be given next Sunday. The subject of the series on the series on Health, Happiness and Religion will be "The Wear of Worry." Besides the talks excellent music is provided by the boy choir under the direction of Mr. J. Elliot Trowbridge.

PARK THEATRE.

Dear Editor and Readers:—Well, I've been again! Where? Where else than to the Park Theatre, to see "Uncle Tom" Wise and "Cousin Dugg" Fairbanks, and that perfectly ripping play, "A Gentleman from Mississippi," and that quintette of pretty girls of whom I recently wrote you? Where else? There are other theatres in Boston, and there are other plays but this quaint, bubbling, warm, merry, enlivening comedy of the things they say and the things they do in Washington is enshrined in my very heart.

Not in years have I known a play to catch Boston as "A Gentleman from Mississippi" has caught it. (And, please, here let me parenthetically interject an "I told you so!" for I did tell you so; did I not?) It is the same story here as in New York and Chicago; a night or two of doubt at the beginning of each run, and then packed houses until every blessed man, woman, and child for miles around has, over and over again, followed the fortunes of Senator Langdon and "Bud" Haines in the mazes of a genuine intrigue of political, social, diplomatic, domestic, and fashionable Washington.

Going again. And again. And some more. I can't get too much of "Mississippi" as it is dimly called by those who know it most intimately. But no more of those Wednesday matinees for yours truly! I prefer to sit when I go to the theatre; and it is hard to get even room to stand at those midweek afternoon performances.

Faithfully yours,
MARY DASCOMBE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

In Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners.

Boston, November 3, 1909.

On petition of the Newton and Watertown Gas Light Company for the approval of an issue of additional capital stock of the par value of two hundred and ninety thousand dollars ($290,000) for the purpose of paying the indebtedness of the company now outstanding and the cost of further additions to its plant, the Board will give a hearing to the parties interested at its office, Room 603 Ford Building at 15 Ashburton Place, Boston, on Thursday, the eleventh day of November current, at ten-thirty o'clock in the forenoon.

And the petitioner is required to give notice of said hearing by publication hereof in the "Newton Graphic," the "Newton Journal," the "Newton Circuit" and the "Newton Town Crier," newspapers published in the city of Newton, and in the "Watertown Tribune-Enterprise," a newspaper published in the town of Watertown, in each said papers once at least prior to said time of hearing and in the "Waltham Evening News" and "Waltham Free-Press Tribune," newspapers published in the city of Waltham, in each of said papers prior to said time of hearing once each week for two successive weeks.

Per order of the Board.
R. G. TOBEY, Clerk.

ALL HOUSEHOLD EMERGENCIES

THE phrase "All Household Emergencies" covers everything from a fire in the attic to a leaking pipe in the kitchen, and the only way to meet all of them is BY TELEPHONE.

Remember, too, that sudden demands for "the doctor," or for special provision for the unexpected guest that has been persuaded to "come out for dinner" are included in this category.

The TELEPHONE is as necessary to the Housewife as to the Businessman. One use of it may save the price of several years of service.

If the family are scattered, the Bell Long Distance lines always keep "home" within easy reach.

SPLENDID START

Over Half The Desired Amount Already Pledged

The campaign to raise $150,000 for a new building for the Newton Young Men's Christian Association was successfully inaugurated Wednesday evening at a banquet given to the citizens' committee of one hundred and to the various teams who are to do the actual work of soliciting for funds.

Mr. Frank A. Day, chairman of the committee, presided, and about one hundred and fifty of some of the best known residents of Newton were present. The banquet began at 6.30 o'clock, Rev. J. Edgar Park of West Newton asking grace. At intervals, as the dinner progressed, the enthusiasm of the workers found vent and when Mr. Day opened the speaking, he was greeted with great applause.

Mr. Day welcomed all those present and regarded their coming on such a right as a personal compliment to himself.

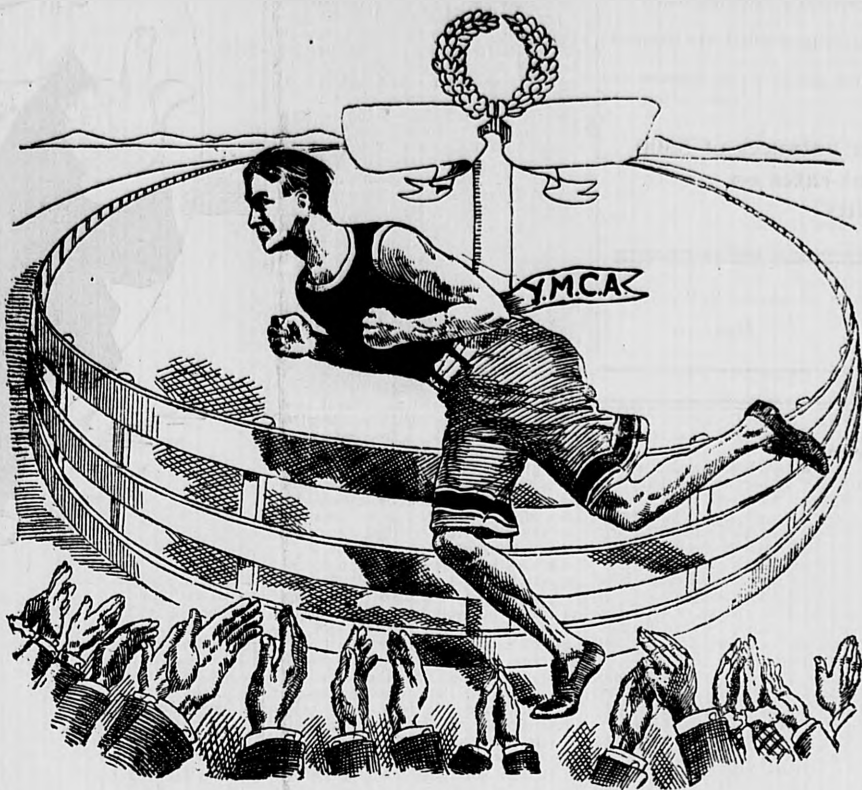

Letters were read from Mayor Hutchinson and Congressman Weeks. Mayor Hutchinson said that "The object is worthy of the assistance of every Newton citizen and I sincerely hope that what is proposed will be duly carried out, and that it may be accomplished especially because of the large number interested, all ages and of all conditions earnestly co-operating for the common good of our community. Let me be of service in every possible way."

Captain Weeks said: "That he was heartily in sympathy with any improvement which will bring young men together under proper auspices and teach them rational methods of that discourage them, because I want to say to you that we had the hardest time forming ten teams in Boston.

The captain who got the largest amount was the one who came in at the last moment. We said Mr. Carter we have got to have you; now you come in and we will put you at work and you do the best you can. He just came in and lined up a team and picked up odds and ends everywhere and you know the result. Mr. Carter's team got $40,000. Now you have got men lying around like that. The men who did the best in our campaign were those who we expected least from, or not the most from. Some of those we thought we could depend upon were those who had other engagements and could not come up to the mark, and they did not help us as much as we expected and as much as we depended upon.

One more important thing is regarding vacancies. The great secret of success in this plan is to be sure of keeping your teams filled. Be sure that you have your full quota on the team, and to do that the captain and each member of your team should be on the lookout for good material. If your men cross lines at any time, and this you are very likely to do, remember that it is all for the good of the cause, and if your team does not get the juicy subscription and the other team gets it, perhaps you will get some that belong to another team. Put in the main, try not to duplicate the work. A great deal of extra work was covered by two or three men calling on the same person because they was not torn up like the others, but he had filled out that card for $1,000. Such cases will mean if you keep after them.

You will find people want to give. You will find people want to take hold, but some of them will hesitate because they cannot give but $25 or $50. Have them feel that you want to have them contribute, that you are willing to leave the amount with them, but at the same time have them understand that you must get so many pledges of $100, $500, $1,000, etc., in order to win, and then have them tell some friend. The main thing is to get them to give. I have seen several people, who said they did not have time, giving to Boston and anything at all, but because of the enthusiasm and the spirit of the workers, they took hold and gave, and we are glad they did give and it has done them good.

If you have a good suggestion, do not try to put it into operation but take it to our General Ward. He has the test and he is the man on whom you are going to put the responsibility. Just remember that this is the forty-fourth campaign, if it fails it will be his fault. If you do exactly as he tells you, just remember that if you do not do as he tells you, if you take the bit in your teeth and go alone, the failure will not be his.

Mr. Day: General Ward made no mistake in asking Mr. Curtis to come here this evening and we thank him. Perhaps, more than one team will get wise under the influence of what he has said. Mr. Curtis was telling us how he thought it just as well to go in up to his neck as up to his knees, but I did not suppose I would get over my head, when I was asked to take the chairmanship of the Citizens' Committee. I thought I should have to take a dignified attitude, and as it were be a figurehead, and perhaps my figure might draw some other. But knowing the young men and appreciating their worth and their work here for so many years, and as I thought of it and that I am responsible, I concluded that I should have a work with them, and I am glad to work with them. As I have got in, I feel that it is one of the most profitable things, perhaps not for my pocket-book, that I have ever had because I see a good deal of education in it. I see that I possibly will be able to collect and promote things. (Applause.) Collect and promote things, as I have never been able to in the past, and these citizens may regret that I have been called upon to go into this university. I now wish to introduce to you a gentleman who has been called the Major General. Some are born to be generals, some attain unto honors, some have honors thrust upon them. International Secretary C. S. Ward, sometimes called "Major General" Ward, will tell you something about Y. M. C. A. work and his experience and will also tell you whether he was born to be a general, or if it was thrust upon him. Applause.

Mr. Ward: Although Mr. Curtis throughout the campaign in Boston, insisted upon thrusting the title upon me, I did not know what a dreadful ogre and dictator I had become in his mind, until he began telling you how you must do it. I am glad that Mr. Day did not need to learn the lesson as chairman of the Citizens' Committee. I remember and hear of a man who had been at work for several days, or whose name had been at the top of the list and he had been doing very little work, who came to me one day and said, "Mr. Ward, I did not realize at the beginning that I was going into something to which I would get tied in such a way that I would have to pull it through in order to save myself." I confess that was exactly where we desired to have him. He was in the right place and he had to pull it through and he was happy when he finished the campaign. I congratulate you men that you have a chance to come in on the tidal wave that Mr. Curtis has helped roll up in Boston. It may seem a hard proposition to you, but it does not compare to the tremendous proposition that Mr. Curtis and others faced in Boston, in finding men willing to carry the responsibilities, and really you especially seem to be an easy one. My mind goes back to the time when in a city double the size of Newton it was considered a great task to raise $2500 for an Association building, and we thought we had accomplished great things when it was done.

In a small town in Connecticut we undertook to raise $2500 in six months and it was a tremendous proposition. Today it looks small because the Y. M. C. A. has taken its place among the powerful institutions of the world, and when business men in any line of business begin to look about for additional help, where they may benefit their fellowmen and especially the young men, he thinks at once of the Young Men's Christian Association. It has been the solution of many great problems of business men, and has placed young men in places of influence, and today these same men are standing by the Association.

Gentlemen, you are coming into a valuable heritage, the fathers of those who have labored before us have handed down to us institutions which are and for a great deal of good. When we start in we have behind us what the men in former days did not have. We have the great Industrial Departments of the Association. We are sending men to the Rocky Mountains to establish associations there, into Mexico, to Europe and other parts of the world. Some of these men are looking after the emigrants, so that the last thing a man sees is his emigrants the steamer and the first thing when he gets to these shores is the Y. M. C. A. man ready to offer his assistance. They direct the men to our Associations, and send many of them to the farms of the West instead of allowing them to stop in the congested regions. Then we have in the mining camps, looking after the interests of the men, part of the expenses paid by the corporations and part paid by the men in membership fees.

In Los Angeles where the aqueduct is being constructed to supply the city with water, there are 25,000 men strung out for 25 miles and we have men looking after their interests. $5,000 a year is appropriated in order that the moral interests of the men may be safeguarded while they are digging the aqueduct.

Then our men have done wonderful work in Japan. One of the noted Japanese Princes in speaking of the work said he regarded the Y. M. C. A. as an important co-laborer in the uplift of Korea. A single illustration may give you a key to the success of the Young Men's Christian Association, if you need a key. One of our secretaries went to Japan and when the war broke out he was one of the first to the front. Our men at first were looked upon as Russian spies, but as they became better known they were called the "Soldier Comforting Men." They were on hand with tents, and other portable conveniences for the men. One of the wounded soldiers who was taken care of by our men inquired why they didn't preach, and so cut as their Priests did speculating on the future life. Our men replied that it would be time enough to talk religion after we made him comfortable, and the Soldier replied that when we did preach to them they would take some stock in what we said. That is the spirit of the Young Men's Christian Association which has gone around the world. That spirit in which we go out, not for ourselves but to do something for our fellowmen, that spirit in which our Association has been promoted until it has become a power in the world today. A Christian institution, and a Christian as I understand it means self-sacrifice. You are willing to make the sacrifice that goes with this work. I want you to realize that you are a part of a tremendous forward movement. As we touch elbows we gain strength from that touch.

Mr. Ward spoke of the rapid growth of the Young Men's Christian Association since he first became acquainted with the work in 1881 when a young man in college, when there were $2,000,000 of property, now grown to $55,000,000, eliminating all debts. The property possessions of the Association have been doubled in the last five years, and if I was to tell you the plans of the immediate future, you would realize that there is a great movement now under way to provide for the young men of our country better facilities in every city. Men realize now that in educational work this is worthy of the support of other institutions. With 50,000 students studying in colleges, training for life work, business men are coming to see that the Association is as worthy of endorsement as Harvard or any other great university. We are extending aid to those needing it, those who have to come out of school early, and if they are to have an education must get it at a great sacrifice. You Captains of Industry who are employing many of these men, don't you believe that out of the 50,000 men who are being trained in these night schools, safely and sanely, trained for improving themselves for life work and in Christian principles, don't you believe there will be some leaders, who will save our country in moments of danger in the future, and is it not worth while to support that kind of institution.

In our campaign in Duluth to raise $170,000, on the morning of the last day we were $10,000 short, and Mr. Gov. Miller, who was president of the Association, came to me and said what are we going to do, we are $10,000 short and I do not know where we are going to get any more money. My answer was that about 75,000 people were worrying about the same thing and that he might stop worrying. My rule is to get other people worrying, then I can stop worrying. That is a brief solution. Subscriptions came pouring in on the last day of the campaign, $50,000 was subscribed, making a total of $150,000, instead of $100,000. The High School Principal there told me his discipline of the school had been completely revolutionized by the Y. M. C. A. work, and a great civic movement had been inaugurated that has taken hold of the city. This has been the case in scores of cities throughout the country. You will be asked the question, what will be the effect of the campaign on the churches, where $2,500 or $5,000 is needed. Some people were fearful that all the money would be gotten in Boston and there would be nothing left in Newton, but I think the Boston campaign will facilitate the Newton campaign. Take Richmond, Va., for instance, for two years the Chamber of Commerce had been trying to raise a fund to advertise the city without much success. Richmond was a dead city, and had been dead since the Civil War. Many men had gotten rich, but as far as public enterprises were concerned they were ruined by the Civil War. Under these conditions, we had the audacity to enter into a campaign to raise $200,000 in 30 days and people thought we were crazy. We found one man, something like Mr. Day, who gave a good subscription and headed the Citizens' Committee. The result of that campaign was that on the last day we were within $30,000 of the amount wanted, and a few gentlemen doubled their pledges, and the total raised was $202,300. I learned from Richmond some time later that $100,000 was raised for a hospital, the amount being oversubscribed.

Mr. A. H. Curtis, chairman of the Boston Business Committee, was the first speaker, saying in part:—

I am here tonight to say a word of encouragement to you, just as an ordinary business man interested in Y. M. C. A. work. Four weeks ago I knew much less about this proposition than any one present here tonight. I felt that raising one-half million dollars was a big undertaking, and it was. We had Mr. Ward with us. He had been in 42 campaigns and had never failed, and I felt that if he failed in Boston it would be the first time, and I said: He won't fail because I went back on my word. I told him if I did not do the work right it was his fault, and that is what you gentlemen want to tell him. We will work and if the thing doesn't go it will be his fault, and if it fails, there have been 42 campaigns now, it will be the first, and you people are not going to let the thing fall by any means.

The plan is sure to win, if you gentlemen take hold. That is the whole secret, having people take hold, and having them feel that each and every one will do their part. At first if they do not want to come in, get them to go into the lobbies, get them interested, and after getting them once get them to come again, and in that way the thing will grow on them and the first thing you know they will be digging in and doing splendid work.

One more thing, insist on having a good organization, that is all the men on each team doing his part just as far as you can. You are organizing here tonight, and some men may get cold feet. If they do, do not let had a good opportunity. Once and a while you can do that, but do not do it too much, because it makes a man spend half a day or more or four hours that might otherwise be devoted to some better purpose.

Another thing is this, if you are going to see some person who you know is busy or is likely to be away, or is likely to be engaged otherwise, just make an appointment with him by telephone.

We had what we called "A Flying Squadron," or men who were good "closers-in." Now you will develop some men of that kind, men who have had some experience in Y. M. C. A. work, or some men who are extremely smooth or know how to do the thing. You want to get these fellows working where they will do the best work. Do not let any one feel that one team has the whole work, but if a man can help some other team let him do it, because you want the money and that is what you are after.

One of our gentlemen who was extra good as a closer-in went with one of the workers to see a party whom we thought should give a substantial amount. The gentleman was in his private office and did not want to be the subject of the Y. M. C. A. Campaign, did not ask our man to be seated, and simply tore up the pledge card and threw it into the basket. This worker kept on talking, pumping it in the best way he could, and pretty soon he handed him another card and this was likewise torn up and thrown into the basket. That did not bother him, although he plainly understood that he was expected to terminate the interview. Finally he handed him the third card, and it ed in 10 days, $100,000 was raised for another purpose, making almost $500,000 raised in two years in a city which formerly could not raise $30,000, because they had not learned how to get together. This is the lesson, how to get together and how to work together, and every other institution benefited by it.

There is plenty of money in every American city for all public and philanthropic enterprises, in which the people believe, for which they are willing to get together. I cannot lay too great stress upon the importance of coming together every day, and by coming together every day, I hope to meet you and I think there is no question of your success.

I have sometimes said I could size up a situation from the first daily luncheon, and I could be as sure of success at that luncheon if the spirit was right, as I could at the end of the campaign. I will say tonight that my conference with Mr. Day, I am as certain of the success of this campaign as I will be at the end of the campaign.

President Allan C. Emery of the Y. M. C. A. was the next speaker, saying in part:—

We need a new building and we are going to get it because we have the right man at the head. We are going to get the new building, because it has been the pleasure of nearly 100 men, who have agreed to give all the time they can for 10 days. I am glad to report that a great many have rendered tremendous support to those who have been in charge to date, and now we are going to resign in your favor and you are going to do the rest of the work.

Mr. Day: There is another young man I think we should let you hear. He is a young man right in the work as he is next to President Emery. Any one getting next to President Emery has to be right in the work. Mr. C. L. Ellison can tell you in a few words something as to what you see in the future, if you are well equipped to carry on Y. M. C. A. work.

Mr. Ellison: It seems to me that tonight we are starting on the most important enterprise for the benefit of the young men and boys of Newton that has ever been presented. The reason I am so enthusiastic, and why I am sure you will be enthusiastic is because it is going to make possible the fullest expression of the Y. M. C. A. fundamental idea, and that fundamental idea as I understand it, from my experience, is that we take a boy as a whole man or whole boy, we do not take him in sections. The body is more than stomach and legs and arms; we take a man or boy from all stages of manhood. We take a man when he is young and can be influenced, we take him to be developed in the right sort of way. We do not intend to let him grow up and then reform him, we reform him all the time. Now the proposition we are submitting tonight is to have the Y. M. C. A. in a central place, where it can take boys from 9 to 10 years of age and give them the training they need, correct or instructive; carry him through the mature years and finally launching a well developed, ideal type of man. For that purpose we plan to erect an ample building, with swimming pool and bowling alleys in the basement, on the first floor a scientifically planned gymnasium, social rooms and recreation rooms that will make it possible for men to go in and feel at home; on the second floor we plan to have sufficient large room to be used as a hall for lectures, etc., and on the next floor a dormitory, so that young men making their living here may get board at reasonable rates and be under Christian auspices. The proposition before you this evening is to have an ample Association building, with modern equipment and adjoining athletic field, all within five minutes of different stations and Newton square. This is all true, although it may sound like a gold brick. The proposed lot of land at present is lying neglected and perhaps despised, like a stone which no jeweler has yet seen fit to cut and set. The great strength of this proposition lies just here, it is not a proposition or enterprise for six months or a year, this plan of ours is going to be operative. We are going to draw interest on the money invested twelve months in the year. It is going to be a place not merely for boys, not merely for men, it is going to be a place for all, and as we go out soliciting funds for this proposition, let me ask you and urge you to not be apologetic. If there are any apologies to be made, let them come from the other side. We have a proposition deserving support of every man. It is a business-like proposition. As one of the members of our Association says, it is a high grade, low cost proposition.

Mr. Day said: In these days we are looking at preventive measures for mankind rather than remedial. Remedies have been before us and will be after us until the corrective forces have had a chance to influence humanity and to away with all the misery, sickness, poverty and distress. But what appeals to those who have money now, men like Rockefeller in his research work, and in the other gifts given by worthy people for work in other ways, all aim at prevention, prevention is better than cure. It is better than cure in the handling of humanity, and so I speak for Association work as a work preventive.

If you take a young citizen, boy or girl in the plastic years, and by influence of your greater refinement, your finer knowledge, your experience with the world, your love shown in outgoing sympathy and advice with other work of the association such as development of the body—you do a great deal to keep the body morally upright and of clean speech and remove danger of his becoming an undesirable citizen later in his life. So I regard all these efforts of the Associations and Boys' Clubs as an absolutely economical fund, to say nothing of the religious side of it. They are going to save the community, because they are going to prevent disaster to many of our citizens.

There are a number of questions that have been asked me lately and I will read a few letters given before an Association by one of our clergymen which seem to me to strike the nail just about on the head. He says:

I have been asked to speak of the necessity and benefit of a Y. M. C. A. in the city of Newton.

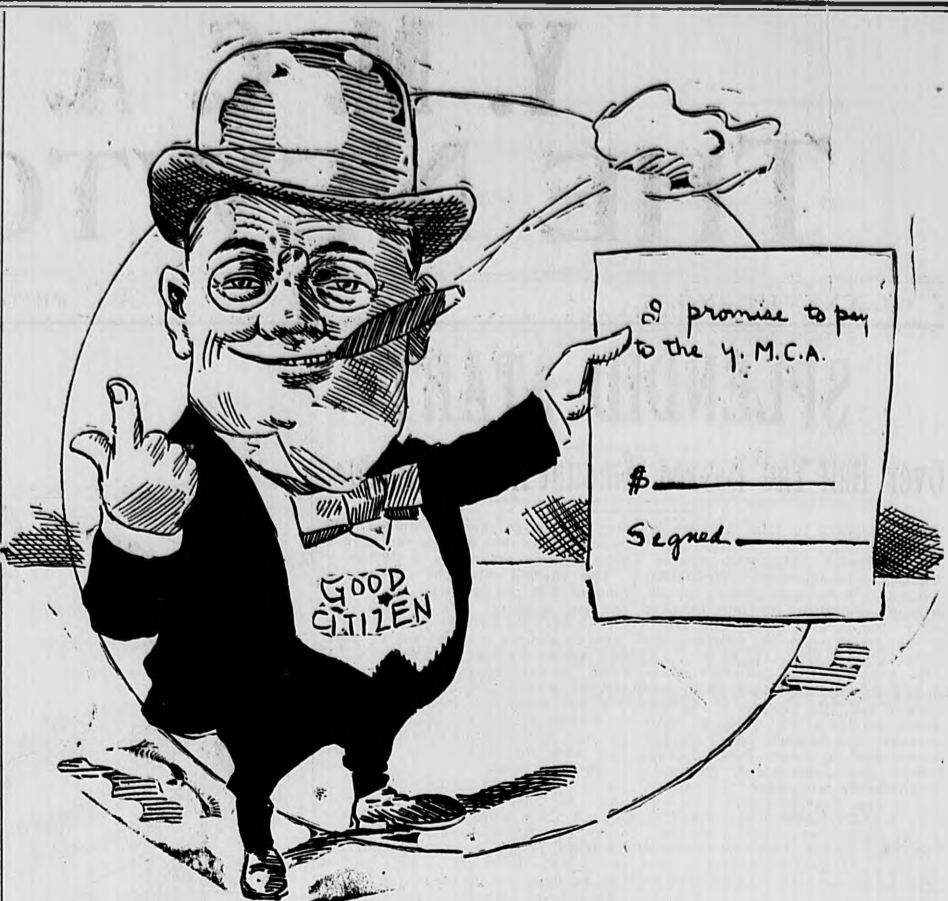

Three arguments have been made to me, by men whom I respect and whose judgments I usually endorse, why such an institution is not needed in our city or at least why a new building is unnecessary. These arguments I will answer as I understand them and the case.

(1) First they say that Newton is a suburb with beautiful homes and cultured people. There is not a large class of boarders who would need a social club not many foreigners needing to be Americanized; not a shifting population like a factory town. Hence there is less need of such an institution as the Y. M. C. A.

The answer to this argument is that such critics mistake the purpose of the Association. It is not a social mission, it is a Salvation Army. It is to train leaders. Its appeal is to the average man. It takes a young man of good traditions and makes him a four-square so that he will be a force for righteousness in the community. There are young men in the city of Newton today who are doing large work for the city in their influence on other young men, who were inspired and trained for leadership in the Newton Y. M. C. A. If this is the purpose of the Association, then Newton is a most fruitful field of operation for we have a large number of young men who are the best material from which to make leaders.

(2) Again, it is asserted that the churches should do the work that the Y. M. C. A. does. Each church should care for its own young men and not delegate that work to an outside institution.

My answer is, that this is just what the church is doing and it is doing it in the most economical and efficient way by supporting the Y. M. C. A. for this purpose. If an individual church were to care for its own young men it would need a thoroughly equipped parish house with gymnasium, swimming pool, game rooms and all that makes up a modern Association building. It would cost nearly as much to create it as it does to run the Y. M. C. A. for the whole city. And if one church had such an equipment, all other churches would be forced to have the same of work as a disadvantage in trying to hold their young men. We believe it is wiser to make such a waste of money as would be necessary in that case when one central plant can be erected at a minimum cost and do the work for all the churches. Furthermore, it is too late in the history of Christian endeavor to talk of dividing the work on denominational lines when we are trying to forget our differences and let the name "Christian" overshadow all. We want to get together on common ground and the Y. M. C. A. has done and is doing much to accomplish this desired end.

(3) Third, it is asked if the present equipment is not adequate for our present need. Let the work become so large that it will crowd us out of our old quarters before we talk a new building.

Is that the way any business enlarges? Does the man operating a factory wait till he is crowded out of his old plant before he builds a larger? Does the physician or lawyer stay in a small village till he has so much practice that he cannot handle it and then decide to move to the city? No, the owner of a plant is sure that he has a good thing and is confident he can operate the larger equipment successfully and so he builds larger and creates the demand for his goods. The professional man is conscious that he has the stuff in him to handle a larger practice and so removes to the place where it can be built up. Just so the Y. M. C. A. is conscious that it is not doing its best for the city of Newton and it asks for an adequate equipment to do the best work that the organization is capable of doing. It has something that the public needs and it would enlarge its plant and its output.

With a new plant built on modern lines the Y. M. C. A. would become the center of the city's recreation. With the gymnasium and other indoor advantages together with an up-to-date athletic field employing a trained instructor it could supervise the physical exercise of the youth of our city. If one cares to know the importance of such a work, read what President Stanley Hall said recently at the Charities meeting in Boston about the value of exercise in keeping a boy's life clean; or let Dr. Cabot tell what he thinks about the value of play and the necessity of supervision so that boys shall play rightly.

With the new building that is contemplated there will be a healthy social center for young men. There are to be dormitories for some forty-five young men. These will be filled, for the very opportunity of such rooms will bring young men to town if there is not a sufficient number now desiring such accommodations. Such a body of strong Christian young men living in the building will create a social center that will be a splendid atmosphere into which the boys of the community can come.

And last, but far from least, the new building will open up the opportunity for a strong religious work. The present religious work of the Association is weak and no one recognizes it more than the leaders in the work. But it is weak because there is nothing helpful or inspiring in the place of meeting. With a large, bright, cheerful assembly room with pastors and Christian workers would put their shoulders to the wheel to get the best speakers that can be had and hold a series of vital services each winter. There are men like Fred B. Smith who have a masculine message that moves men mightily and from large gatherings addressed by such men untold uplift would come to our city.

I honestly believe that as a civic movement viewed from any standpoint, no possible investment of $150,000 could be made that would bring as large returns as a modern and model home for the Newton Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Day then made the following announcement:—
The Trustees of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association and the Executive Committee composed of members of both Trustees and Direc-ors—have to report the gift of a tract of land free and unencumbered, of some comprising approximately 6 acres, situated on Church street, between Bellevue street and Oakland street, being the Boston & Albany Railroad of over 4 acres and the Lewis-Farnum-Newcomb (two pieces) and Fetschle & Baker estates, and representing a value of $30,000.

Also pledges aggregating $20,200, or total of $50,200.

This announcement was greeted with great applause, and maps showing the location were displayed at each end of the hall.

Mr. Day then read the names of the donors as follows:

Don. Gorham D. Gilman..... $200
Two trus. res. lot of land..... 30,000
Hiram E. Barker..... 5,000
Francis M. Burdock..... 5,000
I. A. Wilder..... 5,000
Joseph E. Merrill estate..... 2,500
V. T. Rich..... 1,000
A. Friend..... 1,500

Mr. Emery then stated that the gift of the land costing $30,000 was from Frank A. Day and Mr. James E. Clark, and the announcement was received with cheers, the audience standing and becoming most enthusiastic.

After the formal adjournment, the various teams gathered about their tables and scanned lists of Newton residents from whom subscriptions will be solicited.

A large clock has been placed on the front of Elliot hall, to indicate the total subscriptions, $150,000 being at twelve o'clock.

The first subscription to be received after the campaign was formally launched Wednesday evening was a voluntary one of $100 cash, handed to general secretary H. W. Bascom at the Association building the following morning. A gentleman called about 6 o'clock and asked if the office was open for business. He was assured that it was. He gave Mr. Bascom the bill mentioned, requesting that his name be not disclosed. He is the same gentleman who visited the headquarters of the Boston campaign and gave ten one hundred dollar bills.

The organization of the campaign is as follows: Executive head, C. S. Vard of International Committee, Y. M. C. A. Citizens committee of one hundred, Frank A. Day, chairman; Hon. George Hutchinson, Hon. John V. Weeks, Hon. Seward W. Jones, Hon. H. E. Bonfield, Hon. E. W. Warren, Hon. Marcus Mott, Hon. Samuel L. Powers, Hon. H. E. Hibbard, Charles F. Avery, Lewis H. made now is worth twice as much as if it were held until the last hour. We hope that the citizens of Newton will be ready to sign a card when the work is called, as the time being given to the movement is a great strain on those engaged in it. The widow's mite is as welcome as the millionaire's thousands. We appeal to all to give now and thus give twice."

International Secretary, C. S. Ward, states it will be a great victory for Newton to finish the campaign Wednesday of this week and will establish two world's records. These will be, the securing of such a large fund in so short a time, and the cutting down of the original number of days specified. "If Newton does this," he said, "it will be an example for all Associations to follow, and the people of this city have proved themselves to be so public-spirited that they can do it, and I am sure they will."

The enthusiasm at the evening meetings has agreeably surprised all stirred by the enterprise for a new Y. M. C. A. building, and that the hopes of numbers have been fulfilled. Visitors from Boston have added to the interest of the meetings. These have included John P. Bates who gave $20,000 to the Boston campaign; A. S. Johnson, President of the Boston Y. M. C. A., who gave $30,000 to the Boston campaign; S. B. Carter, captain of the team that raised the largest amount in the Boston campaign; Alexander Dobbs, Publisher of the Christian Science Monitor; J. S. Wiley, captain of the team that raised the second largest amount in the Boston campaign; State Association Secretary E. W. Hearne and George W. Mahaffey, General Secretary of the Boston Y. M. C. A.

The General Secretary, Mr. H. W. Bascom, voices the sentiments of the other leaders about the necessity of giving promptly and every one giving according as he is able, regardless of amount. He urges those who have not subscribed to bring, send or telephone their gifts to the Y. M. C. A. building. The telephone numbers are 57-3 and 1150 Newton North. Upon request a member of the committees will call for a subscription.

Your Duty Is Plain.

You men who have no sons can average things a bit for the boys who have no fathers—for the sons of widows and of invalids—the little men with big family duties, dragged away from the school desk and the playground and set down in life's battle ground. Theirs is a cold gray spring-time with the burdens of manhood stooping the shoulders of childhood.

Many of them are children of gentlefolk, with the blind instinct for better things and the inborn impulse to attain them. How many will be strong enough to survive their environment—to keep their heritage of bread—to withstand the pressure of lowering companionship—how long will it be before the merciless, brutalizing grind of creating profits to pay for YOUR luxuries, shall deprive them of their fineness and their type—before the current proves stronger than the swimmer?

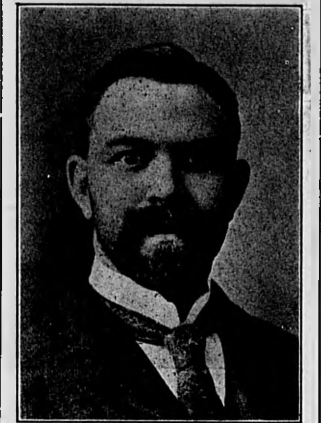

The Y. M. C. A. wants these boys in its classrooms and its gymnasiums—to give them a vista, to bring the traveler and the lecturer and instructor to them, to set them at the pulleys and the dumbbells, to strengthen their sinews, their morals and their minds.

It wants EVERY boy who SHOULD come to its doors, BUT THE DOORS CAN'T OPEN AS WIDE AS ITS AMBITION.

Its mission is greater than its resources.

How many boys without fathers are YOU willing to father—how many widows' sons will you help? How many such educations will you furnish? Not only as a duty to God and humanitarianism, but to yourself—as a chance to set down a credit entry on the ledgers of conscience—to counterbalance AT LEAST ONE DEBIT CHARGE THERE.

If you are ever beaten it will be by your own self. Nobody else can beat you.

After the reports of the Y. M. C. A. campaign were made Monday evening—the leaders stated that every possible subscription would be needed to secure the $150,000. "We are holding nothing back," said Mr. Frank A. Day, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee, "and are trying to shorten the time to relieve the strain upon the busy men who volunteered their services to put through this big undertaking, and we hope that every one who has not subscribed, and can give something, will do so at once to encourage the men and enable them to finish the task the middle of this week. All gifts are welcome, regardless of the amount. They can be brought or telephoned to the headquarters in the Y. M. C. A."

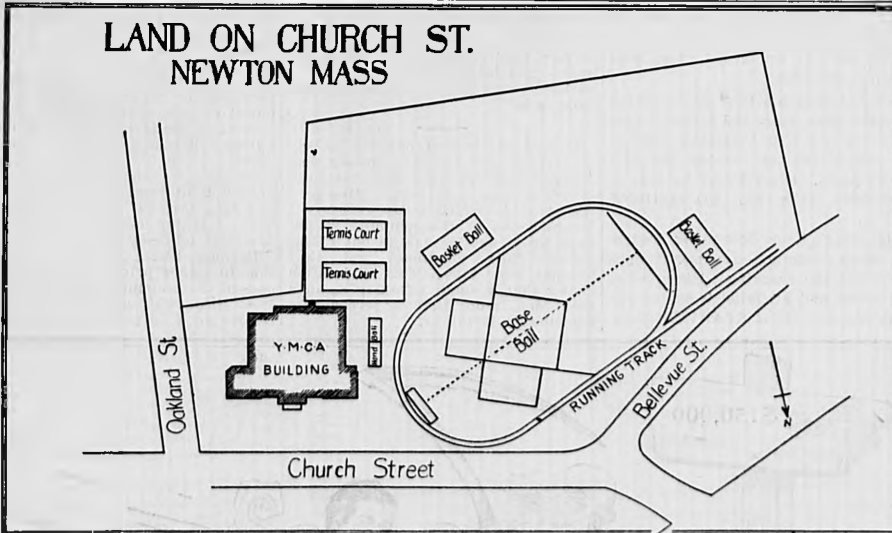

President Allan C. Emery was equally emphatic about the necessity of giving at once. "A subscription Team E—Robert P. West, captain; Hartwell Greene, Carey Moore, William Breed, Gordon Adams, Allan Raymond, Robert Raymond, Gordon Lyford, Charles Lyford, Roger Ellis.

THE Y. M. C. A.

What is the Young Men's Christian Association?

It is a high-grade, low-cost Young Men's Club—Christian but non-sectarian.

It is an athletic organization that does not use men to promote athletics, but uses athletics to develop men.

It is a night school for young men that work by day.

It is a home for young men away from home.

It helps young men not only to help themselves, but to help the other fellow.

It is a place for a young man to find friends and to make himself a friend to the man who needs friends.

It is controlled by representatives of Churches. This keeps it a Christian organization, but prevents it from becoming another Church.

It has united in its management Churches which, though differing in creed, have found by experience that they can join without controversy or friction in the doing of religious work.

This enables it to teach the Bible and to make practical use of Christian forces in helping young men.

Its fellowship, club-rooms, gymnasium, baths, classes and all other practical advantages are open to all young men, of all faiths or of no faith.

It is not an experiment, but is the survivor of many experiments. While other young men's organizations, social, athletic, educational, ethical and even religious, have failed, this has succeeded and is now in successful operation in over eight thousand places in North America and throughout the world.—Charles K. Ober.

EVERY ONE CAN HELP.

"Who may contribute to the Y. M. C. A. fund?" is a question that has been asked some of the solicitors. Their answer in substance is as follows: "The appeal is made to every one, from the millionaire to the humble laborer for sums of any amount within his means and when the work is done and the structure is completed the Newton Young Men's Christian Association will be prepared to offer to every man and to every man's son, a building with an open door, dedicated and devoted to the young men and boys of Newton for the development of a sound mind in a sound body and a consecrated life."

WALTER GILLIAM,
Boys' Secretary.

Suppose You Came To Boston.

With your heart full of home-hunger and your mind fixed on the rainbow—a boy on the doorstep of his maturity, unknown, unknowing; where would you go—what would you do—how would you pass your nights? What would it mean to join heart and brain and hope with a thousand other cadets of fortune ALREADY in moral leash—to avoid white light mirages—to keep from the lures of the street? What would it mean to bring your tired body to a cozy room, or lose the day's weariness in a glorious plunge and then, refreshed, attend an educational class or mingle with elders who regard their life-knowledge as a stewardship for the next generation? The Y. M. C. A. COULD do this for you—IS doing it for thousands of boys who come to Boston to win or lose their life-fight. It is making them strong enough to SUCCEED by keeping them from growing WEAK. It is raising the average of Boston's citizenship—forming an yeast with which to ferment her tomorrow with BETTERMENT. Its work is a great work, but its FUNDS are not great enough to CARRY IT ON. It must raise money—NOW! MUCH—

The Boy Who Plays After Dark.

He doesn't "line 'em out" over the shortstop's head or kick the piskin to goal; he doesn't throw a fishing pole over his shoulder and go whistling down a country lane to the perch pond and the swimming hole—arc lamps light different games than sunshine.

His playfellows aren't the sort with whom you'd like YOUR boys to roam—they know too much that should be foreign to them—the morbid banal phases of life from which you protect YOUR lads as you guard them from physical infection.

All day long his feet go stumbling over the office, store and factory treadmill. He is a pitiful HUMAN DOG in the wheel that is turning his boyhood's profit. His TO-DAY belongs to you—you don't take his TO-MORROW with it.

He doesn't know how many dreams are worth dreaming—how many hopes are worth the yearning. His muscles are flabby and his mind is shrivelling from disuse. He is STARVED of exercise, books and ethics—all the helpings which the Y. M. C. A. COULD extend to him if the Y. M. C. A. could only extend ITSELF.

No matter what latent seeds of ability are in him, or what basic physical strength he possesses, he is hopelessly handicapped if he is not taught how to use and develop the natural resources which he owns.

The Y. M. C. A. isn't as big as the Y. M. C. A.'s USEFULNESS—not one-tenth, big enough, not one-hundredth big enough, its ambition to extend is as great as its inability to expand. It can't give enough boys a chance because too many men who have had their chance own bad memories.

How about you? How much can you give for the "boys who play after dark"? How much WILL you give? A month's cigar money may mean a career for some little fellow. Sit down and figure a bit.

If you're rich, send in as much as you OUGHT to contribute—if you're not, as much as you can AFFORD to give.

SMALL AMOUNTS WELCOMED.

A small subscription is as welcome as the large ones. International Secretary, Mr. C. S. Ward, who has conducted more than forty small "short term" campaigns, state that their uniform success is largely due to the fact that every one gives according as he or she is able. The gifts in these movements vary from $1.00 to $50,000. The mite is just as welcome as the large contribution. Emphasis is placed by leaders of the movement upon the time allowed for payment of subscriptions. A man who can give a certain amount in cash now, can very probably give four times that amount if he is allowed time enough to liquidate the obligation.

The payments are quarterly at intervals of six months, the first not being due until Jan. 1, 1910. The subscriber has the option of paying the entire amount at any time that he wishes, before the last quarterly payment is due.

During the Boston canvass, a lady who could not give any money contributed eight string boxes, the total of which was quite small. However, the spirit in which these were given inspired one of the captains to put them up at auction sale at one of the regular daily meetings, and they brought over $100. This illustration shows that a small gift may mean a great deal more than a person who contributes it thinks.

You Can Do Anything With A Boy.

Youth is malleable. Like moist clay, it can be shaped and reshaped, up to the time it becomes hardened. The Y. M. C. A. is taking youth in the clay and molding it into the highest type of manhood. It is shaping the body in its gymnasium—the mind in its educational classes—the soul in its ethical courses.

Thew and sinew, brain and heart, must ALL be cared for in the creation of STRENGTH. Men must fight life physically, mentally and morally.

No matter what a boy's origin may be, no matter what handicaps have checked his start, no matter what environment has darkened his viewpoint, he can find the path to achievement if he can discern the guide post and secure the strength to endure to the goal.

The Y. M. C. A. is setting men in the right direction in every city of the land, but nowhere has its work been more telling and more beneficent than in Boston. It has remoulded thousands who needed its help, until now it, TOO, needs help. It must have MORE FUNDS if it is to grow as its USEFULNESS.

HAROLD EUSTIS,
Captain Team C.

WHY CONTRIBUTE?

"Why should I support the Y. M. C. A.?" is a question sometimes asked by business men whom the Y. M. C. A. solicitors visit. The reasons are legion. Some of them are as follows:

Because it is the only resort in Newton open to young men seven days in the week that is free from the many influences at work to ruin young men.

Because it is the best substitute for the home which thousands of young men are able to find, and because many homes need the supplemental influences which are at work in the Association.

Because it is an effective educating and restraining influence.

Because it furnishes recreation, and provides for the physical, social and moral welfare of the young man.

Because many of any, or of no religious belief, are welcome to its privileges.

Because it helps all churches and does not interfere with any of them, and is a training school in Christian work, teaching men how to work in a practical, efficient manner.

Because, like a college, the association furnishes privileges much in excess of the amount of money received from those who enjoy the privileges. Otherwise a large proportion of the membership could not avail themselves of these privileges.

Because the Association is teaching and helping a constituency greatly in excess of the membership. The reading-room, religious meetings, lectures, time of the secretaries, etc., are at the disposal of the public and are used liberally by a very large number who could not pay for the privileges if a higher fee were charged.

SOME REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD HELP RAISE THAT $150,000.

THE RELIGION OF MANHOOD.

By Herbert Kaufman.

The Y. M. C. A. has a broader aim than CRED and wider ambition than SECT. It preaches self-respect. It weaves an ethical and moral web into the warp of life. It is building stronger bodies to hold saner and cleaner minds. It is bringing education to those whose premature responsibilities forced them to forego its earlier acquirement. Its latching string fits into the hand of ALL MEN, irrespective of race, religion or lineage. Its Christianity strikes the clear note of HUMANITARIANISM. What precepts are made in its halls are those of brotherhood.

With one hand it is striving to help the struggler up the slope and with the other it is steadying the laggard and the disheartened. It has done more to impregnate young men with betterment than any single force ever brought to bear upon youth.

In no city of the world has it accomplished so much as in Boston. Its activity has been so great that its facilities are now utterly inadequate. It knows thousands whom it could help if the helping funds could be secured, without which the organization must remain circumscribed.

The Y. M. C. A. does not ASK for charity nor plead for ALMS. Its usefulness exalts it to a civic dignity. It is a servant of the PUBLIC and its obligation to the future MUST become the obligation OF the public.

It can only live by taxation—a tax which must be SELF-IMPOSED by those whose prosperity and humanity awaken them to lift the handicap of poverty from boys whose duties and misfortunes have deprived them of a FAIR START IN LIFE.

DRAPER SWAN,
Captain Team A.

The Boy Whom The Fathers Forget.

The Y. M. C. A. is not a civic institution in the sense that it is supported by municipal or national taxation. But it is a civic body in that it is accomplishing a civic duty and fulfilling a civic need.

It is as necessary in its field of endeavor as the public school and the State university, because its mission is identical with theirs—the betterment of American citizenship.

It is educating boys to be strong in brains, strong in body and strong in soul. It is giving them culture in its EDUCATIONAL classes—thew, sinew and good red blood in its GYMNASIUM, morality in its ETHICAL COURSES. It is helping them not only to be brighter men, but also to be better men and mightier men.

It has grown to be a powerful factor in city life, because the reason for its existence is powerful—because, however wisely the fathers of the Nation planned the welfare of those who could spend their boyhood in school and at play, they made no provision for the little fellows whose poverty and misfortunes burden their childhood with the harness of commerce.

As our cities grow, the growth of the Y. M. C. A. must be commensurate. It has already outgrown its resources in Boston. It calls for support and deserves it. It makes its appeal with the same right and in the same spirit that the STATE makes its demand upon every just citizen to contribute his share toward the maintenance of every function which insures the highest type of Americanism.

"Physical efficiency means that condition of body in which it responds most readily to the will. The maximum amount of work with the minimum amount of fatigue—an essential condition for men in business and professional life. This efficiency of the body is dependent upon exercise. Physically speaking, exercise manufactures efficiency by improving the conditions under which the different organs carry on their activities, enabling one to sleep more restfully, breathe more deeply, digest more completely. By improving the circulation through exercise the wastes of the body are more readily dispensed of, thereby removing a very potent cause of disease."

"Exercise postpones old age—that time when one ceases to be of real value to his employer. A man is just as old as he feels. By renewing the tissues through improved circulation, exercise makes it possible for one to continue to feel young and to retain the elasticity of youth well on into life, instead of losing it, as is so often done, at the age of 40. Exercise is the sine qua non of a lengthy commercial or professional life."

"Because one has kept out of bed and out of the doctor's hands, it does not signify that such a one is healthy—any more than a man who keeps out of jail is honest. The fact of the matter is that neither has been caught. Every day men are piling from their reserve health account, intending to return it some day by what they call 'a well-earned rest,' at which time they find they are too late."

EVERY DENOMINATION HERE.

The cosmopolitan character of the membership of the Newton Y. M. C. A. is indicated by a tabulation of figures that was issued a few days before the campaign started. It indicates that practically every section of the Newtons has young men and boys taking advantage of the opportunities afforded at the Association quarters, and that also practically all the religious denominations are represented. The membership which is four hundred and twenty-five, classified as to location is as follows:

Newton 259, Newtonville 19, Newton Centre 14, Waltham 7, West Newton 20, Watertown 59, Auburndale 5, Brighton 29, Boston 1, Upper Falls 3, Lower Falls 3, Newton Highlands 10. Classified according to church preference, the membership is as follows: Methodist 55, Congregational 107, Unitarian 21, Episcopal 40, Baptist 88, Catholic 96, Presbyterian 19, Disciples 1. No preference given 19, Jewish 1.

Help Yourself By Helping Others.

You men who employ boys in your offices and stores and shops want THINKERS, not SHRINKERS—WORKERS, not SHIRKERS. You'd rather keep men who keep pace with your growth, who rise from the rudiments to be directing heads. Such men are worth most to you. Their scars of experience, once acquired, do not have to be duplicated in a string of successors, each of whom must make SIMILAR bulls and mistakes at your expense. But atrophied, anaemic frames do not generate staying power.

Stunted, undeveloped minds are not capable of initiative. The man whose moral fiber has not been wrought and shaped is not to be trusted with the fullest responsibility—morality is not an instinct, but a product of environment.

Only the boy who possesses strength within himself can lend strength to your organization. While he is giving you his YOUTH, give him the opportunity to give you a broader, a more useful and a more profitable

MANHOOD.

The Y. M. C. A. is adding the temper of character to thousands of young men who need its gymnasium for their bodies, its night EDUCATIONAL CLASSES for their brains, and its ethical influence for their CHARACTER UPLIFT.

The more men it can help, the better it can help the commerce of the city. But its growth has been so rapid that its present resources are now too small. It needs money to carry on its work. Help YOURSELF by helping the Y. M. C. A. to help some of YOUR boys.

The Pillar And The Paving Block.

A boy in his big teens and little twenties is like a piece of granite ready to be hewn by circumstances into a pillar or a paving block.

There are young men—thousands of them—whose elders are not able to control their destiny because they have neither the means nor the mentality nor the experience for the guidance.

There are youths who have had to be FATHERS IN DUTY while CHILDREN IN YEARS. Some who have been thrown into the swirl of city life by the countless streams that pour the boys of the farmlands and the villages into the broad current of urban uncertainty.

What are we to do with this mass of immature manhood—capable of everything—likely to be anything?

The Y. M. C. A. can take these "men in the rough" and hew them into mental strength and physical strength and moral strength.

It can teach them the big issues of life and conscience, show them how to find themselves—quicken their brains and their hearts and their souls, and awaken their self-reliance.

The Y. M. C. A. is the MOST VITAL FORCE in America's CIVIC TOMORROW. It has been so active and its work has been so broad that it has outgrown itself. It needs a great deal of money, because there is great need for its influence. It MUST have MORE FUNDS to build a new home if it is to do more good.

Judge Gary's Words.

"I am glad to declare my belief in the advantages of having a Young Men's Christian Association in an industrial community as tending greatly to the building up of character of the men and therefore increasing their efficiency," wrote the chairman of the Board of Directors of the United State Steel Co.

Additional evidence of friendly interest and confidence in the Association is now shown by Judge Gary's gift of a $100,000 building for the city of Gary, Ind. This new magic steel city is located at the south end of Lake Michigan, 25 miles from the center of Chicago.

The works will ultimately employ 15,000 men, which means that the city of Gary will have from 75,000 to 100,000 inhabitants.

The steel plant is constructed on an area of 1,000 acres, fronting on the lake, and consists of eight 450 tons per day blast furnaces, fifty 60-ton open hearth furnaces, estimated to produce 225,000 tons of ingot per month, rail mill, estimated to produce 100,000 tons of rails per month, billet mill, estimated to produce 100,000 tons of billets per month, 48 inch universal plate mill, 160 inch sheared plate mill, merchant mills with capacity of 50,000 tons per month, axle plant, mechanical shops and office.

You Men Who Were Country Boys.

You men who were country boys, and came to Boston to win your fortune remember how hard it was to stand the nights. Hall bedrooms aren't very cheerful in the lamp-glow.

You wanted company—amusement, anything to break the awful loneliness and monotony. YOU came through safe, YOU had the moral, mental and physical strength to survive. Perhaps you met the right girl in time, but think back and recall some of the boys who were your friends then—WHO GOT IN WRONG AND WHO NEVER CAME OUT RIGHT.

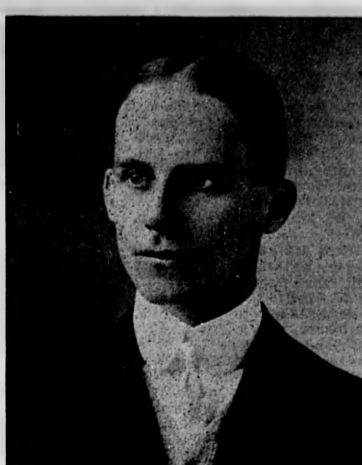

What would it have meant for you in those days to have had a reading room, a gymnasium, a swimming pool, night educational classes, lectures and talks by men who had traveled and who had achieved?

What would it have meant to the boys who didn't succeed, who might have been helped to help themselves—to keep clean minds and sound bodies?

MR. F. W. GANSE,
Captain Team 5.

Boys are still coming from the country, nights still be passed, ambition is still STRONG in the big teens and little twenties.

Don't you think that you ought to help dig the "safe thoroughfare"? The Y. M. C. A. has outgrown its building just because it hasn't outgrown its usefulness. Those INSIDE its doors aren't one, two, three to the number waiting on the steps.

It needs money for American manhood, to keep cleanliness in youth—to broaden brains and backs.

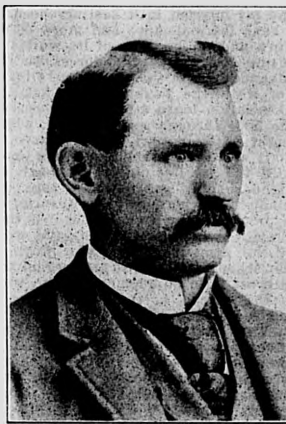

It needs some of YOUR money—as much as you can afford to give. It needs it badly—NOW.

A SUGGESTION.

In many of the larger cities special features or departments in the Association building have been used as individual memorials. In many cases substantial gifts have been made to the Association for the purpose of equipping the educational department, the auditorium, the gymnasium or some other distinctive feature. This plan has been followed at Evansville, where Mr. Rozencrans, a prominent manufacturer, equipped the educational department; at St. Louis, where the heirs of Mr. Sewell equipped the educational department in his memory; at Cedar Rapids, where Mr. and Mrs. Soutter equipped the physical department in memory of their son; at Newark, where the heirs of Mr. Wallace equipped the auditorium in memory of their father; at Hartford, where Mr. and Mrs. Hillyer equipped the educational department in their own memory, and in many other similar institutions which might be mentioned.

A wishbone won't do a man much good unless along with it goes a deal of backbone.

COME ON IN, THE WATER'S FINE.

Women's Clubs

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

The Massachusetts State Federation will hold its autumn meeting at Brockton in the Porter church, Main street, on Thursday, November 11, at 10 o'clock. At the morning session Benjamin C. Marsh will speak on "Conditions of Congestion in American Cities" and Rev. John Hopkins Denison on "Significance of the Boston 1915 Movement." At the afternoon session there will be an illustrated lecture upon "The City Beautiful: the Ideal and its Realization," by Dr. George Kriebel of New York.

Special train leaves Boston at 9 A. M., returning at 4 P. M. Tickets, 60 cents for round trip, good only on special train. Box luncheon. Tea and coffee may be secured at a nominal price.

Federation interests centered in Dorchester on October 29th, when the presidents of clubs, the officers and committees of the Massachusetts State Federation, and the chairman of club committees harmonizing with the State committees met for the Presidents' Conference at the Dorchester Woman's Club House. The president of the Dorchester Woman's Club, Mrs. M. L. Thacher, as hostess, greeted the guests and Miss George A. Bacon, president of the State Federation, responded in her usual happy manner. The afternoon was given up to a consideration of ways in which the Work of the Federation may be adapted to local needs. Representatives from various clubs who have carried out work suggested by committees of the Federation told of their success or discouragements.

Several clubs in different districts have interested themselves in providing better lunches at their high schools others have carried on playgrounds. More than one of the speakers expressed the need that the individual women should have opportunity to know at first hand more of the real work of the Federation. As all cannot attend the regular meetings the request was made for district meetings and conferences. The president of the Walpole Woman's Club told how they were solving that problem by arranging for a neighborhood meeting. Last year Miss Bacon was present on that occasion, but this year they could not have her, but should have some of the committee chairmen.

Miss Bacon stated in this connection that it is impossible for her to accept all invitations, so that she has made the rule this year not to visit any clubs that she did last year.

Mrs. S. D. Marshall of the Delaware Federation was present as a guest and brought greetings from her state to the women of Massachusetts. She impressed upon their minds to how great an extent other club women are looking to Massachusetts for help and inspiration.

Following these the chairman of various standing committees spoke briefly of plans which they are arranging for the assistance of the clubs in carrying out the different lines of work for bettering conditions in their communities. The chairman of the Press committee gave a few

ATHLETIC CHRISTIANS.

"Christianity in athletics to develop athletic Christians," is the way in which the object of the physical department of the Young Men's Christian Association might be put, tersely.

This phase of Association activities, including the gymnasium classes, outdoor sports, instruction in swimming and the like, is one of the most attractive to young men. It is only natural to find that the majority of the members of an Association boost the physical department. The necessity of making provision for young men engaged in sedentary occupations to take systematic exercise is too obvious to require explanation. Better provision cannot be found than indicated by the following thoughts on physical efficiency expressed by an Association physical director:

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN.

The Electric Show, which will be held in Mechanics Building on Huntington Avenue in Boston during the ten days from November 15 to 25, excepting Sunday and including Thanksgiving Day, will be a remarkable opportunity for school children in Greater Boston to familiarize themselves with the latest things in electricity.

Everybody knows how enthusiastic the young people are about electricity. The boys are interested in the wireless and in the application of electric motor power to their toys and real machines. The girls are growing up with an appreciation of the electrical appliances for labor saving in housekeeping. They appreciate perhaps more than the boys do how fine it is going to be able to use electric cooking appliances for regular home work and for their entertaining. All of these things that the boys are making play-things of now have a definite practical value. They not only keep the youngsters interested, but give a familiarity which will be valuable as the children grow into the electric age.

All of the latest practical inventions will be exhibited at the Electric Show. The manufacturers of electric apparatus are practically all represented in the long list of exhibitors. More floor space has been taken for this exhibition than has been taken for any electric show previously given in this country. The shows in Chicago and New York during the past few years have attracted almost world-wide attention. The show in Boston will surpass all of these.

The Edison Electric Illuminating Company is making special provision for the entertainment of its customers and friends. The company has reserved the largest space taken by any one exhibitor in the show. This space will be devoted to an Italian Garden, beautifully laid out with fountains, water gardens, flowers and plants in abundance and wonderful lighting effects. Each city and town in the Edison Company's territory will be personally represented by a young lady, selected for her peculiar fitness for the position and because she is an active representative of the place. These young ladies will be dressed in Italian costume. They will not be there to demonstrate appliances nor to sell anything to the visitors. Their duty will be to make each one feel at home and realize that the Edison Company has a personal interest in the comfort and welfare of every person living within the territory covered by its service.

Representatives of the Edison Company will be on duty every hour the show is open, between 10 A. M. and 10 P. M. They will act as personal guides for visitors to the show, taking them from place to place and pointing out the exhibits and explaining their uses. This means that every visitor to the Edison section who cares for a personally conducted tour of the show will be certain to see everything and know accurately what the different apparatus can be used for.

The genius who grafted a milkweed on a strawberry vine and produced a plant yielding strawberries and cream, needs only to graft this marvel on sugar-cane to outdo Burbank.

Cheery hearts and smiling faces, Gentle speech and ways, Make a cloudy, dull Thanksgiving Sunniest of days.

Safety For Your Estate

Our method of administering estates and trust funds has not only all the advantages of an individual trusteeship, but other points of superiority that one-man direction cannot have. Sickness, accident or death cannot endanger a trust confided to us, because no one man is responsible for it. Our executive board act together, and are ready for business every business day in the year.

Every investment made, or other important action taken, represents the collective wisdom of a group of men expert in trust management, and their services cost an estate no more than it would pay an individual.

All our securities are officially inspected three times a year. We give bonds equal to twice the amount of the personal property of an estate we administer; and these bonds are backed by a guarantee of $4,500,000. An individual acting as executor or trustee rarely is required to give security.

LARGE GIFTS ELSEWHERE.

In the face of the industrial depression last year Y. M. C. A. buildings that will cost approximately $9,000,000 were started. A building will be completed with comparative ease in a panic, but it is another matter to begin the erection of one. The cost of the new "manhood factories" will vary from the $10,000 association home at Greenville, Ky., to the three-quarter of a million plant at San Francisco. Large gifts were received in the year by the score. Here is a list of some of them:

HIGH PRAISE.

In addressing a large public gathering, President Taft gave the following endorsement of the Young Men's Christian Association:

"I have been connected with the

IS YOUR SUBSCRIPTION IN?

Young Men's Christian Association from the time of my young manhood, and my interest in it has increased as I have learned more and more of its work and of the aims of its work. It is one of the organized forces for the advancement of the Christian religion. For while the Young Men's Christian Association looks after the interest of the body through a gymnasium, which ought to be a part of each association; while the Association is in touch with the intellectual life through its night schools and classes, that are conducted wherever the Association is properly supported; while it is thus interested in supplementing the work of the gymnasium and the work of the school, its highest and paramount interest is in supplementing the work of the church, in the work of reaching the hearts of men.

The Association is an economic advantage in every city, because it is cheaper to keep men from doing wrong than to reform them in penitentiaries after they have done wrong. Purely from the standpoint of economics, people living in a city could well afford to assist in the work of the Association. First it throws around young men influences that are purifying; but if it were not for the body of Christian men who are interested in the Association, because of their interest in the Christian religion, there would be no nucleus around which public opinion could gather, as it is gathered around this Association."

Possible Civic Advantages of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The new Young Men's Christian Association, with its building and up-to-date equipment, will aid in two great social and civic problems. First, it will give on its new athletic field an opportunity for man and boy to give fullest expression to the play instinct. The field could be opened on certain days to the public, when under proper supervision, those who cannot enjoy the full privileges of the Association could have a chance to use the field and its equipment. In that way it would serve the community as a civic playground under the best of supervision. Second, it would be able to teach the young men and boys of Newton and vicinity the great economic loss of life every year through accidental drowning. In its spacious pool, it would be able, on certain days, to give free lessons to every boy who cannot swim. Every year in the United States about 4,000 young men and boys die through accidental drowning, occurring from the lack of knowledge of instruction in swimming or the simplest methods of resuscitation.

At a recent meeting of the Physical Directors' Society of North America, held at Omaha, Neb., it was resolved to attempt to teach every boy in the United States to swim. In Brooklyn last summer eight hundred boys were taught to swim under the Association auspices. In Montreal two hundred and fifty were taught in the river and Association pool. In Philadelphia thirty volunteer leaders from the Association taught twelve hundred boys to swim. In many other cities life saving is taught. The Association of the country have two hundred forty pools and five hundred physical directors, with thousands of volunteer leaders to assist in the saving of young men and boys from a preventable death. All this the local Young Men's Christian Association can do with its new equipment.

Respectfully,
WM. MAPHERSON,
Physical Director.

A HOME FOR THE BOYS.

A home for the Y. M. C. A. boys, and you want to help, you say? Well, I'm a lad from the country lanes, and I'll pitch right in today. To help the fund with a ready will, with earnestness and glee, For I know what it did, when I came to town, for a country lad like me. I know how its hand reached out for mine, how it took me in from harm: How it held me tight as a friend in need when I came up here from the farm; How it helped me follow the righteous ways and leave the evil haunts, And steered me clear of the lips that leer and the sinfulness that taunts.

Help it to build? Well, I should say! I know what it does to keep the young men true and the young men high and to lift them out of the deep: I know how it reaches the manliest chord of the manliest young man's heart, And helps him to 'stablish his life's success right up from the very start: How it welcomes the youth from the little town and the lad from the tangled lane, And fills him with hope and guidance and guards from evils that tempt and stain; How even the wrecks who have gone astray, when clasped in its friendly hold, Have purged themselves of their usefulness and come from the fire pure gold.

A home for the Y. M. C. A. lads? Yes! Oh, help it with might and main! Give it a lift if you haven't yet, if you have, then give it again! I know what it does for the country lads, what it means to the city youth: How it keeps them strong in the hurrying throng, how it helps them cling with truth To the manly spirit of manly faith, the will to develop and be Useful citizens every one, frank and fearless and free The kind of men that a city needs, that business and country call— Yes; build it a home, with a peerless dome and a wide open door for all.

The Boy Who Is Brave In The Dark.

He isn't much to look at and he doesn't seem very heroic in his cheap suit and his gnarled kip shoes. He sweeps out our offices and runs our errands and takes our bundles back to be wrapped.

Sometimes he earns as much as five dollars in a week, but oftener three. His is a homely bravery without romance or fanfare—just burden-bearing for a mother who chose the wrong man, or whose "right man" didn't think of her lot after he passed out.

While your boy is turning over in his sleep, her boy is up and out, trudging to an office or a factory or a store. When the mornings are frosty he walks a little faster and stirs his blood into warmth—when the day is rainy he keeps near the buildings and doesn't get so very drenched.

He hasn't had many years of schooling, and by the time he reaches manhood the average of education will be so much higher than now that his smattering will be even less than it seems today. His fellow-workers are mentally stunted and unable to give him the polish of contact. Some of them are morally sound, but just as many are over-precocious in the banal phases of worldliness.

MR. F. S. RETAN,
Captain Team 7.

Sunday is his one rest and play day. His nights are not likely to be helpful unless his home influences are unusual.

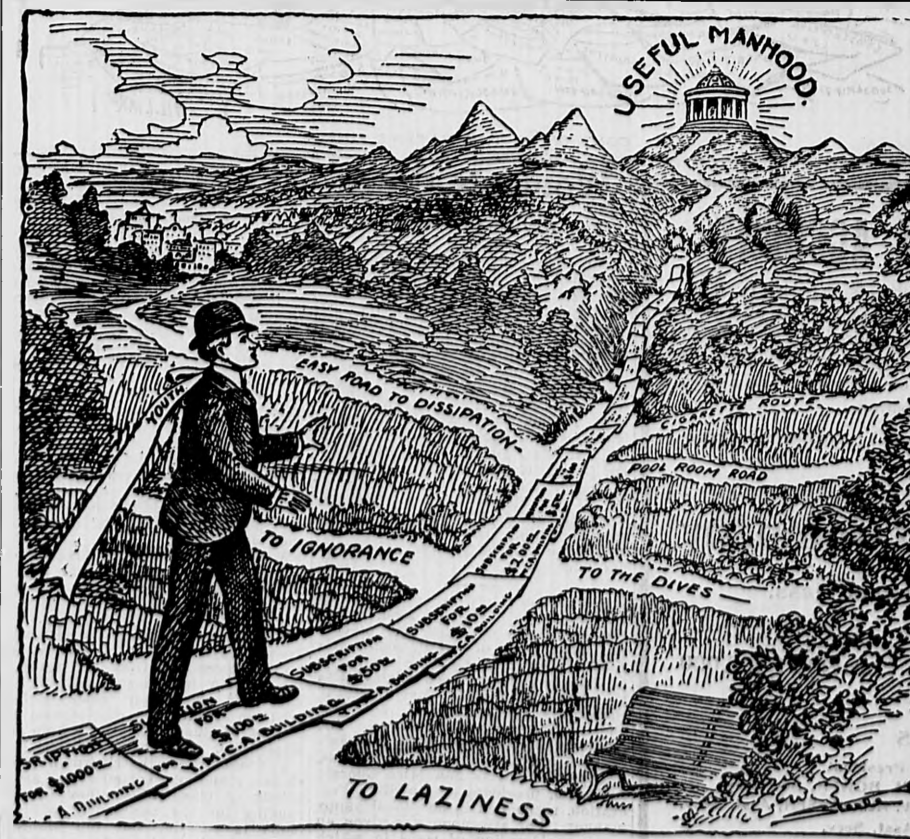

He hasn't much of a chance, has he, with an undeveloped frame, an untrained mind and a starved moral fibre? The Y. M. C. A. could take him in hand, though, and bring him to its recreation rooms, its gymnasium, its educational classes, its lectures and its religious and ethical courses. It could broaden his brain, increase his brawn, awake his imagination to the finer things of life—show him the safe road to tomorrow—develop in his being the latent seeds of ambition which after a little helping his own stamina could cultivate into realization.

The Y. M. C. A. has done this for untold boys—is doing it for thousands now. But there are so many who need its help and there are so few resources at its command with which to do the helping! Will you make it possible to have a few more boys come through to manhood in safety and strength? How much can you contribute to the work—how much will you?

MR. S. A. CONOVER,
Captain Team 1.

Regarding the position of Mr. Ward in the movement the following statement was given out at headquarters: "The executive committee appreciate very much that they have been able to secure from the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. the services of Mr. Ward to advise them in the campaign. Mr. Ward's experience in about two score of similar movements renders his presence here throughout the canvass almost invaluable. As a salaried officer of the International Committee he devotes all of his time to the special work of assisting associations in raising large funds and receives no extra compensation for his services. The International Committee is supported by voluntary contributions and the expense of any such service as is being rendered by Mr. Ward in Montreal is covered by them."

MOTHER GOOSE

A "Mother Goose Fantasy," given under the auspices of Channing Alliance last Friday evening, proved an entertainment of exceptional excellence. The title suggested little to the uninitiated so that the audience was on the alert when the curtain rose. And what did they behold? Mother Goose and all her numerous family, so life-like that one felt as if suddenly transported to the land of childish dreams. Simple Simon did walk, not right out of the book, but right out of the stage and opened the program with a piano solo. After this Mother Goose, and a royal Mother Goose she was, too, rose and presented her children one by one; and when each in due form had played its little part there followed songs by the chorus and numbers by the orchestra. Miss Sherwood sang charmingly and Miss Soden played delightfully, while Miss Katherine Stone, who was making her debut before her church friends, in her violin solo won hearty applause. Time would fail to commend each particular number, for all merit applause. The men's chorus was especially good, but so was the full chorus, and so was the orchestra, and likewise the stately minuet. It was indeed good to see once more old friends upon the stage who have not appeared there before for a long time. The costumes were picturesque and in many cases the disguise quite complete. Those who took part were: Pretty Maid, Miss Sherwood; Mother Goose, Mrs. C. W. Helzer; Red Riding Hood, Mrs. W. E. Birdsall; Dame Trot, Mrs. F. W. Stone; Maid in the Garden, Mrs. J. N. Palmer; Bo-Peep, Mrs. Pearce; Daffy Down Dilly, Mrs. Harold Pearce; Curley Locks, Mrs. P. W. Duncan; Mary Quite Contrary, Miss Wildman; "O Sweep the Skies," Miss Wildman; Queen of Hearts, Miss Jessie Barker; Miss Muffet, Miss Hattie Henry; Mother Hubbard, Miss Margaret Howard; Jill, Miss Catherine Howard; "Hot Cross Buns," Miss Nellie Cole; Humpty Dumpty, C. N. Flitts; Jack, Mr. Howard; Old King Cole, H. P. Curtis; Little Boy Blue, Ralph Brown; King of Hearts, F. A. Wetherbee; Simple Simon, P. W. Duncan; Fiddlers, Messrs. F. N. Robbins and Bigelow, Miss Edith Soden and Miss Katherine Stone.

This is not the first time that this group of people dwellers for the most part on Mt. Ida—have sung and played together, in fact they are doing it much of the time, but it is the first when so large a number have been allowed to hear, and may it not be the last. The success of the affair is due in large measure to the energy and enthusiasm of Mrs. F. A. Wetherbee. The large audience dailied for a time after the entertain-

CAVERLY DECLINES

In a recent letter, Mr. Joseph L. Caverly declines another term as a member of the school committee from Ward One, saying in part:—"I now feel that I have done my full duty as a citizen in trying to serve the city in that capacity to the best of my humble ability and having neither the time nor strength to spare longer for the work of the committee, I must positively refuse to have my name used as a candidate for the place at the approaching election."

Mr. Joseph N. Palmer of Lombard street has been suggested as a candidate in Mr. Caverly's place and his name is meeting with considerable favor.

IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY.

At the meeting of the Auburndale Village Improvement Society, held Saturday evening, Nov. 6, it was reported that the new wire waste barrels would soon be in position and it is hoped they will be found useful. The petition for the new street from Commonwealth avenue to Wolcott park has found many signatures and will go to the next meeting of the aldermen.

The publicity committee has under consideration a booklet with some thirty half-tones of the picturesque scenery, churches, residences, and a map of Auburndale. It is a worthy and ambitious project and should advertise to a large degree the many attractions of the village.

The suggestion of establishing a Co-operative Bank in Auburndale was cordially received and a committee appointed to arouse public sentiment. A number of leading citizens have already agreed to give it their support and it is believed that there is an opportunity for a successful institution of this nature.

Newton High Beaten by Waltham.

The annual football game between Newton High and Waltham was held this year at Central Park, Waltham, on Saturday, fully 5000 spectators being present, of whom about 1000 rooted for Newton (when they had a chance).

Within one minute from the line up, Waltham scored its first touchdown and until the end outplayed the visitors in every department.

EQUAL SUFFRAGISTS.

The Equal Franchise Association held the first meeting of the season Thursday evening, November 4, at the home of the president, Mrs. George F. Lowell, a large number being present.

It was voted to present a petition to the mayor and aldermen of the city of Newton, asking that a fund be created to pension the public school teachers after twenty-five years of service.

The association has a membership of two hundred and fifty men and women, earnest workers for equal rights and privileges. Men and women who believe that the hundreds of thousands of women who own property, and the millions of women who toil, should have the only protection that protects—the ballot.

A member of the association while visiting on the Isle of Pines, a beautiful island south of Havana, had the honor of delivering the first address on equal franchise ever heard there, before a large and interested audience of men and women.

ACCEPTS CALL

Rev. Harrie R. Chamberlin of Morgantown, W. Va., has accepted the call of the Immanuel Baptist church of Newton to become its pastor in the following letter:—

November 3, 1909.

The Immanuel Baptist Church, Newton, Mass.

Dear Brethren:—

With sincere appreciation of the trust you have reposed in me, and with the prayer that God may make me in all things adequate to my responsibilities as your leader and minister, I accept the unanimous call of the church for me to become your pastor.

In fairness to my church here I must take several weeks in which to complete my work in Morgantown. But I shall be able to begin my work in Newton by the middle of December, and I shall look forward to meeting the church as a body for the first time at the prayer-meeting Friday evening, December 17.

During the weeks that must intervene you will not join with me in the prayer that from the very beginning the Spirit of Christ may be with us in all our work together, and that he will make our common service not only strong and effective but also a continual joy to us who share in it. I hope that we shall all become the best of friends. And because we are a true brotherhood, bound together in the strong fellowship of the love of Christ, I pray that he may count us worthy of hard tasks and large responsibilities for the advancement of his Kingdom in the world.

Sincerely your friend and pastor,

HARRIE R. CHAMBERLIN.

LODGES.

The annual entertainment, whist party and dance of Clan McGhillvray No. 176, O. S. C., was held in Temple hall, Newtonville, last Thursday evening. The music during the evening was provided by Dunbar's orchestra. The reception committee for the affair was Walter S. McPherson, Angus D. McIntyre, Joseph E. McKinnon; floor director, Joseph F. Cameron; assistant floor director, Angus McLean; aids, David J. McDonald, Angus McDonald, Malcolm Blue, Daniel A. McDonald, William I. Murray, Angus McGillivray, Charles S. McLeod.

ANNUAL SHOOT

The annual shoot between Co. C, 5th Regiment, Inf., M. V. M., and the Claffin Guard Veteran Association for the "Loving Cup" shot for annually was held at the range of the active company at Needham Heights on Saturday, Nov. 6, 1909. Teams consisted of nine men each, and fired 10 shots each at 200 yards, possible fifty, with the new Springfield rifle.

The weather conditions were perfect for the season and the match was shot off without a hitch of any kind. Capt. Gullford and his men had everything in readiness when the match was called at 3 P. M.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Lewis R. Speare, president of the Veteran Association, the members of the Veteran team were taken from Boston in automobiles. The Veterans were in good form and won the match with the best score ever put up by them, beating Co. C by 61 points, by the following score:

A MISTAKEN IDEA.

Many people have gained the impression that only the very wealthy can afford to sit for the beautiful photographs made at the studio of Morris Burke Parkinson, 603 Boylston street (Copley square), Boston. This is a mistake which can be corrected by calling or sending for price list.

Prices, considering the quality of work, will be found very reasonable. Now is the time to sit for Christmas Portraits. Visitors for inspection are always welcome whether they desire sittings or not.

NEW COACH

Not being satisfied with the showing of the football eleven thus far this season, Newton High school has engaged Harry McDevitt, the former Dartmouth quarter-back, and more recently coach of the Colby College team, to finish the season as coach.

McDevitt will make the third man the orange and black team has had. Frank Riley, the Fordham College player, being released when it was decided to place all branches of athletics under one man, F. C. Holman of Bates.

The latter did not help the eleven much, the work against Waltham High school Saturday being the poorest of any aggregation that has represented the school for a score of years.

McDevitt coached the Newton High school boys several years ago, and had much success. This year he was at Colby, and last Saturday the Waterville institution won the Maine championship by beating University of Maine.

OLD RESIDENT DEAD.

Mr. Cornelius Darcy, for over fifty years a resident of Newton, died on Monday at his home on Pearl street, after a long period of illness with heart disease. He was 72 years of age and is survived by a widow, two sons, Cornelius, Jr., and David Darcy, and a daughter, Miss Mary Darcy. For many years Mr. Darcy was a valued employee of the street department. He was also a member of Middlesex Court, M. C. O. F. The funeral services were held yesterday morning, solemn requiem mass being celebrated at the Church of Our Lady at 9 o'clock, Rev. Michael Dolan, celebrant, Rev. Father Kelly, deacon, and Rev. David Regan of Waltham, sub-deacon. The pall bearers were Messrs. William Kent, Cornelius Madden, James Fagan, James Mulcahy, John Mulcahy, and John Mahoney. There was a large attendance of friends and the floral tributes were most beautiful, including a large standing wreath from the Metropolitan Mfg. Co., and pillows from Middlesex Court and the family. The interment was at St. Patrick's cemetery, Watertown.

It will interest you to read about the fine teas and coffees described by the well known grocery firm of W. H. Brayton & Co. in their advertisement on the last page of this number.

MR. BISHOP DEAD

John O. Bishop, trustee of New England Conservatory of Music, and in former years prominent in the wholesale hardware trade, was found dead Tuesday at his home, 221 Woodland road, Auburndale. Death was due to angina pectoris, from which he had suffered considerably for the past year. Returning from his office in Boston late in the afternoon he became ill, but recovered upon reaching home. During the evening he was in good spirits. Effort to arouse him in the forenoon was unsuccessful, and when a maid entered his chamber she found him dead in bed.

Mr. Bishop was born in Boston Jan. 1, 1837. He was graduated from Boston English high school in 1854. He attended that school with J. Pierpont Morgan, and in 1901 wrote for the Globe reminiscences of the early days of his former schoolmate. Upon leaving school he engaged in the wholesale hardware business in Boston. He was a member of the firm of Horton, Hall & Co., being the junior partner. When this firm was dissolved he became member of that of Homer, Bishop & Co., then one of the largest in New England.

Mr. Bishop was long interested in charitable movements, and was a trustee of the New England home for little wanderers. He was long an active member of the old Bromfield street M. E. church of Boston, but after moving to this city attended the Centenary M. E. church at Auburndale. He was a member of St. John Lodge, A. F. & A. M.

Mr. Bishop is survived by a brother, Rev. Thomas W. Bishop, the pastor of Appleton M. E. church of Neponset, and a sister, Miss Jane Bishop, both of whom reside in Auburndale.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon and friends, neighbors, and former business associates, filled the house. Representatives of the New England Conservatory of Music and of the New England Home for Little Wanderers, in both of which Mr. Bishop was a trustee, were present.

The services were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Centenary Methodist church, of Auburndale. He was assisted by Dr. Luther T. Thomas of Brookline, professors emeritus of Boston university. The Mendelssohn Quartet sang several selections, including "Nearer, My God, To Thee" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." The burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Women's Clubs

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

Owing to the large amount of matter relative to the Y. M. C. A. and the work of raising their $150,000 the whole department of "Women's Clubs" was crowded out last week. The Club Editor regrets that certain announcements of club meetings could not have gone in and hopes that the members were not seriously inconvenienced thereby. The Club Editor feels, however, that the women of Newton are all too much interested in the work proposed by the Y. M. C. A. to be disturbed at the delay of their matter.

With the growth of the club movement a problem has confronted the women, namely, the provision of a suitable place of meeting. When the clubs had as a general thing but forty or fifty members at most there was no difficulty in meeting in the homes of members, but as they have increased their membership to one, two, three and even four and five hundred it has been necessary to seek larger quarters. The churches were naturally turned to and provided ample accommodation for both the literary and social parts of the meetings, but an unforeseen obstacle has arisen. The clubs wish to feel that they are paying for their privileges and the churches in turn cannot afford to provide heating and lighting for a non-sectarian organization without recompense, but the law steps in and says to the churches, "You cannot rent your property, for in so doing you forfeit your right to be exempt from taxation." These facts have led many of the clubs to wish that they owned their own club houses.

Several enterprising clubs have brought the wish to a successful reality, so that in Dorchester for several years there has been the Dorchester Woman's Club House with its large auditorium with well equipped stage, smaller reception, class and committee rooms and the large banquet or tea room in the basement. In Allston the Brighthouse Club purchased the Unitarian church building and fitted it up for their purposes. At Quincy the Quincy Woman's Club occupies a house which has been put in shape for them. The experiment in Boston, the New Century Building, has not been as successful as anticipated. Of clubs farther away the Worcester Woman's Club was a pioneer in this movement.

The latest addition to the women's club houses is the one just opened in Lynn last week. The Club Editor was fortunate enough to be able to inspect it during its House Warming Fair last week. It is built of brick and occupies a location convenient to the best residential part of the city with street cars passing the door. Inside there is an auditorium with a seating capacity of 500, stage and ample dressing rooms. On the same floor are reception and cloak rooms with all the latest improvements, including hangers, places for rubbers and spaces above for hats. There is also a serving room with closets for dishes and dumb-waiter connecting with the kitchen below and butler's sink. On the floors above there are fourteen offices most of which are already rented. In the basement are several rooms which may be used separately or thrown into one for large social gatherings and a well appointed kitchen.

Six clubs are interested in the venture and will use it as a place of meeting and they may well be proud of their result. Applications for renting the various halls are coming in fast, so that the promoters feel confident of success.

The inspection of this complete and attractive club-house led the Club Editor to wonder if there existed a similar need in Newton. The peculiar geographical situation of the Newtons seems to discourage one at the start. There are certainly clubs enough, but would the members be able to agree upon the locality in which to put it? The individual clubs seem for the most part to be comfortably housed, but for the Newton Federation there has already been felt a need for a permanent abiding place. Perhaps it may become a reality at some not far distant time.

The meeting of the State Federation at Brockton yesterday will be fully reported in next week's issue.

The Auburndale Review Club will have a lecture by Miss Emma Porter of Newton Centre on "The Churches and Cathedrals of Paris" on Tuesday, Nov. 16, at 10.30. Guests may be admitted upon payment of the usual fee.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club next week the second paper upon "The Domestic Plant" will be given, the topic being, "Fittings and Furnishings of the House."

On Nov. 8 the Monday Club of Newton Highlands continued its study of Hawthorne with readings from Tanglewood Tales and a review and readings from Scarlet Letter. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Inez Polard of Bowdoin street.

The Current Events Class of the Newtonville Woman's Guild under the direction of Mrs. May Alden Ward proved so popular last year that the club has already resumed it this season. The second lecture of the course was given yesterday morning at the New Church parlors.

The Newton Federation will hold its autumn meeting at the Technical High School, Newtonville, on Tuesday Nov. 30. The program, which is in charge of the Education committee, will include an address by the head master supplemented by short talks upon various phases of the work of the school by heads of departments. There will be opportunity to inspect the building and see at first hand the work that is being done there.

On Wednesday morning a large number of members and guests of the Social Science Club heard with great interest the opening papers of the course on "The Domestic Plant." "Domestic Architecture" was the subject treated by Mrs. Henry C. Hardon and her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Wright of Cambridge.

Mrs. Hardon traced the development of architecture from the beginning of time. Protection from changes of season led to the birth of architecture. The savages sought shelter in caves provided by nature, then as man rose upward and began to lead the nomadic life it was necessary to be able to take his shelter about with him, so tents came into being. At length as he settled down to the agricultural life there came the fixed abode or house.

The Chinese houses, she said, resemble the tent in appearance, the material being bamboo and light timber with glazed paper for windows, though some have glass. The houses of Japan and Korea resemble those of China. In Egypt the earliest form is not known. Later they are rectangular, built of light wood, sun burnt bricks and stone. Characteristics originating in Egypt were later carried over into Europe and from Europe we have brought them to this country. In India are found similar styles, so that it is difficult to tell whether Egypt borrowed from India or India from Egypt.

Mrs. Hardon then traced from the conditions found here by the first settlers the development of dwellings to the present day and left the other speaker to tell of the modern day problems.

Mrs. Wright's subject was "The Modern Home as a Study in Adaptation." The construction of the frame house is familiar to all, so she dwelt particularly upon that of the modern re-inforced concrete and hollow tile types, giving a detailed description of the way in which they are built.

The more expensive varieties are not yet built very much for they cost from one-sixth to one-half more than brick. The less expensive ones that are becoming quite common have more wooden beams and resemble for the most part the construction of the old frame house.

Having described the exterior she turned to the interior giving numerous suggestions and ideas now adapted in modern house-building.

The living room should be the largest and should have at least one unshaded south window for sunshine. Whereas formerly the porch or piazza used always to be on the shady side, it has now one end toward the sun which may be glassed in for a sun parlor during the cold weather. Some insist that the dining room and bath-rooms should be on the east. The outside sleeping room, however, is never on the east for obvious reasons.

In the kitchen, which is not necessarily large, all should be compact and convenient. She described in detail many things that make for cleanliness and convenience in the kitchen, butler's pantry, and bath room.

Mrs. Wright emphasized forcibly the necessity of taking all things into consideration from the beginning when planning to build, in order to save expense and have satisfactory results. She pointed out why it is that the expense of building has increased so largely in the last few years, as being not only from increased cost of materials and higher wages, but also from the large number of things once luxuries now necessities, it must contain, the additional bathrooms, the modern heating apparatus and the vast amount of electric wiring. Questions and discussion closed a most profitable morning.

The club voted to contribute $100 to the Y. M. C. A. fund.

Social Science.

The season of the Social Science Club was opened with its monthly business meeting on November third. The president in her graceful word of welcome said that this time the club meets with an unbroken number, though some have lost friends, others are welcoming new life. We weep at the one and smile at the other. She spoke of work and comradeship as things that justify life, love and labor. Privilege is obligation, but it is also true that obligation is privilege.

The first of the morning was given to words from the chairman of committees as to work planned for the coming year. Already the stamp savings committee has begun its work. In October the amount collected was about the same as last year and on Tuesday of this week $48.45 was collected in the Underwood, Bigelow and Stearns schools, where the committee are working.

Miss Drury told of the playground which was in charge of some of the workers at Stearns Neighborhood House during the summer. They started with four teeters, three swings and a large sand box for the little children. An additional piece of land was rented in order to have a croquet set and a tether ball. The playground was open from two until five-thirty every afternoon. The attendance, small at first, soon increased until it averaged 47 for the months of July and August. With the return of the head worker in September by a system of registration it was found that 101 girls and 102 boys were patronizing the playground ranging in age from four to five years to fourteen or fifteen. Good order was maintained and no profane language tolerated. Some of these very boys have been a problem for the police, but one officer has said that he had never had so little trouble with a particular gang of young boys as he had since they had been kept employed on the playground. The classes are again going on and the work in full running order.

That the members may come in closer touch with the work of the State Federation it has been arranged to give a portion of each monthly meeting this year to a presentation of this work by representatives from the Federation. On Wednesday morning Mrs. Hattie M. Douglas, chairman of the Household Economics committee, was the guest of the club. Mrs. Douglas said that this is so new a subject that her committee are but feeling their way as to what is best to do. New conditions have brought new dangers and new responsibilities. We are only just beginning to realize the need of a larger vocational training along this line. We have not appreciated the importance of household economics as a profession. She bespoke the co-operation of every club and desired that they make a study of the subject. She commended the work of the Social Science Club in the program prepared for this year and suggested that those interested in the subject become members of the American Home Economics Association.

FORESTRY CONFERENCE.

By invitation of the Milton Woman's Club the forestry committee of the State Federation held a conference at Milton on Thursday, Mrs. W. C. Tucker, vice president of the hostess club, called the meeting to order and greeted the guests. Mrs. F. H. Tucker, chairman of the forestry committee, then took charge of the meeting. In presenting the subject Mrs. Tucker said forestry is one of the most important questions now before the country. It is the civic duty of every woman to become informed. It is one of the political, economic and social questions of the day, vital and most urgent. Few clubs can study all phases of the subject every year, but since the clubs are constantly graduating into the care of other special organizations enterprises which have been taking much of their time, they can gradually take up new things, so she hoped that some might turn their attention in the direction of forestry.

The afternoon was given up to the presentation of several phases of the subject by persons who had made special study, followed by discussion and questions. Miss Annie Chase of Beverly spoke of "Bird Protection," telling of an experiment that had been tried at her home.

A tract of waste land had been secured and fenced in with a high woven wire fence, so constructed as to keep out cats and bad boys. Bird houses had been placed in it and an abundance of food. Here the birds had built their nests and reared their young unmolested. Every effort to protect and increase the native birds is an effort toward humanity, since they are a necessity in warding off impending insect pests.

"Municipal Forests" was the subject presented by Mrs. Blanche Grover of Fall River, where one has been established about the drainage area of the reservoir.

Mrs. C. E. Stevens of Stoneham described a course on "Tree Study" that has been introduced into the schools of that town.

Mrs. Wilson Marsh of the Quincy Woman's Club told her club's work for "Children's Home Gardens."

The children bought the seeds, five kinds, at one cent a package to start their gardens. Members of the club visited them to see how they prospered and in the fall an exhibition was held with prizes for best flowers and for best gardens. They had found the parents either a source of discouragement or encouragement, but they feel through the means of the garden there is opportunity for much social work, the interest in the garden making an easy entre into the homes.

Miss Borden of Fall River spoke of similar experiments but rather in the nature of a public garden where the children had their plots in one place.

The forestry exhibit at the Boston 1915 Exposition was heartily commended to the attention of those present.

Miss George A. Bacon, president of the Federation, emphasized the value of work among the children, the aid of story-telling in this connection and commended the formation of tree clubs amongst them and the study of forestry in general for the clubs.

In closing the meeting the chairman expressed the hope that those present had gained some inspiration to study for themselves and urged them to come to the Forestry department for help.

Tea was served by the Milton Club and all went home with the feeling that it had been a most satisfactory and valuable conference.

—Miss Helen Hall of Lake avenue is spending a few days in Syracuse, N. Y.

—Miss Margaret Melden of Sumner street is spending a few days in Providence, R. I.

—Mr. J. C. Bennett and family have moved from Knowles street to Cypress street.

—Miss Emily Davy of New York is visiting Miss Wheeler of Grafton street this week.

—Mr. E. Ray Spere of Commonwealth avenue is on a short trip to the Adirondacks.

—Mr. Edward Richardson, who has been visiting his parents on Marshall street has returned to Cornell.

—Mrs. Henry Wales has returned to her home on Ripley street from a three months' visit in Connecticut.

—Mr. Abner K. Pratt is chairman of the committee on membership of the Massachusetts State Board of Trade.

—Miss Mabel A. Barker of Ashton park left last Wednesday for New Mexico, where she will spend the winter.

—Last Friday afternoon Captain Leland of the Harvard soccer team gave a short address to the children of the Mason school.

—Mr. William White, formerly employed in a local printing office, died at his home in Exeter, N. H., last Monday of scarlet fever.

—Last Friday evening Miss Evelyn Stuart entertained several of her friends at her home on Commonwealth avenue. Whist was played, after which refreshments were served.

—In the school room of Miss West of the Rice school last Friday a book sale was held by the pupils. The money raised was used for the purchase of gold fish and aquarium.

—There will be a vesper service next Sunday at the First church when selections from "Elijah" will be given. The regular quartet will be assisted by twelve singers from Boston.

—An automobile owned by Louis A. Vachon caught fire near Waverley avenue and Ward street Tuesday evening, for which there was an alarm sounded from box 81 at 9:20. The damage was slight.

—A horse attached to a wagon owned by Hurley Bros. became frightened last Saturday on Warren avenue and broke off a gas lamp pole at Warren avenue and Glen avenue.

Richardson as chairman. After supper an interesting entertainment was provided in several readings by Mrs. C. D. Miller and vocal solos by Mrs. Marion Haskell.

—On Tuesday evening, November 23, in Mason school hall, Newton Centre is to have the opportunity of hearing Mayor Hutchinson's illustrated lecture on "The Assets of Newton." With the assistance of City Forester Buckman, the mayor has collected a most interesting series of over 100 pictures of our city, her public buildings, schools, streets, parks, playgrounds, etc., and his long connection with the city's affairs gives him a knowledge of an enthusiasm for our city that make his talk of great interest to Newton Citizens.

Boston Theatre—Well into the second month of an engagement of unparalleled prosperity at the Boston Theatre, "Three Twins," Jos. M. Gaites' musical comedy production, continues to be the most sought after entertainment in town. There is something to laugh at all the time as Charles Dickson, in making the adaptation of "Three," filled the book thick with bright, witty lines and, in devising the situations, considered well the comic possibilities of every one. The music is sufficiently popular to endear itself to the devotees of light melody. In the spectacular side of his production, Manager Gaites made lavish expenditure for the color scheme of costumes and scenic environment, and the producing stage manager conceived surprising novel ideas in mechanical effects and chorus grouping.

Kelth's Theatre—Albert Chevalier, the English character comedian, will be the principal attraction at Kelth's next week. He is now engaged in a campaign for the benefit of aged couples in English workhouses who are separated and during his present American tour is singing a song that has done more to stir the English people than any that has been written in years. Besides this he has one of the best repertoires he has ever had and is proving a bigger favorite than ever. He will head an exceptionally strong bill, including W. C. Fields, the tramp juggler, who is introducing a new feature in the way of a croquet garden in place of the famous billiard table. Rayno's Bull Dogs are probably the most remarkable animals that have been seen on the stage in years, and the act they do is of the most amusing character. The Exposition Four are one of the best musical features now in vaudeville, and other acts will be Ryan & White, the dancers; Hall Brothers in acrobatics, and a number of others.

Hollis Street Theatre—Lillian Russell will pay her annual visit to Boston for a limited engagement of two weeks, commencing Monday night, Nov. 15, at the Hollis Street Theatre. For this period the famous American beauty will be seen in a new comedy of contemporary life, called "The Widow's Might." It is by Edmund Day, the author of "The Round-up," and kindred successes. For his latest effort Mr. Day has turned to the social and financial circles of New York City as a locale for his action. In these surroundings he has planted a story that is unusually appealing in interest and especially happy in its refined delightful comedy. Mr. Joseph Brooks has provided his star with a beautiful production and surrounded her with an excellent company. For her limited stay at the Hollis, Miss Russell will be seen also at the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees the first week and for the second will give a special Thanksgiving matinee Thursday afternoon and the customary one on Saturday of that week also.

—Charles D. Moore of Chester street, a member of the firm of J. D. Moore Machine Company, died last Monday of pneumonia. He was 43 years of age and unmarried. The funeral services were held Thursday in the chapel at the Forest Hills cemetery.

—Mr. Arba F. Clark, father of Mrs. Lewis Perkins, formerly of this village, died suddenly in Boston last Sunday evening. He was 80 years of age and had been in the insurance business for many years, being the founder of the Masonic Equitable Insurance Company. Mr. Clark was a real son of the Revolution and was president of the Roxbury Chapter, Sons of the Revolution.

—The men of the M. E. church and Sunday school will join the big parade in Boston on Sunday afternoon, which will represent the Protestant Sunday school forces of Boston and its suburbs, from the standpoint of new men's forward movement in Sunday school work. The line of march will be from Copley square to Tremont Temple, where a great men's meeting will be held at 3 P. M.

—The Ladies' Aid of Cline Memorial M. E. church closed a successful three days' fair on Wednesday evening. Several unusual features were introduced this year, among them being a splendid exhibit from the Jordan Studios by Mr. Frank Kellen; a planola recital by Mr. Nellis Jorgensen through the kindness of the Steinert Co.; a jewelry booth; a Larkin booth, as well as the usual fancy and domestic tables, candy, ice cream, etc. Tuesday night an oyster supper was served to a large number.

Brown and Walt won first prize at duplicate whist Saturday night.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Miss Jennie Johnson, a maid employed in the family of S. M. Merrill of 85 Montvale road, Newton Centre, died in Newton hospital Tuesday from injuries received by being run down by an automobile on Commonwealth avenue near Hammond street, (Chestnut Hill), about midnight last Saturday, when she was walking across the roadway reserved for motor vehicles to board an electric car. The automobile was operated by William Long of 19 Harris street, Brookline, with whom was riding Cole Gifford of 44 Marion street, Brookline. With Miss Johnson was Miss Annie Hanson, a maid employed in the family of Joshua M. Dill of 466 Commonwealth avenue, who escaped being struck by the automobile. Miss Johnson was removed to the hospital as quickly as possible, but effort to save her was unsuccessful. Little is known of her here.

An inquest was held Wednesday morning at police court.

AMONG WOMEN.

At the meeting of the West Newton Woman's Educational Club, held Oct. 4, Mrs. Alvin Henry Clifford presented a plan for the inauguration of a movement for the accumulation of a fund for the building of a club house; enthusiasm greeted the proposition and the members are hard at work materializing their own ambitions.

Sixteen new members were admitted to the club.

The standard of talent during the last year has never been excelled and will be maintained during the present season. The social tens have aided in creating a club spirit that means accomplishment.

The city budget for 1910 which has just been submitted by Mayor Hutchinson shows an expected increase in the grand total, as it includes the full yearly expense of maintaining the new Technical High school for the first time. In many respects the mayor deserves great praise for his efforts to keep down the running expenses of the city. Taxpayers can find little fault with most of the appropriations. The most serious problem to solve is that of the cost of our schools and it is one to be settled on strictly business principles and not on sentiment. No one in this city seriously questions the wisdom of giving our children the best possible education, but there is always a limit to every municipal purse and with an increase in school appropriations from $193,000 in 1900 to $323,000 in ten years, some attention should be given to those who believe that it is time to curtail expenses in matters of education. I also believe it unwise to place the responsibility of educational expense on the board of aldermen, while another elective body, the school committee, is given charge of its administration. An amendment to our city charter, similar to that in force in Boston or in Cambridge, whereby the school committee has a fixed portion of the tax levy, would centralize the present divided responsibility, and at the same time give ample opportunity for our citizens, thru the election of the school committee, to give a direct expression as to their wishes in matters of education.

With so much demand for educational opportunities and with such a splendid plant now ready in the Technical High school, it is a matter of much regret that the question of expense is such a pressing matter at the present time.

The Newton Y. M. C. A. and its many friends are to be congratulated on the successful completion of the recent efforts to raise a substantial sum for a new building. The raising of over $150,000 in less than a week is ample evidence that the hearts and purses of Newton residents are always open to an appeal for the benefit of the young.

While the success was the result of concerted effort in which each one did his share, yet by universal consent, the credit for the entire affair will be given to Mr. Frank A. Day, whose generosity, enthusiasm and effort seemed to be without limit. At the final meeting, the cheers which greeted Mr. Day were given with the utmost enthusiasm and were fully deserved. The young men and boys who will enjoy the splendid new quarters of the Association will owe a great debt to Mr. Day.

While there has been some complaint relative to the hustling, bustling methods adopted for the campaign and while it possibly has annoyed some of our more conservative citizens, a moment's reflection ought to show that no intentional discourtesy was intended and that the trouble, if any existed, was caused by an excess of zeal, rather than a lack of heart. All in all the city has done splendidly and has added another laurel to its wreath of fame.

One of the chief arguments for the adoption of a police pension act in this city was its possible inducement to a better class of men to enter the service. While this is true, I believe that an increase in the rate of pay from $2.25 to $2.50 per day for the first year would be another great factor in obtaining this result.

OVER $156,000 RAISED
FOR NEW Y. M. C. A. BUILDING IN SIX DAYS

The Y. M. C. A. campaign came to a most successful close Wednesday night with a grand total of $156,000 secured in the six working days following the night of the opening meeting on Wednesday of last week. The feature of the movement, apart from the spiritual uplift that it has brought, was the establishing of two new records. In the scores of similar campaigns conducted throughout the United States and Canada no city has raised such a large amount in so short a time, likewise, in the forty odd campaigns that International Secretary C. S. Ward has directed the original number of days agreed upon for the canvass has never been lessened.

The last gathering of the members of the committees Wednesday night will be a memorable one in Newton. The lower hall, where the daily reunions were held, was crowded to the doors and the atmosphere was surcharged with expectancy. The big sum of $20,000 was needed; and, although every worker believed that the full amount would be forthcoming, there was a suppressed excitement, while waiting to see which committee would make success sure. It turned out that each of the three committees had a proportionate share in this glory. Several of the leaders knew that Mr. Frank A. Day, chairman of the Citizens' Committee, had between $6,000 and $7,000 at 6 o'clock and they were debating whether the other two committees would supply the balance. It was conceded that the Business Men's Committee, led by the president of the Association, Allan C. Emery, would have about $10,000. These prognostications were swept aside by Mr. Emery's captains announcing a combined total of over $14,000. Then followed the youngsters, led by C. L. Ellison, with over $2,000. That settled everything.

"I was smiling when this meeting started," said Mr. Day, as he rose to make his report, "but I am smiling all over now. Those reports were splendid."

He then announced $7,912 for the Citizens' Committee, which sent the grand total past $154,000 and the clock struck twelve in a hurry. Later in the evening Mrs. I. T. Burr telephoned to give a subscription and was informed that it was not needed to make up the $150,000 fund, but could be used to good advantage. She said that she wanted to contribute something in recognition of the good work of the Newton Y. M. C. A. and requested that she be put down for $1,000. The following morning a gentleman who had given $500 doubled his gift. A number of other donations brought the grand total up to $156,000.

The men who did the job so gloriously sent up cheer after cheer. After Boys' Secretary Walter Gilliam, who tabulated the figures at each meeting, submitted the detailed report. Brief addresses were delivered by Mr. Day, Mr. Emery and Mr. Ward. Tribute was paid to the successful work that has been carried on in the limited quarters of the Association rooms under the direction of General Secretary H. W. Bascom. Mr. Day called for cheers for several of the leaders and thanked everyone who had a share in the undertaking. President Emery echoed Mr. Day's thanks to all of the workers, emphasizing very strongly that it was a victory for men who put their faith in God and took Christ as their leader. Mr. Ward told the committee-men that their work had just begun, that they had proved themselves to be a power for good in the community and that they would be needed to help in building up not only the structure, but the great sphere of Christian activity that it would involve.

"You need not thank me," said Mr. Day, when three cheers were given to him. "I got far more out of this campaign than I put into it. It has been a great blessing to me."

A special vote of thanks was passed for the support that had been given by the press.

The Young Men's Committee, led by C. L. Ellison, did splendid service. On the last night one team of this committee, captained by Harold Emery, had no less than 112 different pledges. The number of subscriptions reported is generally a good indication of the amount of work done, as it means at least double that number of calls. Mr. Ellison's committee secured nearly $5,000 in two days, starting out for $3,000.

In justice to Team E it ought to be mentioned that it was organized at the eleventh hour, several days after the other teams were completed, and was composed of members of a club who volunteered to assist.

Mr. Ward is now conducting a ten-day campaign at Cambridge for $150,000.

ORPHAN GIRLS CONTRIBUTE.

One of the most interesting incidents of the campaign was the receipt of the following letter:—

November 10th, 1909.

Mr. Frank A. Day,

Chairman Citizens' Committee,

Newton, Mass.

Dear Mr. Day:—

Miss Hayes, the matron of our Home, and some of the older girls, who are now earning a little money, desire to contribute to the Y. M. C. A. Building Fund, out of their personal earnings, to show their appreciation of the kindness and support that has always been given them by their good friends in Newton. They feel that it is as blessed to give as to receive, and therefore have you been through me, $25.00, Twenty-five Dollars, in cash to assist the Y. M. C. A. Building Fund.

Very truly yours,

O. M. FISHER,

Treasurer.

Safety For Your Estate

Our method of administering estates and trust funds has not only all the advantages of an individual trusteeship, but other points of superiority that one-man direction cannot have. Sickness, accident or death cannot endanger a trust confided to us, because no one man is responsible for it. Our executive board act together, and are ready for business every business day in the year.

Every investment made, or other important action taken, represents the collective wisdom of a group of men expert in trust management, and their services cost an estate no more than it would pay an individual.

All our securities are officially inspected three times a year. We give bonds equal to twice the amount of the personal property of an estate we administer; and these bonds are backed by a guarantee of $4,500,000. An individual acting as executor or trustee rarely is required to give security.

D. A. R.

Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., held an enjoyable meeting Monday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Robert Gorton on Berkeley street, West Newton. Mr. Clarence Moore of the Allen school of West Newton gave an interesting talk on the Playground Movement, speaking from personal experiences with the Playgrounds of Pittsburgh, Pa., for a period of three years. A social hour followed the speaking. Mrs. Gorton and Mrs. Henry Whitmore being the hostesses.

A vaudeville entertainment was enjoyed at the Newton Club Wednesday by members of Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R. The program included fancy dancing by Miss Belle Keeler of Brookline, monologues by Miss Florence B. Dillingham of Auburndale, vocal solos by Miss Betsy Upham of Newtonville and violin selections by Miss Gertrude Bellows. A number of members served refreshments from small tables placed in various rooms of the clubhouse. Home made candy was sold in aid of the chapter.

HOSPITAL SUNDAY, NOV. 21.
—Mr. Arthur J. Reed returned Friday from Edgecomb, Me., where he spent the summer.

—Cards have been sent out for a reception to the teachers of the C. C. Burr school to be held in the school hall Saturday evening.

—Bishop Willard F. Mallaleu of Grove street was in Scranton, Pa., last week, where he attended the annual convention of the Freedman's Aid Society.

—Mr. and Mrs. William H. Smith, who have been recent guests of their daughter, Mrs. Arthur Hollis of Central street have returned to their home in Hartford, Conn.

—The entertainment, "Trooping of the Colors," which was presented with such success at the Methodist church recently, is to be given Thursday, Nov. 18, at the Methodist church, Newton Lower Falls.

—F. Porter Gore went to New York on Tuesday to reside there permanently. He enters the offices of Johnson & Higgins, where his brother (Christopher) preceded him. Both were brought up in their father's office.

—Mr. William D. Verder has resigned his position in F. W. Bridges store and will drive a team for Leonard Treat & Co., the Boston wholesale fish dealers. Mr. Shattuck has taken the vacant position with Mr. Bridges.

—At the meeting of Castle Stirling, Knights of King Arthur, held last week at the Congregational church, Mr. Arthur C. Brown gave an interesting talk upon Boston politics as he has seen them, including a detailed description of Plan 1 and Plan 2.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church will hold its annual sale of useful and fancy articles in the church parlors the first and second days of December. By request the Junior League will repeat the entertainment "The Trooping of the Colors," arranged by the pastor and which was given so successfully recently.

—At the residence of Mr. F. Porter Gore on Rowe street Tuesday evening, a meeting of the Lawrence Club was held. Dr. W. C. Canfield of West Newton was the special guest, and spoke of his personal experiences while with General Grant in Japan, giving interesting comparisons of the conditions of that country then and its wonderful development since that time.

—At the recent annual meeting of the Congregational church the following officers were chosen to serve the coming year: Moderator, R. L. Bridgman; clerk, H. G. Hildreth; treasurer, W. H. Blood; auditor, C. H. Johnson; church committee for two years, J. H. Kendall, Mrs. E. J. Ober; nominating committee, C. D. Ober, W. W. Cole, F. M. Tyler; deacon for five years, Dr. H. S. Pomeroy.

—There will be a union service at the Congregational church on Sunday evening, November 14, at 7.30 o'clock. The work of the Union Rescue Mission will be presented by the superintendent, Mr. P. E. Call. His talk will be illustrated by stereopticons, showing scenes and people in darkest Boston. Miss Soden of Newtonville will play the cello and girls from Ruggles street will sing. There will also be a musical selection by Mrs. Ruggles with a violin obligato by Miss Davidson. The work of this Mission has been before the public for twenty years, and the good results obtained justify the interest that our people have placed in it.

—HOSPITAL SUNDAY, NOV. 21.

—Mrs. Sarah L. Russell has purchased of H. D. Tudor a part of the Buchanan farm located at North Richmond, N. H.

—Excavations are being made for the residence of Mr. Thomas B. Booth which will be built on Gibbs street. D. A. Ferguson of Cypress street has the contract.

—Mr. William H. Swanton of Warren street has received honorable mention for his artistic estate from the garden committee of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

—Mr. and Mrs. Matt B. Jones of Parker street were among the guests present at the husking bee of the Vermont Association of Boston held in Mechanics' Building last Friday evening.

—At the last meeting of the New England Historic Genealogical Society held in Boston President William E. Huntington of Boston University read a paper on "An Old Town in Massachusetts."

—Mr. Carl P. Waldinger of Chestnut Hill has purchased the Morrison farm in Holliston. The farm contains 100 acres of land with buildings and over-looks Lake Winthrop. Mr. Waldinger buys for occupancy.

—Gen. James G. White of Centre street attended the dinner given to Ex-Governor Guild at the Hotel Somerset, Boston, last Thursday evening by his former associates while chief executive of Massachusetts.

—Mr. Burton Payne Gray is clerk of the Board of Overseers of the Andover Theological Seminary which is planning for a set of new buildings on the Charles Eliot Norton estate recently purchased for the seminary.

—Cards have been sent out by Mrs. Allan McIntosh for the marriage reception of her daughter, Miss Bebe Irene McIntosh and George Conover Osborn to follow the ceremony, Thursday, November 18th from 6:30 to 8 o'clock at the Hotel Majestic, New York City. The marriage will be at 6 o'clock and will be attended only by the relatives.

—Mr. Winslow W. Berry and family have moved out of their residence on Beacon street.

—The engagement is announced of Miss Anna Winsor, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Winsor of Hammond street, Chestnut Hill, to Dr. John Baker Swift, Jr., Harvard '04.

—At Mrs. Badger's charming home on Dudley road an afternoon of music was enjoyed on Tuesday last by a few of her friends. The interest of the afternoon was centered upon the artistic playing of Mr. Paul H. Kelsey, a cellist from Cambridge, who is forming a class of cello pupils in Newton this season. The guests were delighted, both with his choice program and with his playing. Mrs. Trull, formerly Miss Clement of Newton Centre, assisted with a few French songs and the program was most acceptably finished by the singing of Nevins "Doris" in which Mrs. Parmelee played the violin obligato in conjunction with Mr. Kelsey's cello obligato. Mrs. Lesh added the grace to the program which she invariably contributes as accompanist. At an early date, Mr. Kelsey is to assist with his cello at one of Mr. Loud's organ recitals at the Newton Centre Baptist church.

Waban.

—Mrs. Sawyer of Brookline has opened her dancing class, giving the first lesson on Tuesday afternoon in the hall. This season she will only have classes for the younger pupils here.

—Mr. Arthur Vose, owner of the house on Beacon street, recently occupied by the Henry R. Rows, is once more occupying it after an absence of several years from Waban. Mr. Rows and family have moved to New York.

—The Saturday evening duplicate whist club met last week at the home of Mr. Joseph Congdon, Waban avenue.

—Mr. Oscar O. Rice of Waban avenue started the first of the week on a lengthy business trip through the West.

—The new house being erected on Wyman street by Mr. F. J. Starke and not yet completed, has been sold and will be occupied as soon as done.

—Mrs. C. A. Andrews of Beacon street is at the Newton hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis which she was unexpectedly forced to have performed on Tuesday.

—Two baby boys were added to Waban's population last week Friday and Mr. and Mrs. J. Porter Russell of Beacon street and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Farnside are receiving congratulations.

—The Beacon Club will have as a speaker at its next week's meeting, Mr. Wm. J. Schlar who will talk on the "New Science of Man Building." Mr. D. M. Hill of Pine Ridge road will be the host.

—Plans are being drawn for four new houses to be shortly begun between the river drive, Quinobequin road and Tamworth road, a Boston architect, Mr. Weston, being in charge of the development of that section.

—Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Phillips of Woodward street arrived home from a two months' stay in Europe, on the Canopic, Monday, and like all the other passengers had to be vaccinated before being allowed to leave because of smallpox on board.

—The first of the winter's social entertainments will be held this evening in Waban hall when the Waban Tennis Courts give their opening assembly and dance. An excellent orchestra has been provided and a large number of club members are expected.

—Arrangements are being completed for the annual football game on Thanksgiving afternoon between the Waban Athletic Club and Newton Centre and as both teams give promise of being strong a hard game is expected. Waban has won the last two years by close scores.

—Mr. W. Bertram Steven of the Episcopal theological school of Cambridge, addressed the members of the Guild of the Good Shepherd Tuesday, on his work and experiences among the poor mill hands in Georgia during the summer. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. A. H. Willis, Beacon street.

—Mr. Wm. H. Oakes' brother-in-law of Woonsocket, Mr. Robinson, has just purchased the B. Hoffman Davidson residence on Plainfield street and will take possession with his family in a few weeks. The Davidsons have lived in Waban for twelve years and will be missed. They are to spend the winter at the Buckminster, in Boston.

—The Rev. Henry R. Rose, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer of Newark, N. J., will give his lecture on "Parsifal" before the students and friends of Waban school, on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Mr. Rose is an orator who commands attention wherever he speaks. He is a man with a message worth hearing and his lecture is illustrated with many beautiful pictures while the stories are being told and the slides are from photographs of the Opera. Each of the 100 pictures are exquisitely colored.

MATCHLESS COFFEE

We take this means of calling your attention to the fact that through our affiliation with one of the leading Boston tea and coffee houses we are able to give our customers the finest selections in all grades of teas and coffees, and also the best values obtainable. We wish particularly to call your attention to L. Brayton & Co's Matchless Coffee, for which we have the exclusive agency.

Matchless Coffee is the finished product of expert knowledge acquired by long experience in the coffee business. It is a fine blend composed largely of old crop private estate Java, carefully blended with other coffees. After careful selection and skillful blending it is thoroughly cleaned, sterilized and roasted by the most improved process which makes a coffee unequalled for great strength, fine flavor, and delicate aroma.

As Matchless Coffee is packed in foil-lined, triple thick, waterproof, airtight bags, it is sure to reach the user without losing any of its strength or aroma. We feel confident that a fair trial will make you a permanent user of Matchless Coffee.

ATTENTION VOTERS

THE RIGHT MAN FOR THE RIGHT PLACE

Mr. Reuben Forknall who has consented to allow his name to be presented at the Republican Primaries as Candidate for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 1, needs no introduction to the citizens of Newton.

He has been a resident of Ward 1 for 38 years.

He is a business man of many years standing.

He is a member of the Massachusetts Bar.

Thoroughly familiar with the business life of the city, having large real estate interests committed to his trust, he will bring to the Board of Aldermen a practical knowledge of existing conditions and of the City's needs.

He will be a wise, impartial and economical administrator of civic affairs.

He is a man of experience and a tireless worker.

He was a member of the Common Council under the old charter from 1889 to 1892.

He was Alderman for an unexpired term in 1900.

He was an Assistant Assessor for three years.

He was Overseer of the Poor for two years.

For several years he was a member of the Republican Ward and City Committee.

He is Vice President of the Nonantum Improvement Association.

He is Vice President of the Claffin Guard Veteran Association.

He is an Associate member of Charles Ward Post No. 62 G. A. R.

He has long been identified with the Associated Charities.

Upon his record and qualifications for public office his many friends urge you to attend the caucus on TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 23rd, 1909, and help nominate him.

(Signed) JOHN T. BEALE.

Secretary, Forknall Campaign Committee.

A MISTAKEN IDEA.

Many people have gained the impression that only the very wealthy can afford to sit for the beautiful photographs made at the studio of Morris Burke Parkinson, 603 Boylston street (Copley square), Boston. This is a mistake which can be corrected by calling or sending for price list.

Prices, considering the quality of work, will be found very reasonable. Now is the time to sit for Christmas Portraits. Visitors for inspection are always welcome whether they desire sittings or not.

THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE

SEND MR. FRISBIE TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN

VOTE FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT AND THE MAN WHO KEEPS IN TOUCH WITH THE CITY'S NEEDS

A VOTE FOR MR. FRISBIE MEANS A VOTE FOR THE BEST INTERESTS OF THE WHOLE COMMUNITY.

Mr. Frank D. Frisbie, candidate for alderman at large from Ward One, is the son of Dr. J. F. Frisbie and has been a resident of Newton for nearly 40 years and of Ward One for 22 years. He is retiring from the Ward Committee, of which he is secretary, after several years' service. He has spent time and money to secure better registration, a larger vote on election days and in the interests of harmony retired from a contest when Alderman Stone was a candidate for his first term.

It has been understood throughout the ward for two years that he would be a candidate when there was a vacancy.

Mr. Frisbie received his education in the Newton schools. His early business training was with one of the largest insurance concerns in the country, and for the past 15 years he has been engaged in literary work as a lecturer, writer, author and newspaper correspondent. His ability to grasp large interests is shown in the fact that he is the secretary of the Chautauqua Alumni Association (with a membership of 75,000). He is a former president of Newtown Chapter, S. A. R., The Republican Club of Ward One (of which club he was the organizer); a member of the Press Club; Unitarian Club; Boston Chapter; Katahdin Club; Newton Y. M. C. A.; Boston Y. M. C. U., and other organizations.

Through his extended acquaintance in the different Newtons, Mr. Frisbie is, and has been, for years in constant touch with the city's needs and a vote for him at the primaries will ensure a continuance of the good government of the city.

ROBERT D. HOLT,
adv., 463 CENTRE STREET.

VOTE FOR

ARTHUR W. BLAKEMORE

There is a contest for alderman at large from Ward One at the Republican Primaries, to be held on Tuesday the 23rd inst., from noon to 8.30 P. M. Voters from every ward in the city are entitled to vote at this caucus for this office. One of the candidates is ARTHUR W. BLAKEMORE of Bennington street. He has been for more than fifteen years a resident of Newton. He is a lawyer in excellent standing at the bar and is well fitted, by character, training and ability, to discharge the duties of alderman and to maintain the high standard of our city government. We urge his nomination.

Theaters of Different Ages.

The difference between the playhouse in which we see a drama of Bronson Howard's today and the playhouse in which Sheridan's comedies were originally acted is greater than the difference between Sheridan's Drury Lane and the house for which Congreve wrote and in which Betterton acted. And that restoration playhouse was very unlike the Elizabethan theater for which Shakespeare wrote and in which Burbage acted. Even more apparent is the difference between the theater of Dionysius at Athens and the Roman theater at Orange. These theaters are sharply distinguished from one another by their size, by their shape, by their methods of illumination, by the absence or presence of real scenery and by the arrangement of the seats for the spectators, and as we study these successive changes we are confirmed in the conviction that these physical conditions must have exerted a powerful influence upon the dramatists who followed one another down the centuries.—Brander Matthews in Century.

Wisdom In Fable.

Among the best things that have ever been written are the Aesop's fables, which date back to the sixth century B. C. They present human nature as it always has been, is and probably always will be. Take, for example, the story of "The Fox Without a Tail."

"A fox was once caught in a trap by his tail and in order to get free was obliged to leave it behind. He knew that his fellows would make fun of his tailless condition, so he made up his mind to induce them all to part with their tails. At the next assembly of foxes he made a speech on the uselessness of tails in general and the inconvenience of a fox's tail in particular, declaring that never in his whole life had he felt so comfortable as now in his tailless freedom. When he sat down a sly old fox rose and, waving his brush, said, with a sneer, that if he had lost his tail he would be convinced by the last speaker's arguments, but until such an accident occurred he fully intended to vote in favor of tails."

Peculiar Superstitions.

The people of Kulu are extremely superstitious and go to extensively for demonology. Many trees are held to be sacred and have tiny temples dedicated to them. The demons are popularly supposed to live at the tops of trees, and if a tree falls in such a way that it is possible to pass under it, as is often the case on the mountain sides, every man before going beneath the trunk will place on it a stick or stone to propitiate its guardian spirit. Certain streams are also sacred, and no one is allowed to wash dirty clothes in them. One year some strangers came into the valley and happened to pollute the water of a river in this manner. It chanced to be a year of extraordinary rainfall, and the people implicitly believe that the excessive rain was sent by the outraged "deity" of the stream as punishment.—Wide World Magazine.

Helping Hubby Out.

"Your wife seems to be wonderfully interested in your business. Must be a source of great satisfaction to you."

"Yes, indeed. Do you know I used to think she cared nothing about it."

"Why the change?"

"I don't know. That's the funny part of it. I can't imagine what has changed her. A few nights ago I went home, tired most to death, and during the evening I casually remarked: 'Tole, my business is getting most too much for me to handle. I am thinking of employing a nice, steady stenographer and typewriter. Don't you think it would be a good idea?' From that moment the good little woman has been extremely anxious to assist me and make my lot easier in every way. I suppose it's her natural sympathetic nature. It must be."—Boston Herald.

A Brilliant Judge.

Steady Baker was at one time mayor of Folkestone, England. Once a boy was brought before him for stealing gooseberries, and Steady, aware of the importance of the case, turned over the pages of the alphabetically arranged "Burr's Justice" for a precedent. Failing to find one, he turned to the culprit. "My lad," said he, "it's lucky for you that you were not brought here for stealing a goose instead of for stealing gooseberries. There is a statute against stealing geese, but I can't find anything about gooseberries in all 'Burr,' so let the prisoner be discharged, for I suppose it is no offense."

The Way Down.

They had been making hay while the sun shone, and when they had finished a high haystack the farmer's boy shouted from the top, "Say, mister, how am I gonn' to get down?"

The farmer considered the problem and finally solved it:

"Oh, just shut yer eyes an' walk round a bit!"—Everybody's.

Notwithstanding.

"Here, hold my horse a minute, will you?"

"Sir! I'm a member of congress."

"Never mind. You look honest. I'll take a chance."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Hospital Sunday next Sunday in all the churches.

The Young People's League of the Union church, met Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. L. Miller, Chestnut street.

On Tuesday afternoon the Guild of the Good Shepherd met with Mrs. James Clement Sharp on Pine Ridge road, the meeting taking the form of a tea and farewell to Mrs. B. Hoffman Davidson.

The B. Hoffman Davidson family of Plainfield street will move from Waban this week after residing here twelve years, having recently sold their house, and will pass the winter in Boston.

This evening the Union Church Society will hold the first of their winter socials in Waban hall. It is to be an "Experience Meeting" the members being called upon to relate their experiences in earning their summer pledge money.

Mrs. Wm. H. Gould, Mrs. John H. Pillsbury and Miss Jessie G. Gould of Beacon street were joint hostesses at a large and fashionable reception and afternoon tea given at the residence of the first named, Wednesday afternoon. More than two hundred guests including a great many from out of town were present.

The football eleven of the Waban school easily defeated a team from the Cambridge Latin school last Friday by a score of 42 to 0. The visitors were outweighed ten pounds to a player, but put up a plucky and manly fight against their bigger and older opponents and won much praise for their sportsmanship. Moore starred for the private school.

The lecture on "Parsifal" given at the Waban school by the Rev. Henry D. Rice of Newark, N. J., Tuesday night was largely attended and greatly enjoyed not only by the pupils of the school but by many Wabanites. The speaker was more interesting and powerful and a complete master of his subjects and his lantern slides the acme of art.

Mr. and Mrs. Gifford LeClair of Upland road arrived home last week after a stay of several weeks in Europe and England.

On Thanksgiving afternoon at 3 the Waban athletic club team plays its annual football game with Newton Centre on the playground. The eleven has not been together this season and has lost three of its better players in Isola, Murray and Enholm but their places have been filled by other excellent performers for this section of the city and the team is practicing diligently with the hope of winning a fourth consecutive victory.

A meeting of the Beacon Club was held on Wednesday night at the residence of Mr. D. M. Hill, Pine Ridge road, the speaker being a neighbor, Mr. Wm. J. Sholar of Elliot, whose topic was "The New Science of Man Building." His lecture held the intense interest of his hearers and gave much food for discussion and thought, for he presented a new science, the science of Man explaining the possibilities of perfect development of body, intellect, will and feeling. His closing exposition and discussion concerning the sub-conscious self was the most novel and interesting, as he showed glimpses of a new and almost wholly unexplored field. The usual refreshments and impromptu music followed the lecture.

Newtonville.

A subscription was given Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. C. ... the Polymnia. Play was at 9 table, and the prizes were won by Mrs. Lincoln Righter, Mrs. Thomas Webster, Mrs. Joseph Knight, Mrs. George W. Bishop and Mrs. Charles H. Voo. Dainty refreshments were served during the afternoon and the affair was a social success.

Auburndale.

Mr. Ross McMullen and family have moved from the Newhall building on Lincoln street to 927 Walnut street.

Newton Highlands

Hospital Sunday next Sunday in all the churches.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. T. Noble of Lincoln street—a son.

Mr. Geo. E. Philbrook of Portland, Me., has been visiting here this week.

Miss Lena B. Holmes of Walnut street is visiting at East Northfield, Mass.

The Monday Club meets next week with Mrs. Turnbull, Columbus street.

Mr. Geo. E. Marsh of Lake avenue has been in New York this week on a business trip.

The C. L. S. C. Club will meet with Mrs. A. F. Hayward, Centre street, next Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Delaney of Floral street visited Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Spear of Caryville last Sunday.

Mr. A. M. Beers and family of Saxon road have returned home from two weeks' visit at North Scituate.

An entertainment by children from the Dorothea Dix hall will be given at St. Paul's parish house on Tuesday evening, Nov. 30.

The Daughters of the Revolution meet at Newtonville next Tuesday. Subscriptions may be left with Mrs. E. W. Warren, Lincoln street.

On Saturday afternoon the Junior League of the M. E. church will hold its annual meeting for the election of officers, under the guidance of Miss Catherine Bacon, superintendent.

Members of Caiab Stark Chapter, Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution, were entertained Saturday afternoon by Mrs. J. H. Green of Lincoln street, with a program of games and refreshments.

Dr. F. E. Withee and Joseph T. Waterhouse, members of the old Newton Highlands Fish and Game Club, have returned from a fortnight's hunting trip in Maine woods, where they shot a moose and three deer.

The Epworth League held its monthly business meeting on Wednesday evening. The social feature for the occasion was designated "An Evening at the Zoo" and was greatly enjoyed by those present. Light refreshments were served.

At the meeting of the Men's League held Thursday evening at the Congregational church, Mr. Leonard Metcalf, consulting engineer, addressed the meeting, taking for his subject "The Relative Cost of Contract and Day Labor Methods of doing City Work as indicated by the investigations of the Boston Finance Commission."

The regular business meeting of the Men's Guild was held in the vestry on Thursday evening. Routine business was transacted, a talk was given by Mr. F. W. Emerson on the Process Employed in Making Flour, and then followed an hour for social fellowship. The Guild has made an excellent beginning and new members are being added regularly.

Tuesday evening, Nov. 23, at the M. E. church, the Rev. and Mrs. J. M. S. Van Blunk, for several years missionaries in Africa, but now of the "Wilmington Conference, will give a stereopticon lecture on Africa in the Methodist church. In picture, song and story they will tell of the country, the people, etc. Hymns will be sung in Zulu, many curios shown, and 150 beautiful colored slides will be shown.

Upper Falls.

The Improvement Society held a social in Wade hall Wednesday evening.

The many friends of Mrs. Bernard Billings of High street are sorry to learn that she is ill.

Mr. Clarence S. Alden of Ellis street gave a howling party at the Quinobquin alleys last Tuesday evening.

The monthly bean supper of the Ladies' Aid was held in the vestry of the M. E. church on Thursday evening.

Mr. John Gould who recently underwent an operation at the Newton hospital is convalescing, much to the gratification of his friends.

Six teams have entered the Q. A. Tournament this winter. The first contest was held Monday night between teams one and two the former winning.

Mrs. Herbert Locke of Boylston street entertained the Ladies' Aid last Thursday. The ladies are busy preparing for the bazaar which they are to hold in Wade hall in December.

The reading circle of the Foreign Missionary Society met with Mrs. Chas. Mills of High street last Monday afternoon at 2.30. Next week they are to meet with Mrs. Everett of High street. The circle are at present reading Quo Vadis.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

Know All Men By These Presents that pursuant to an order of the Probate Court for the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to me directed, dated the 15th day of October A. D. 1909, I shall on Monday the 6th day of December A. D. 1909, for the purpose of making partition of all the real estate of Timothy D. Sullivan, late of Newton in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, sold at public auction on the respective premises all and singular the following described parcels of real estate:

First Parcel.
At ten o'clock in the forenoon on said 6th day of December will be sold as aforesaid a certain parcel of land situated in said Newton and bounded and described as follows—Beginning at a point on the westerly side of Walnut Street distant one hundred eighty-three (183) feet northwesterly from the northerly line of Boylston Street as said line existed prior to the widening of said Boylston Street, and thence running north 17° south one hundred and eleven and 9-10 (111.9) feet by lot numbered five (5) on a plan heretofore described, thence running north 122° west sixty (60) feet by land now or late of Almond Blood, thence running north 73° east one hundred and six and 2-10 (106.2) feet to said Walnut Street, thence running southerly on said Walnut Street sixty (60) feet to the point of beginning, being lot numbered four (4) on a plan of land of Robert Truitt, surveyed October 10, 1874, by Marshall S. Rice.

The said parcel of land will be sold subject to a mortgage for $2000, and accreted interest given by said Timothy D. Sullivan to the Newton Centre Trust Company, Trustee, dated October 1st, 1908, and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 3255, Page 21, and also subject to any and all unpaid taxes, liens and assessments if any such exist.

Second Parcel.
At eleven o'clock in the forenoon on said 6th day of December will be sold as aforesaid a certain parcel of land situated in that part of said Newton called Newton Highlands and being lot numbered four (4) on a plan drawn by C. Aberton Hicks, Civil Engineer and entitled "Sketch of land in Newton Highlands belonging to T. W. Mullin" and recorded with Middlesex

South District Deeds, said parcel being bounded and described as follows:—Southerly by Boylston Street, fifty-six and 65-100 (56.8) feet, easterly by land now or late of Covey and land now or late of Galvin seventy-two and 1-10 (72.1) feet, northerly by Lot numbered three (3) on said plan, fifty-one and 32-100 (51.32) feet; and westerly by a way shown on said plan sixty-two and 3-10 (62.3) feet, with the right to use said way so far as it abuts upon the described premises, excepting from the described parcel a small portion thereof supposed to contain about two (2) square feet of land taken by the city of Newton in the year 1892 for the widening of Boylston Street.

The said second parcel will be sold subject to a mortgage given to the Newton Savings Bank dated February 25, 1892, and recorded with said Deeds in Book 2099, Page 143, on which mortgage $1500. of principal and accrued interest remain unpaid. Also subject to any and all unpaid taxes, liens and assessments if any such exist.

Third Parcel.
At two o'clock in the afternoon on said 6th day of December will be sold as aforesaid a certain parcel of land situated in that part of said Newton called Newton Highlands and bounded and described as follows:—Beginning at a point on the northeasterly line of Dedham Street at land now or late of Munroe and thence running north 32° 20' east on said land now or late of Munroe two hundred and fifty-one and 1-10 (251.1) feet more or less to land now or late of Stone; thence turning and running southerly by said land now or late of Stone two hundred and sixty-three (263) feet more or less to said Dedham Street, thence turning and running northwesterly by said Dedham Street by two lines, in all two hundred fifty-two and 31-100 (252.31) feet to the point of beginning.

Said third parcel will be sold subject to a mortgage given to the Newton Trust Company dated November 5, 1908, and recorded with said Deeds in Book 3407, Page 405, on which mortgage $1000. of principal and accrued interest remain unpaid. Also subject to any and all unpaid taxes, liens and assessments if any such exist.

Fourth Parcel.
At three o'clock in the afternoon on said 6th day of December will be sold as aforesaid a certain parcel of land situated in that part of said Newton called Newton Highlands, bounded and described as follows:—Beginning at a point on the southeasterly side of Needham Street by land now or late of Davis and from thence running southerly by land now or late of J. Alba Davis one hundred and eighty-five (185) feet to land now or late of Hall; thence turning and running southerly by said Hall land one hundred (100) feet, thence turning and running southeasterly by said Hall land now or late of Hall one hundred and three and 10-100 (103.50) feet to land now or late of Safford and Coburn; thence turning and running southerly again on said land now or late of Safford and Coburn one hundred and thirty-four (134) feet to land now or late of Ferren; thence turning and running northwesterly by said land now or late of Ferren two hundred and two (202) feet; thence turning and running southerly by said land now or late of Ferren two hundred and two (202) feet to land now or late of Gordon Dexter; thence turning and running northwesterly again by said land now or late of Dexter two hundred and seven and 14-100 (207.44) feet to said Needham Street, thence turning and running northeasterly by said Needham Street three hundred thirty-four and 84-100 (334.84) feet to the point of beginning, containing 41,202 square feet more or less.

Said fourth parcel will be sold subject to any and all unpaid taxes, liens and assessments if any such exist. The seller reserves the right to reject any and all bids. $100. will be required to be paid as a deposit by the purchaser of each of said lots at the time and place of sale, and ten days from said sale will be allowed for examination of title. Remainder of terms of sale will be given on application.

AUTUMN MEETING OF STATE FEDERATION.

The ideal Indian summer day of last week Thursday brought out an unusually large number to attend the autumn meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation at Brockton. Five car loads went by special train from Boston, while the local trains, trolleys and automobiles brought large numbers, until by the middle of the forenoon there was estimated to be an attendance of about 1200, the largest since the Biennial.

The Brockton Woman's Club, the hostess of the day, did everything possible for the comfort, convenience and pleasure of their guests. Public buildings, several of the churches, and the Commercial Club were open to the visitors. Numerous automobiles were at their disposal during the noon hour to show them around. A beautiful painting given by Mr. George E. Keith, one of Brockton's public spirited citizens, "Christ among the Children," by Petro Gabrine, was on exhibition in the chapel of the South Congregational church. Mr. Keith was there to meet the ladies and tell them something of the picture.

At the morning session there was the usual greeting from the hostess president, Mrs. Lena I. Hoyt, and the response by Miss Bacon, president of the Federation.

Three new clubs were presented for membership: Gardner Woman's Club, president, Mrs. Helen L. Lowell; Ladies' Unity Club, president, Mrs. Anna F. Osgood; Springfield Thursday Club, president, Mrs. J. A. Bill.

The general subject for the day was "The City." Mr. Benjamin C. Marsh spoke on "Conditions of Congestion in American Cities," and Rev. John Hopkins Denison on "Significance of the Boston 1915 Movement."

From one-thirty until two o'clock Mr. Carl Lamson presided at the organ. A cello solo by Mr. Lawrence E. Shaw and a soprano solo, "The Holy City," by Mrs. Florence Ferrell followed.

The rest of the afternoon was given to an illustrated lecture by Dr. George Kriehle of New York upon "The City Beautiful; the Ideal and its Realization."

A satisfactory luncheon has for some time been a problem with which the hostess club has had to struggle, and with greater or less success as frequenters of Federation meetings can testify. This year the executive board of the Federation has voted to try box lunches, thus relieving the entertaining club of much responsibility. There is much to be said on both sides. The experience of this meeting, however, seems to point in favor of the box luncheon in the expedition with which it can be served.

thereby giving opportunity for seeing something of the place where the Federation is meeting beyond the building in which the sessions are held and the railroad station at which you arrive and depart.

Seldom is the Federation so fortunate as it was last week in having all the addresses so evenly good, so full of information and inspiration; the music, too, fitted in appropriately with the subject in hand as a component part of the program. The members went home feeling that it was indeed good to have been there.

The City Beautiful.

Dr. Kriehle said:—

The ideal of the City Beautiful is not a new one but has existed ever since men have dwelt in cities. On the banks of the Nile the ancient Egyptians raised their monumental capitals, Memphis, and Thebes with its hundred gates, its tombs and its temples, so colossal and magnificent that we are, even now, stirred with wonder. In dim antiquity the Mesopotamians built Babylon with its mighty walls, its hanging gardens, and its wonderful temple, the Tower of Babel. The Greeks cherished the same ideal, building cities gleaming with long white rows of marble columns, and crowned with temples, the most chaste and beautiful the world has ever seen. Not in the least important ideal of the Roman emperors was their desire to make the Eternal City the most glorious of human habitations. The art of the Italian Renaissance was principally the outgrowth of civic pride and civic love. The City Beautiful is an ideal indissolubly linked with the existence of cities.

But if the ideal is old, its application to modern conditions is new. The City Beautiful in Europe and America is but a creation of yesterday. In 1850 Paris, except a few sections cleared in the times of the Revolution, was a dreary, characterless waste of plaster buildings, built along dirty, narrow streets. In 1857 Vienna was the worst capital in Europe, and its Ringstrasse, the most beautiful street in the world, had not even been thought of. Modern Budapest has entirely arisen since 1868. The difficulties which these cities had to overcome were great and greater than those which stare us in the face. Why then should not we accomplish what they have?

Our cities are far richer and have more money to spend. All that we lack is the determination to carry out the ideal of the City Beautiful, and to go to work in an intelligent manner, profiting by the experiences of the past. I believe that fifty years from now our cities will rank with the European cities.

When we consider what has been accomplished in the last few years, this seems by no means improbable. It was not much before the end of the nineteenth century that the work was taken up. It was a great comfort to have the matter taken up at the Biennial Convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at Milwaukee in 1900.

The first three obstructions to the attainment of our ideal in the American city are dirt, smoke, and billboards. Clean streets and modern sewerage are indispensable, and there is no use erecting beautiful buildings if they are begrimed in a few days by soft coal smoke. Most cities have street cleaning departments and an ordinance against soft coal smoke, so that we should devote most of our energies against the billboards. No one can walk down the chief street of any American city without having his eyes affronted by hideous business signs and by billboards. Not only the business thoroughfares, but even our parks, upon which our cities have spent so much to establish and maintain, are thus spoiled.

The opinion seems to be gaining ground that an offence to the eye (as the billboard undoubtedly is) should as well be classified as a nuisance as an offence to the nose and or to the ear, and should, therefore, be subject to the same police regulations. There are a number of other methods of procedure against them. Among these are the imposition of a heavy license tax, as is done in some European countries and the assessment of vacant real estate upon the basis of its value for purposes of out-door advertisements.

The first step to be taken in the creation of the City Beautiful is to secure general and comprehensive plans of improvement. This plan should provide for at least fifty years growth, and be sufficiently elastic to include future contingencies. It should not attempt details, but only provide general outlines: such as sites for public buildings, boulevards and avenues to connect great centres of traffic, new parks and playgrounds. The way to get such a plan is to employ competent authority, i.e., a landscape artist to draw it up. What more fitting present could the members of a club make to their native town than such a scheme of improvement?

It is a cardinal principle of the ideal of the City Beautiful, that public buildings should be adorned in a manner worthy of the city. The people's houses should be the greatest and most beautiful in the community.

The beginning was, I believe, made in Boston with the erection of the beautiful public library there. New York followed with its Appellate Court, Washington with its Congressional Library, Baltimore with its new court house, Minnesota with its splendid State Capitol at St. Paul, and Pittsburg with the Carnegie Institute. All of these buildings are adorned with fine paintings and sculptures.

It is often possible for the women's clubs of a city to enlist the commercial interests in favor of the City Beautiful. For the City Beautiful is a paying investment, not only by reason of the travellers which it attracts. I know of several instances where women's clubs have been instrumental in enlisting such support, and with most advantageous results.

There are many other ways in which women's clubs can render great service in attaining the City Beautiful. Why should not each club of your Federation have a section specially devoted to civic improvement? Its activity might be devoted to a general agitation of the subject, and to the winning of public opinion, proclaiming the gospel of the City Beautiful in school room, church, and hall.

Benjamin C. Marsh, Executive Secretary of the Committee on Congestion of Population in New York:

Congestion of Population, may be variously interpreted as the location of large populations in a city or their massing on limited space, such as a block, or their overcrowding per room. As a matter of fact, where we have overcrowding, per room and per block, we are apt to have overcrowding, especially along widely spread lines of transit, in very large areas.

It is by no means the largest cities of this country which have the greatest density of population, taking the area of the city as a whole, and this fact sufficiently illustrates the fallacy of attempting to make the density per city a criterion of the healthy organization of the city.

The causes of concentration of population are physical, commercial and economic.

The causes of congestion of population are, on the other hand, although in a sense economic, fundamentally due to conditions within the control of adequate legislation and reasonable training.

Among the causes of congestion may be mentioned:—Primarily, Land speculation, that is, the intensive use of land. 2nd—Long hours of work and low wages. 3rd—The lack of suitable means of transportation for passengers and freight, and the unnecessary concentration of factories.

The statement of some of the causes of congestion indicates rather clearly some of the remedies.

1st—We must admit the right of the city to control land speculation and to restrict the enormous fortune made by real estate speculators at the expense of the health and the vigor of the community. This will be done most effectively, probably, by a Commission upon the use of land, and by a system of progressive taxation upon increase in land values. We may, however, be obliged to exempt as well from taxation the homes of workingmen, below a certain minimum value.

The second remedy would be the enforcement of a minimum rate of wages that minimum being sufficient to provide for the reasonable subsistence of the workman and his family, and the restriction of the hours of work.

A third remedy is the provision of suitable means of transportation, and regulations restricting the location of factories.

Rev. Mr. Denison's address will be found on page 6.

LASELL SEMINARY NOTES.

The piano recital last Thursday evening by Mr. Alvah Glover Salmon of New York, was of unusual interest. His subject was "Russian Composers," and his informal yet scholarly explanation of their methods and merits, followed by a brilliant rendering of many short selections from their works, won enthusiastic applause.

Friday night was German night at the seminary. An elaborate German dinner was served, and later in the evening Wilhelm's amusing comedy, "Einer Muss hehrathen," was presented by four of the students. This was followed by a reception in the parlors, where all were expected to converse in German.

Both performances of "Lakme" at the Grand Opera House were attended by parties from the school.

Exclusive shops are showing a larger line of hand brass work than ever before. It will be very popular this year for Christmas gifts; there is hardly anything more useful, and at the same time handsome and distinctive.

How Sugar Melts.

If we drop a lump of sugar into a cup of tea we find it takes a considerable time to melt if allowed to remain at the bottom of the vessel, but if we hold it up in the spoon near the surface of the liquid it dissolves much more rapidly. This is owing to the sugar as it melts rendering the portion of the tea containing it heavier. The sweetened part, therefore, descends, leaving the sugar constantly in contact with unsweetened or only partially sweetened tea—in fact, a continual circulation of tea is promoted until the whole is dissolved. When the sugar is placed or permitted to lie at the bottom of the cup it dissolves until the layer of fluid next to it is thoroughly sweetened or saturated, when it practically ceases to dissolve any further, the sweetened and heavier stratum above it acting for a considerable time until the law of diffusion comes gradually into play, like an imperious carrier, in keeping back the lighter, unsweetened fluid above; hence the reason also why stirring, in breaking up the saturated layer and allowing access to the unsweetened portion, is so effectual in bringing about the uniform sweetening of tea. Life is not infrequently sweetened by the same stirring up process.

The Family Pair.

The wriggly stillness of the study period was broken by a slamming door, and a thin boy in dirty, ragged clothes slouched across the room. Halfway to the teacher's desk he drew back. "Pa wants that you should let Jim go home right now." As Miss Davis looked a little doubtful, he added, "He kin come back right away."

The permission given, the two badly soiled, half starved sons of the most shiftless family in the district sluffed down the stairs. Very shortly Jim returned, wearing a pleased and important smile on his pathetic little face.

"I come as soon's I could. Pa's brother's dyin' to Poplar," he announced cheerfully. "That's why Pa wanted me."

"But you weren't gone long; you didn't stay home. I can't see why you went at all," answered the bewildered Miss Davis.

"Why, pa's goin'," explained Jim.

"Yes, but what has that to do with you?" asked the teacher.

"Pa had to have his suspenders," was Jim's matter of fact reply.—Exchange.

The Power of Snails.

One day by way of experiment I harnessed two common garden snails to a toy gun carriage to see if they could pull it along, says a writer in a London magazine. Although the gun carriage was a heavy laden one, the snails pulled it so easily that I loaded the body of the carriage with small shot. The snails, however, were more than equal to the task. Anxious to test their powers still further, I attached a toy cannon (made of lead and brass) behind the gun carriage, but the snails and their additional load moved on once again with the same apparent ease. Out of curiosity I decided to weigh the cannon, gun carriage and shot and to my great surprise found the total weight to be almost one pound. I venture to think this a very good load for two snails to manage.

The Frying Pan.

"People are always decrying the frying pan," said an experienced cook. "but the thing they refer to—cooking meat, etc., in a shallow pan with butter as fat—isn't really frying it; it is sautéing. The real frying pan is a deep kettle filled with hot clear lard or olive oil. In this the food—doughnut, croquette or whatever it may be—is immersed just long enough to make it crisp and brown on the outside and feathery and light on the inside. Food cooked in this way is entirely digestible if properly made. But so many cooks make the mistake of putting too much shortening in the mixture to be fried, and the fat inside, combining with the fat outside, prevents the formation of the crisp crust and makes the food soggy."

Meanness to a Blind Man.

A man with dark glasses over his eyes touched the conductor on the shoulder as the car neared Euclid avenue and East Fifty-fifth street.

"Pardon me," the man said, "but if you're the conductor I want to ask a favor. I'm blind, and I want you to lead me over to the curb when the car stops, if you'll be so good."

"Not that I minded the little bother of doing that for him," remarked the conductor when he got back on his car, "but 'tain't right to let a blind man go around all alone like that at night trying to find his way around in the dark."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

His Idea of Economy.

"It's all very well for you to preach economy," said his wife, "but I notice whenever I cut down expenses that you smoke better cigars and spend more money for your own pleasure than at any other time."

"Well, confound it, what do you suppose I want you to economize for, anyway?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Up and Down.

Misses—Here's the man for that clock to be repaired. Get it for him. Nora—And, where is it? Misses—Upstairs, of course. Nora—Faith, an' I thought it had run down.—New York Press.

She Was Willing.

Man—Well, it's just this way. If I buy you a new coat I'll have to wear my old one another season. Wife—You sweet, generous thing, you!

None but the ill bred ridicule the peculiarities of others.

Comets.

We know positively that comets attain their immense extension in space on account of the material comprising them being excessively tenuous, thinner than the lightest filmy haze of summer, says Professor Harold Jacoby, for we know the comets are not massive; they are almost entirely without weight. And this we know with certainty, because their arrival produces no perturbations of motion among the planets of the solar system, while the inexorable laws of mechanical science tell us that a massive comet must surely disturb the usual orderly planetary orbits. A comet might, indeed, strike the earth, though such a collision is most improbable. But even if it should ever occur the visible effects would probably be no greater than those produced occasionally by meteorites, or "falling stars."

The other possible danger from the comet, the chance of suffocation from gases in the tail, is also negated by actual observation, for it is almost certain that our earth did once pass through a comet's tail, and no one noticed it at the time. Only the subsequent calculations of astronomers brought out the fact that the cometary orbit and that of the earth really had a common point of intersection and that both bodies occupied that point at the same time.—New York American.

Doubtful Praise.

A fullback in a football team once had the misfortune to put the ball through his own goal. This regrettable error lost him his side the game, and he suffered agonies of self reproach on the long journey home.

"I'm no more use than a chocolate footballer," he said to his sweetheart, who had traveled many miles to see him play. "A slip of a boy from school would have shaped better than I did."

"Now, George, I won't let you say such horrid things about yourself!" declared his loyal sweetheart. "You've no idea how popular you are. I heard a gentleman praising you up to the skies this afternoon."

"Never!" emphatically exclaimed the incredulous player.

"Oh, but it's quite true!" she said proudly. "He said you'd brought his club the best bit of luck they'd had for ages, and he heartily wished you were playing against them in every match."

Melodrama to Suit the Locality.

In New York.—Marry me and give me those papers and you will receive $500,000 in cash. Refuse and I'll toss you in the Brooklyn bridge!

In Wilkesbarre, Pa.—And you will receive seventy acres of richest anthracite coal. Refuse and you go into a coal breaker! Choose!

In Denver.—And you will receive 7,000 shares of Empire gold mining stock, worth upwards of a share. Refuse and you will be e-r-r-rushed in a stamp mill to p-o-o-der! Choose!

In Memphis, Tenn.—And you will receive 10,000 bales of finest cotton. Refuse and you go into the cotton gin! Choose!

In North Carolina.—And you will receive 15,000 barrels of turpentine. Refuse and you shall be boiled in resin! Choose!—Puck.

London Cellar Restaurants.

Before coffee stalls were instituted the humblest places of refreshment were cellars, where the hard up, as the slang phrase went, could "dive for a dinner," with a choice of such viands as tripe, cow heel, sausages and shin of beef soup. Some of the cellar restaurants existed as recently as the early seventies of the last century in Butcher row, Temple Bar and the network of courts and alleys swept away for the site of the royal courts of justice. It was in this neighborhood and probably to a dining place of this description that Dr. Johnson resorted in his struggling days, when he was so poor that, as he relates, it was not every day that he could afford a halfpenny tip for the waiter.—London Chronicle.

Wells in India.

The question of wells in India is complicated by the coexistence in each community of two castes—the purer Hindus and Gonds on the one hand, the weavers on the other. No weaver may draw from the well of the Hindus drink from the hands or the well of a weaver. Thus it becomes necessary either to dig two wells or to depute a certain number of the Hindu element to give water to their less exalted fellow villagers.

Almost Human.

"Oh, George," tearfully exclaimed his wife, meeting him at the door, "that parrot you brought home the other day!"

"What's the matter with him?" asked Mr. Ferguson.

"I don't know. He won't tell me. When I ask him what the trouble is he just screams dreadfully."—Exchange.

A Bright Boy.

"The gentlemen who came to see daddy said I was one of the most intelligent children they ever saw," said little Jack.

"Indeed!" said the proud mother. "Did you recite 'Little Drops of Water' for them?"

"No, I refused."—London Mail.

A Suggested Improvement.

Gladdening a Humorist.

The financial burden which Mark Twain carried some years ago weighed on his mind heavily. In those moments of despondency there was one faithful friend who could make the humorist forget his troubles. This was Dan Beard, the artist who illustrated some of Twain's books.

"Dan Beard, there is no tonic that can equal the company of a cheerful man," said the humorist as he entered the artist's studio.

"Ah, but I have such a pleasant subject to work upon that I am not in need of either man or tonic for my cheerfulness," retorted the artist.

"Peg pardon; it is I that need the tonic, and that's why I am here," said Twain forlornly.

"Then allow me to prescribe a dose of your own medicine." And Mark was handed a copy of his book which Beard had been studying.

"I thank you," replied the humorist. "It took me a year to get that medicine out of my system, and I do not propose to imbibe it again."

A discussion of the book was followed by a hearty dinner, and Twain left his friend, having received the cheer that he needed.

The Alligator's Tongue.

On one occasion when traveling along the west coast of Africa with an old skipper who had known many missionaries, but "did not see the use of them," Bishop Taylor-Smith was obliged to endure a string of taunting questions, such as "What was the good of spouting at Exeter hall?" and "What did missionaries know, anyway?"

At last the bishop could stand it no longer. Turning to the skipper, he said: "I know you are an expert. Can you tell me the length of an alligator's tongue?"

"Certainly," was the reply, "but it depends on the length of the alligator." "Very well, then; given an alligator fifteen feet long, what would be the length of its tongue?"

"Three feet," was the answer.

But the bishop, who had kept alligators and watched their ways, knew better. "It is evident that you are an authority on the west coast of Africa," he said, "but it is also evident that some people see more in ten minutes than others in twenty years. Let me tell you that an alligator has no tongue."

Declined the Job.

A writer of cheap fiction relates a trick played on him by a collaborator in the days when dime novels were longer than they are now, and the compensation made it worth while for two men to write one story between them. After his partner had finished the first chapter of their initial collaboration it was handed over with the following announcement:

"There, I've just thrown the book over a thousand foot cliff and told the reader that nothing could prevent the land from falling to death on the rocks below. It is up to you to save the boy."

The other writer said nothing, but sat down and wrote furiously for an hour. Then he quietly handed the manuscript back. A glance at the second chapter showed the funny man that his friend had completely ignored the events in the first part of the story, introduced a new set of characters and left the hero still hanging over the cliff, waiting to be rescued by his creator.—New York Sun.

Poetry Didn't Save Them.

A New York prisoner accused of drunkenness who pleaded his case in rhyme before a magistrate got a sentence of six months on "the island," for, as the judge remarked, his "jag" was bad enough, but his poetry was worse. Over in London a "plain drunk" put forth this:

I've been drinking wine that is drawn from the wood;
No bottle rubbish, but sparkling and good;
But it got in my head, so my friends all explain
That the wine has gone back to the wood once again.

The effusion and the celebration cost him 30 shillings.—New York Tribune.

College Sentiment.

Dr. Blank, about twenty years a professor in a certain college, was on the eve of a trip to Europe, to be absent two years. In pathetic and rare hurrowing tones he made his farewell address to his class:

"Yes, I am about to part with you. This is more than distressing to me. Would that there was a window in my breast, my dear boys, that you might see the innermost recesses of my heart."

A strapping in the rear, seized with a happy thought, shouted:

"Professor, would a pane in the stomach do?"—Lippincott's.

Unusual Luck.

"So you've rented that haunted house which was on your hands so long?"

"Yes; rented it to an actor."

"Did he find out its reputation?"

"That's the very thing which decided him to take the house."

"Rather surprising?"

"He said it would be such a comfort for him to get inside of a house where the ghost walked every night."—Baltimore American.

Mrs. Malaprop.

"You mustn't think you ought to run around barefooted, Johnny," said Mrs. Lappling chidingly. "Just because Bobby Stapleford does. He's no centurion to go by."—Cassell's Journal.

Buying in His Note.

Colonel Bill was a pioneer legislator, merchant and banker of the west pocket variety.

It was seldom that Colonel Bill got caught by a debtor, so unerring was his judgment of men, but his transaction with old man Blankerton was an exception to the rule. Blankerton got into Colonel Bill's ledger to the amount of $90 and finally balanced the account with a note.

When the paper was a long time overdue and there was no prospect of a settlement, to the eminent disgust of the colonel, he declared, with a strong Anglo-Saxon emphasis, that he would sell Blankerton's note for 50 cents on the dollar. The statement was not long reaching the ears of the maker of the note. He met the colonel in the village street one day and accosted him:

"Bill, heard you'd offered to sell my note for 50 cents on the dollar."

"Yes; I will."

"Will you sell it to me at that rate?"

"Yes, sir; I'll sell it to you at that rate."

"All right, Bill; make out a new note."

Colonel Bill's symptoms of apoplexy became noticeable from that moment.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Oldest Joke.

It will be difficult to discover an older practical joke than that of the coppersmith and the maker of brazen images for the temple of Osiris, which is embodied in Egyptian inscriptions dating from the reign of Menes, founder of Memphis, who ruled over 7,000 years ago. According to ancient records, there dwelt between these two craftsmen a quiet man whose desire was for peace and who was sadly disturbed by the noisy occupations carried on by his busy neighbors. He therefore asked each of them to say for what sum they would change their dwellings. This they did. Each calculated the amount required, and he, being satisfied, paid it over to them.

"Now," he asked of the coppersmith, "where is your new dwelling?" "I have taken that of the maker of images," was the reply. "And you?" queried the quiet man of the latter, "whither goest thou?" "To the house of the coppersmith!"

This is one of many tales told in all ages which are woven into myth and legend and differ only in local color.

He Needed the Clerk.

When Tim Campbell was in the Fifteenth congress he stole a clerk from Congressman Scott. Scott was a new member and was made chairman of a committee which gave him a clerkship. He knew nothing about the clerk. Campbell did. Through some means or another he had the clerkship transferred to his own committee. Six months later Scott learned of the trick. Meeting Campbell, he said:

"That was a nice piece of petty larceny."

"Tut, tut, Mr. Scott," said Campbell; "my committee needed a clerk worse than yours." Then, with twinkling eyes, he continued, "You are a millionaire and can afford to hire half a dozen clerks, while I must go to the government for clerical assistance."

The ready reply amused Scott. The two men were always the best of friends thereafter.

Anxious Traveling.

A traveler in Russia noticed that the train he entered was all decorated with flags and banners, and at every station it passed stood a company of soldiers and a band playing the national anthem. The traveler asked a brakeman the reason of all this ceremony. The brakeman, lowering his voice, replied:

"I don't mind telling you, sir—but in the strictest confidence, be it understood—that a carriage in this train has been engaged for his majesty. But his majesty, as a matter of fact, won't set off till this evening. Thus the plot hatched against him may take effect on this train, you see, and our gracious sovereign will be saved."

The brakeman touched his cap and passed on, and the traveler, suddenly grown pale and nervous, stared from the window anxiously.

The First Patent on Matches.

Before 1833, when wooden matches with phosphorus were made in Vienna, people were dependent upon flint and steel to secure a light. The first patent for a phosphorus match in the United States was taken out in 1830 by A. D. Phillips of Springfield, Mass. For many years people refused to use them, but by 1845 the flint snuffing and clumsy old tinder boxes were generally discarded and are preserved, like snuff-boxes, as curiosities.

DURRELL—YELLAND.

A pretty home wedding of the fall season was that of Miss Harriet L. Yelland of West Newton, and Mr. Charles M. Durrell of Spencer, on Wednesday evening at the Yelland residence on Waltham street.

The house was beautifully decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums, fall foliage and greenery and the ceremony took place at seven o'clock under a floral arch.

The bride wore a princess gown of satin with princess lace, the conventional tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of Killarney roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Mabel Bailey of Newton, the maid of honor, wore a gown of a delicate shade of pink messaline, and carried pink chrysanthemums. A pretty feature of the wedding party were the four pages, Masters John, Malcolm and Irving Yelland, nephews of the bride and Donald L. Sweeney of Newton Highlands. Mr. Louis M. Yelland of West Newton was the best man. Rev. Richard T. Loring of the St. John's church, Newtonville, officiated and the bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. John F. Bentley of Newton Highlands. A reception followed until ten o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Durrell being assisted in receiving by Mrs. Henry Yelland, and Mr. and Mrs. Durrell, parents of the groom. Messrs. John F. Bentley, Harry Santorum and George Beake of Somerville were the ushers. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Durrell will reside in Spencer, where the groom is superintendent of the Worcester County Gas and Electric Light Companies.

THE GREAT PLANETS AS NOW SEEN.

With the return of longer evenings, the stars are much more in evidence to the observing. The fall star clusters are always interesting, as they precede the richest panorama of sky scenery the whole heaven affords. For the most part, these starry groups remain the same in conformation and brilliance year after year, so that our ancestors, centuries ago, saw them in exactly the same relation as we do today; the favorite constellations have neither enlarged nor diminished. It is well known, however, that the whole universe of stars is in motion, some moving one way and some another; but on account of their immeasurable remoteness, the change is not very apparent.

Some slight changes do take place in a few constellations by visiting planets, which for the time being adds very much to the beauty and brilliance of the group visited. But of the whole number of about 90 constellations, the planets can only visit the twelve comprising the zodiacal series, and some of these are very obscure groups, the others are very much brighter clusters, five of which being honored with stars of the first magnitude.

In the event of a planet, or planets passing through an obscure constellation, the group so honored is, by that event, pretty much all planet, so long as the visitor remains; but in the case of a brighter group, where there is a residential bright star, that cluster is suddenly increased to still greater brilliance.

The planetary study of the heavens is always interesting, and not very difficult either. We need just to cultivate a growing acquaintance, and get in the habit of placing them around the sun, and tracing them as they move about in the sky. The direct, or proper motion of the planets is from right to left, or from West to East. But on account of our observing them from a moving body like our earth, they sometimes appear to go the reverse way, this is called their retrograde motion. Any one, after a little acquaintance, can easily explain the why and the wherefore of this to his own satisfaction.

The planets now seen in the evening skies are three in number: two are in the southeast, and cannot well be mistaken, as there is nothing to equal them in that region of the sky. The brighter one with a reddish hue, is the much talked about Mars; the other to his left is Saturn and has a yellow, or old gold appearance. The third planet now seen in the southwest, is the beautiful white planet Venus, that so often leads the starry hosts in the capacity of "Evening Star," but she is as often a morning star. She is only evening star when east of the sun, she is morning star when west of him. All the other planets come under the same rule, and make the same changes.

The places these planets occupy in the Solar System or Family are—Venus is second and speeds away round her chief at the prodigious speed of 22 miles a second. Mars stands fourth, and is the smallest of all, save one, that of Mercury, and is only 4,000 miles in diameter, tripping round the sun at the velocity of 14 miles a second. The third planet we are describing is the sixth child of the sun, and is the largest, save one, Jupiter, and is more than 600 times larger than our beloved earth, which is always giving us a free ride around her chief at the speed of 18 miles a second. But we must not forget to say, regarding Saturn, he being so far away from the "Power House," he is not able to make better speed than 6½ miles a second. Yet, he is so great, so beautiful, so wonderful in his make up, that a look at him through a good telescope when in his best robes, will give us a thrill of delight for the rest of our mortal life. Be sure to see him some time.

We must not forget to say a word about Jupiter, the giant of the sun's numerous family. So large is he, that if all the rest of the planet family were rolled into one ball, he would still be the larger in size.

All the planets give us reflected light from the sun, having none of their own, but in case of Jupiter, some astronomers hold that he still has some native light on account of the gaseous vapors that still prevail on his surface. The best time to see Jupiter now, is about 5 o'clock in the morning in the southwest, he is very large and cannot be mistaken. His speed in his orbit is about 8 miles a second, a little faster than Saturn.

—One of the most interesting entertainments in the Newton Catholic Club series took place last week Thursday evening when an address on private terms, for immediate occupancy, was given by James B. Connolly, the author, who described the recent world cruise of the battleship fleet.

—Costumes that were familiar 50 or more years ago were worn by many of those participating in an old fashioned dancing party under auspices of St. Bernard's aid society in Odd Fellows hall, Monday evening. The grand march was led by Thomas J. McGrath and Mrs. John Cahill. Mr. McGrath was floor director, his assistants being Justin A. McCarthy and Timothy F. Hickey. The aids were Thomas C. Donovan, William H. Mague, Thomas J. Green and William Cahill. A prize for the best woman's costume was awarded Miss Elizabeth Reynolds, who appeared as a coleen. John Cahill, as an Irish squire, won the prize for the best men's costume. The affair was attended by more than 300.

POLICE.

Miss Della M. Nally, living at 85 Homer street, Newton Centre, and employed as a maid in the family of Mrs. Kroll, 37 Shaw street, West Newton, was convicted in court Saturday morning of forging a check with her employer's name and was placed on probation.

RAILWAY MEN MEET.

Announcement of the winners of cash prizes for best essays of 500 words or less on "How to Prevent Accidents" was a feature of a meeting of the Suburban railway club in Dennison hall Tuesday evening. General Manager Carl A. Sylvester announced that the winners were motor-man McDonald of the Lexington division and conductor Sherman Frost of Waltham, whose papers were then read. The essays were received with enthusiastic applause. John Conning of the Boston elevated company gave an address on "Controllers" and Charles C. Pierce of the General Electric company spoke regarding the street railway situation throughout the country and told incidents of a recent trip of 10,000 miles through the country during which he inspected street railways.

WHO WILL HELP?

We want for use in a large working girls' club in Newton (one hundred and twenty-five members) six or eight tables, either loaned or presented for use of sewing class. We also need drop electric lights for the girls to work by. Has any one second hand ones? Material to be sent to Mr. Boudrot, janitor of Stearns school, Crescent street, Newton.

ALDERMEN MEET

A short and routine meeting of the aldermen was held Monday evening with President Weston in the chair.

No one appeared at hearings on petitions to keep gasoline by Herman T. Baldwin, 96 Middlesex road, Newton Garage, Brooks avenue, Dr. Subbs, Maple avenue, and C. Roy, Washington street, of the Telephone Co. for pole locations on Hillside road, attachments on Clinton street, Lincolnwood avenue, and Commonwealth avenue, of the Edison Co. for locations on Brookline avenue, attachments on Brookside avenue, and Homer street, and on taking land for sewer in Woodbine terrace. Objections were filed on attachments by the Edison Co. on Parsons street and Islington road by E. R. Hills and J. P. Roberts.

The mayor sent in a recommendation for the purchase of a motor fire truck at a cost of $5,500. The Republican city committee filed notice of intention to enter city primaries, Nov. 21, and notice of a hearing on the petition of the N. & W. Gas Light Co. to increase its capital stock to $290,000 was also given.

Martin C. Laffie and Reuben Forknall were granted renewals of auctioneer licenses and the Catholic Club was granted a pool table license without reference. Petitions were filed by Martha Evans for an intelligence office license, 1555 Washington street, H. S. Howland for damages for personal injuries, of Squire et al for new street between Walcott street and Commonwealth avenue, and of L. Genspon to remove junk license to 96 Pine street.

Hearings were ordered for Nov. 22 on petitions of Telephone Co. for attachments on Carver road, Camden road and Rowe street. The Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., was given permission to set a tablet on Waverley avenue near Montrose street to mark the birthplace of Roger Sherman of Revolutionary fame. License granted Lemuel Van Wart as a common Victualer at 833 Washington street, and Lasell Seminary given permission to put underground wires on Woodland road and Seminary avenue.

Leave to withdraw was given L. Genspon on his petition to transfer his junk license to Adams avenue, and also on petition of the Telephone Co. for attachments on certain streets.

The Public Works committee reported favorably on an appropriation of $5,000 for a motor fire truck and adversely on petition for sewer in Chestnut street, Waban.

Orders were adopted granting the Telephone Co. attachments on Langley road, the Gas Light Co. permits to open Arlington street, declaring result of state election and revoking Common Victualer licenses of W. I. Lane, J. B. Morrell and Louis Solari.

On motion of Alderman White the order relative to police pensions was reconsidered and after a few words from Alderman Doherty was unanimously adopted.

The board adjourned at 8.25 o'clock.

Women's Clubs

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt

Congratulations to the Newton Y. M. C. A. upon their splendid success in raising their $150,000 and more for the building fund. It was indeed a remarkable example of what can be accomplished by systematic team work.

And now that that is an accomplished fact and the club women, as club women, are relieved of certain responsibilities which are often left to them in other communities, can we not show similar team work in a crusade against the billboards in the community? Much is being heard of the Boston 1915 Movement. Why cannot we have a Newton 1910 movement? We are reasonably satisfied with our city, yet in our satisfaction let us not sit down as if there were nothing further needed. We have but to look around us as we motor about the city to be confronted with awful examples of art (?) let loose upon us.

Cannot the clubs take a hand in this matter and rid us of them? Let it be done in the best, the fairest manner possible, with justice to the advertiser, to the promoter and to the land owner, but let it be done and done soon. Of what use is it to surround the children with works of art in the school rooms and then turn them out into the streets amidst such monstrosities as are seen along the boulevards. Let us get to work, so that when the last days of 1910 are waning we may say, "Newton 1910 marked the doom of the billboards."

The autumn meeting of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs will be held at the Technical high school, Newtonville, on Tuesday, Nov. 30, at 2.30. Charles L. Kirschner, head master of the school, will speak upon "The Value of Technical Schools in a Community like Newton." This will be supplemented by short talks from Mrs. Blanche E. Hyde of the household economics department on "Should household economics receive the dignity of college requirements," Michael W. Murray of the mechanical department on "How practical the general efficiency given in this department," and Samuel Thurber, Jr., of the English department on "What features of the old courses are sacrificed to the new technical training." A reception and social hour will follow, giving ample opportunity for inspecting the new building.

The regular meeting of the Social Science Club will be omitted next week.

A lecture on "The Marble Faun" was given by Mrs. George G. Phipps before the Monday Club of Newton Highlands at its meeting this week. Violin selections by Miss Perry, accompanied by Miss Person added to the pleasure of the afternoon. Light refreshments were served after which the club adjourned to meet with Mrs. J. H. Trumbull of Columbus street on Nov. 22.

Those who have known the Newtonville Woman's Guild will remember that it has sometimes been called "a charitable organization with a literary bias." Along with the broadening of its scope the Guild has always clung to some of its original features and so among its committees there still remains its charitable committee. Once a year under direction of the committee there is held in connection with one of the meetings an exhibition of the work made by the needlework guild, the club being a branch. On Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 16, 964 garments were shown as the work of this year, an even larger number than was contributed last season. These will be distributed among the charities of the city, going to the Associated Charities, the Newton hospital, the District Nursing Association, the Pomroy home, the Home for Aged People, the Nonantum Day Nursery, the West Newton Day Nursery and to some special cases.

The afternoon's program was arranged with special reference to its appropriate connection with the thought of the meeting. Miss Gertrude L. Farmer of the Social Service department of the Massachusetts General hospital told of the work in this line which is being carried on there. The aim is to get nearer to the patient than the physician can alone, and this is done through the friendly visitors. They also keep in touch with what other charitable organizations are doing for these same patients. The friendly visiting is especially important in the case of tubercular patients for condition of the home is so vital a factor both in the cure of the patient and in the prevention of the spread of the disease.

When patients come of outside towns investigation is made of what facilities are to be had at home for treatment and if, as in the case of Newton, help can be had there the case is referred to the proper place.

Tea was served by the charitable committee of which Mrs. C. R. Lynde is chairman and in whose charge were the arrangements for the afternoon.

Congressman Weeks, who is always a popular speaker in Waban, gave a most enjoyable talk before the Woman's Club on Monday afternoon. His subject was "Washington Life and National Legislation." The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. George K. Heald. A motion is before the club to enlarge the membership list to ninety instead of eighty.

The Pierian Club held its regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. C. Willard of Champa avenue. Current Events were discussed, and a solo enjoyed by all was sung by Mrs. Johnnot.

"Household Fittings and Furnishings" was the subject of the paper given by Miss Grace Weston at the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning. Miss Weston opened with the quotation from William Morris, "Have nothing in your house which you do not believe to be beautiful or know to be useful," and pointed out the influence the Pre-Raphaelites have had in raising the taste in household decoration. Thro-her paper she emphasized the need of simplicity, harmony, consistency. Make the homes habitable. The woman should remember that her house reflects herself. It should be a background for the people in it. The proper treatment of walls and floors was considered and some of the mistakes in use of light or dark coloring, which wrongly enlarge or contract the appearance of the room were suggested. The drawing room is perhaps the most stereotyped in manner of decoration, but the converting of it into an international museum was deprecated. The library or living room is the one where the individuality of the owner may be shown to advantage. In the dining rooms there are perhaps fewest mistakes. Restfulness should be characteristic of the sleeping rooms. Possibilities of treatment of city back yards converting them into vistas of beauty rather than more dump heaps were suggested. The paper closed with a description of Mark Twain's home in Hartford. Several members added particular

MISS BRAGDON DEAD.

The saddest event of the week was the death on Friday of Miss Ruth E. Bragdon, the youngest daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Bragdon of Newton Highlands.

Taken ill last summer she made a valiant struggle for life against the inroads of pulmonary consumption, death resulting from a hemorrhage the previous week.

Miss Bragdon was but twenty-four years of age and her vivacity, her keen wit and attractive personality had made many friends to whom her death is a serious loss.

The funeral services were held from the Bragdon home on Lake avenue on Sunday afternoon, many friends being present to mourn with the bereaved household. The casket was completely banked with beautiful roses and chrysanthemums. Rev. George G. Phipps was in charge, assisted by Rev. Dr. George T. Smart of the Congregational church. The burial took place on Monday at Andover.

POLICEMAN FINED.

Patrolman Richard A. Dalton, who was appointed to the department Jan. 1, 1898, pleaded guilty to three charges preferred by Lieut. William P. Soule in a hearing at city hall before Mayor Hutchinson Tuesday morning. He was fined two weeks' salary, and his resignation was given (Chief Mitchell with instructions that it be accepted in case of a future violation of the rules of the department.

It was charged that on Oct. 30 he reported for duty while unable to perform police work, that on the date he neglected to report off duty and that on Oct. 31 he made untruthful statements to a superior officer.

There is not a more charming place in which to pass a quiet hour than in our book parlor, filled with the choicest gems that can be bought by us in London and Paris after forty years experience.

The invitation to all lovers of books, to be found in the advertisement today of the Charles E. Lauriat Company, is one of the most cordial that could possibly be given.

The quiet secluded bookroom in the rear of their store gives a charm in its surroundings that makes it unequalled in any book store in America.

Every one should avail himself of this cordial invitation.

"VILLAGE NIGHT."

Once more the Improvement Association is busy in the promotion of good times and good fellowship in Newton Centre. It is now proposed to have, in place of the supper as formerly, a pop-concert and dance on the evening of Wednesday, Dec. 9, when old friends may renew and new comers to the town may absorb its splendid spirit. Primarily the object of this evening will be a royal good time. It is hoped to surpass the great success of last year's concert. As at that time, the hall will be finely decorated—and arranged with booths for flowers and candy, and the tables for all who wish refreshments. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Kanrich again, will be enlarged to twenty men. In addition to the regular program, there will be singing by the whole gathering of old time songs—and four special ones for the friends of Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and Amherst. This will keep everyone happy from eight o'clock until ten-thirty at which hour the floor will be cleared for dancing until midnight. Every detail from checking to special lists is being carefully arranged and "one of the best times ever" is assured. The Association wishes to understand that newcomers, whether members or not, will be heartily welcome. Tickets may be procured of members of the committee or at the drug stores at seventy-five cents each.

The rural mail-box is a sort of post-office on one leg.

A WORD TO THE AUTOIST.

To the Editor, Newton GRAPHIC:—The needlers and thoughtless blowing of ear-splitting automobile whistles and sirens on our thickly settled streets is rapidly becoming a nuisance to the many and an actual injury to the sick. If owners of cars have been persuaded to substitute these irritating devices for the more melodious horns, they should at least be used with discretion. The other day, one chauffeur sounded his "exhaust whistle" five times while traveling on Centre street between Centre place and Mt. Ida street, whereas he would have gone the distance without once shrieking a horn. This needless shrieking through the streets may be due to thoughtlessness of the comfort of others and a word from the owner to his chauffeur might easily remedy the abuse. The using of such loud and nerve-racking signals in our thickly settled districts is perhaps only a matter of taste and courtesy which each motorist must decide for himself, but at least their use should be minimized. Another cause of unnecessary noise on our streets is the running of automobiles at high speeds with the muffler cut-outs open. On level roads there is no excuse for this abuse of the comfort of the public and it is especially objectionable late at night. If the GRAPHIC will call attention to these matters perhaps this one abuse of the automobile—unnecessary —Hospital Sunday next Sunday in all the churches.

—Mr. L. B. Dowly of Hyde Park has moved to Bracebridge road.

—Mr. Warren Ellis and family of Maple Park have moved to Braeland avenue.

—Col. Morton E. Cobb of Lake avenue has returned from a trip of several months to Costa Rica.

—Mr. Fred C. Murphy who has been visiting friends on Pleasant street has returned to his home in Somerville.

—Mr. Paul V. Barker who has been ill at his home in Ashton park for the past week is again able to be out.

—Henry H. Read has leased the house situated No. 58 Crescent street, owned by Mr. C. C. Patten to Mr. William E. Darrell.

—For Thanksgiving, Mince Pies, Plum Pudding, Cake, Candles, and Rolls. Newton Woman's Exchange.
Tel. North 89-1.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. Fred Lesh of Beacon street have returned from a European trip during which they toured the continent in their automobile.

—Mrs. Mildred Faulkner (nee Armstrong) who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Warren Corkum of Lyman street, has returned to her home in Nova Scotia.

—This week we offer children's winter weight chiffron broadcloth coats at $3.95 and $4.95 for 2, 3 and 4 years. Styles for both boys and girls.
The Glen Shirt & Collar Co., 121 Tremont St., Boston.

—The executors of the estate of Henry H. Hunt have sold the house situated No. 17 Trelton road, to Mr.
Charles S. Bates, who purchases for an investment. Henry H. Read was the broker in the transaction.

—Mayor Hutchinson has accepted an invitation of the social service and playground league to present his illustrated address on "Newton's Assets" in Mason school hall, ward 6, Tuesday evening, Nov. 23. He has secured 12 new views which will be shown then for the first time. The admittance will be free.

—A musical vespers service of unusual interest was held in First church Sunday afternoon under direction of Walter E. Young, organist of the church, and was attended by a congregation which filled the edifice.
Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was sung by a quartet comprising Mrs. Laura C.
Littlefield, contralto; Mrs. Emma M.
Browne, alto; William E. Hicks, tenor, and H. Nelson Raymond, bass, assisted by 12 singers from Boston choirs and a chorus.

—The departments from Newton and Brookline were called out Tuesday afternoon to extinguish a brisk fire in a large dwelling on the James
A. Lowell estate of Hammond street, Chestnut Hill, occupied by William
G. Thompson, a well known lawyer.
There was a loss of several hundred dollars, covered by insurance. The fire started from sparks from the chimney, which set fire to the roof and burned through to the ceiling of the upper story. An alarm was sent in from box 8 in this city and from box 23 in Brookline. The summoning of the departments from both municipalities caused much alarm among residents of Chestnut Hill.

STEARNS SCHOOL WINS.

The Stearns school football team defeated the West Newton team in an interesting game of football on the Newton Centre Playgrounds last Saturday by a score of 5 to 0.

The only scoring of the game was done by Ralph Bowen, full back for Stearns. He recovered the ball on a fumble on West Newton's 10-yard line and pushed it over for a touchdown in one rush. Bowen also proved to be a tower of strength on the defense.
Three times the opposing back had a clear field and but for Bowen's splendid tackling would have scored each time.

Stearns school will play the Newton Highlands team on the same grounds next Saturday.

LINA ABARBANELL,
With Henry W. Savage's "The Love"
Now Playing at the Tremont Theatre, Boston.

THEATRES

Tremont Theatre—The old glory of the Tremont Theatre as the leading musical playhouse of Boston is with it again by the success of "The Love Cure," the musical romance of stage-land in which Henry W. Savage has also maintained his average as the ablest producer of the musical comedy of the higher class in America.
A most welcome addition to the cast will be the beautiful Florence Reid who made such a pronounced hit on her debut with "The Gay Hussars" at the Boston Theatre recently. Mr.
Savage calls Miss Reid his "school girl prima donna," and it is appropriate. The management has decided to give a special matinee on Thanksgiving Day. All of the principals will positively appear.

Kelth's Theatre—Albert Chevalier, the great English character actor, will positively appear at Kelth's next week. Mr. Chevalier is unquestion-ably the foremost artist of his day and as a character comedian has been recognized as such for many years. So closely has he become identified with such classics as "My Old Dutch," that it is now almost impossible for him to get away from them, notwithstanding that during his present tour he is singing character songs that many people believe to be even better than his earlier successes. For Thanksgiving week the surrounding bill is of a particularly interesting character, one that will please the children and grownups alike. The feature will be Gruber's Animals, which will introduce the cleverest performing elephant in the world and a beautiful horse. De-Witt Burns and Terrence in their dancing pantomime, "The Awakening of the Toys," A. O. Duncan, the ventriloquist, is also on the bill and a new comedienne who has been attracting an immense amount of attention in the West will make her Boston debut in the person of Nellie V.
Nichols. Other features will be Fred Duprez, the monologist, and Marcel & Boris.

Boston Theatre—"Three Twins," the popular musical comedy at the Boston Theatre is now to begin the last week of its Boston engagement. Both Mr. Crawford and Miss McCoy have scored pronounced individual hits, which in both instances are thorowly deserved. The music is of the popular order, being both dainty and catchy, that lingers long in the memory. The piece has from a spectacular standpoint, the most startling of mechanical and electrical surprises.
It is staged lavishly, the scenes represented being picturesquely arranged and the costuming showing exquisite taste in harmonious colorings.
There is a stageful of pretty girls, excellently trained as to voice and dance and wonderful rapidity of action from the beginning to the end of the performance. There will be a special matinee performance on Thanksgiving Day, the seats for which are now on sale. Beginning Monday evening the 29th instant,
Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks will present the big spectacular show "The Circus Man" for the first time in Boston. The cast is headed by Maelyn Arbuckle.

American Music Hall—The much talked of Pauline, the famous French hypnotist will be the big feature of the all star bill. Pauline is not a lady but a handsome, well groomed, smooth faced piercing eyed young man who has no equal as a mesmerist. He is positively the scientific wonder of the age and has been rightly termed a mystifier of multitudes.
Another big feature of the bill will be Sophie Tucker the young lady with the big voice. As a song shouter Miss Tucker has no equal. The lehakawa Japs are without any exception the world's greatest balancers and some of their stunts are nothing short of marvelous. The musical end of the program will be well looked after by Diamond & Beatrice who will present something entirely novel in this line. The balance of the bill will include some of the biggest headline features in vaudeville and for many of them it will be their first appearance in Boston.

Castle Square Theatre—"A Contented Woman" which John Craig and his stock company are presenting at the Castle Square Theatre next week, is the work of Charles H. Hoyt, and that in itself is sufficient evidence of its humor. Its plot deals with the comic aspects of the woman's suffrage movement, and the fact that a husband and wife are pitted against each other in their efforts to become mayor of a city, is sufficient evidence that it is thoroughly entertaining from start to finish. Husband and wife love each other, of course, and therein lies not a little of the topsy-turvy, eccentric humor of which Mr. Hoyt was so fond, and to which he was always able to give the best of expression both in plot and dialogue.

NEW BOOKS.

Hollis Godfrey, whose new juvenile "For the Norton Name," published by Little, Brown, & Company, is just that compound of reality and imaginary adventure which appeals to lively boy readers, is a man of varied literary abilities. Professionally he is the busy head of the science department in the Boston Girls High School of Practical Arts, but he manages to find time for much and varied writing.
He is a frequent contributor to the Atlantic and similar magazines of most interesting semi-technical articles on such subjects as "The Smoke Nuisance," "Noise of the Cities," etc.
Last fall Mr. Godfrey published a novel (Little, Brown, & Company) entitled "The Man Who Ended War," which combined a charming love story with a daring new scheme for the elimination of the world's evil.
Mr. Godfrey is blessed with a fertile imagination which is well balanced by the scientist's judgment that permits no wild improbabilities to mar his work; but keeps it always plausible, even in its exciting moments.

Messrs. Little, Brown, & Company are bringing out immediately an interesting addition to Browning literature, in the form of a book by the late Rev. Francis Bickford Horn-brooke, former pastor of the Channing church.

Dr. Hornbrooke, the fourth president of the Boston Browning Society, was considered by competent critics to be one of the foremost Browning students and exponents of the entire world.

His interpretation of the most famous of all the Browning poems is intended to serve as a guide to those who are unfamiliar with "The Ring and the Book," or who have failed to grasp its inner significance. It does not duplicate any book in existence, and it affords in considerable degree that analysis and explanation which many Browning students have long desired. The story is related in simple form, the quality and place of each character is described, and the lessons to be derived are clearly revealed. It is the essential book for all readers and students of Browning.

A beautiful holiday book is entitled
"The Value of Happiness" by Mary Minerva Barrows with an introduction by Margaret E. Sangster. Miss Barrows has made a collection of poetry and prose concerning happiness, embracing many hundreds of quotations. The book is finely bound in green cloth and gold and printed on tinted paper. Published by H. M.
Caldwell Co.

NEWTON CENTRE PLAYGROUND NOTES.

Last Saturday afternoon Newton Centre defeated Newton Highlands by the score of 6 to 0. The contest was very interesting and well played. Newton Centre now leads the League with a record of four games won and no defeats.

The "Blue" and the "Yellow" basketball teams played an interesting game Saturday afternoon. The Yellows won the game by the score of 27 to 16.

The girls are playing a fine game, and with some more coaching and practice will develop into strong players. This is the first year they have played, and the results are very encouraging.

On Wednesday afternoon a Hare and Hound Chase will be run, starting and finishing at the playground. The course will be laid out so that the run will be about five miles long.

A division of the smaller boys will run a course of about three miles. This squad will be in charge of Mr. Howard. Any one wishing to enter should see Mr. Howard or send him their names.

A Soccer League has been formed, and a schedule will be played off before Thanksgiving.

The exhibit of the Playground and Social Service League at the Boston 1915 Exposition has been attracting considerable attention, it being well placed on the first floor. City playground development has been progressing for some years, but directed playground work for suburbs is receiving the first test in Newton Centre, and the success of the movement is giving a broader impulse to the idea.

Last Tuesday Mr. Howard was invited to speak at Winchester, where an effort is being made to improve the playground facilities.

SARAH HULL CHAPTER.

On the evening of Friday, Dec. 3, a subscription dance, under the auspices of the Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., is to be given at the Newton clubhouse in Newtonville, from 8 until 11.30 o'clock. The matrons are to be Mrs. Daniel A. White, Mrs. Charles A. Clark, Mrs. Harold H. Shumway, Mrs. Thomas M. Elwell and Mrs. Charles O. Tucker. The proceeds of this dance are to be devoted to the various branches of patriotic work which this large and flourishing society undertakes each year.

A Thanksgiving Food Sale for the benefit of the memorial fund of the Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., is to be held at the residence of Mrs. Oliver M. Fisher, 260 Franklin street, Newton, Tuesday, Nov. 23, from 11 to 4. Contributions of preserves, jellies, pickles, mince meat, pies, plum puddings, cake, candy and aprons, are solicited, and orders taken by any member of the committee, Mrs. Geo. B. King, Mrs. Albert F. Hayward, Mrs. Thos. M. Elwell, Mrs. J. H. Banborn, Mrs. T. W. Trowbridge, Mrs. E. J. Cox, Mrs. E. W. Warren, Mrs. D. A. White.

—Hospital Sunday next Sunday in all the churches.

The action of the Republican state convention on the proposed amendment to the United States constitution relative to the income tax opens up the entire scheme of taxation. National and state government should get together and outline the taxation question, so that each form of government might proceed to raise its revenue, without interference from the other. The United States has just abandoned a policy of taxing inheritances, because it found the field already occupied by the states. The Republican platform states that Massachusetts has already pre-empted the field of taxing incomes and it naturally protests against a national tax on the same. It will become painfully apparent if the proposed amendment is adopted, as now seems possible, that something should be done in defining the phases of national and state taxation. While the suggestion has not been given careful study, it is possible that in the future, municipal taxation must be limited to real estate and tangible personal property, the state to certain forms of corporation and inheritance taxation and the national to customs, internal revenue and intangible personal property. While these divisions may be readjusted, the need of demarcation of the different taxation fields is pressing.

The recent Y. M. C. A. campaign proved that residents of this city are fully alive to the needs of the young and active and on next Sunday, it is to be hoped that as generous a response will be made to the call of the old and the sick as represented by the annual Thanksgiving contribution for the Newton hospital. There is little need of explanation in this direction. The usefulness of the hospital is so well known that it should be only necessary to remind our people that next Sunday is the appointed time, to insure a generous and prompt contribution. It should be firmly understood, however, that as the usefulness of the hospital increases, the need for more funds becomes more and more pressing. Let your response next Sunday be most generous.

At the last meeting of the school committee, a request was made by about one hundred graduates of our High school, for opportunities for post graduate work in the Technical High school. While this seems a laudable request, it should not be forgotten that the city has done its full duty towards these young people and any further education they desire, should be taken at their own expense. With the question raised by so many taxpayers as to the extent of the present curriculum, a matter which is certainly well worth investigating, it would be most unwise to add post graduate courses to our school system.

Pressure of advertising requires a sixteen page GRAPHIC this week. We apologize for the necessary delay in publication.

AMONG WOMEN.

On Nov. 12, the West Newton Woman's Educational Club opened the season with an interesting and instructive lecture on "Student Life in Germany," by Dr. Marshall Livingston Perrin of Boston University. Mrs. George St. Amant, chairman. Delightful piano selections by Luther B. Woodard of the Allen school and an attractive social tea in charge of Mrs. Woodward closed an afternoon of good fellowship.

Friday, November 26, 2:30 P. M. Regular meeting in charge of Art and Literature Committee, Mrs. Percy Williams, chairman. Mrs. Everett S. Jones will speak on "Raphael." Book Discussion. Mrs. Bernard Early, leader. Music. Social Tea.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will meet at the home of the president, Mrs. Carolina Hunt, 24 Webster street, West Newton, Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 2:30 P. M. All members are earnestly requested to be present, as business of importance will come before the meeting.

The annual meeting of the Newton Woman's Exchange was held recently at the residence of Mrs. E. H. Pickernell, 86 Sargent street. The reports from the various committees were encouraging enough to warrant the board of directors to continue this philanthropic work another year. The following officers were elected for 1910-1911: Mrs. John T. Lodge, president; Mrs. Wm. T. Lucas (Newtonville), 1st vice president; Mrs. Alice M. Silsbee (Watertown), second vice president; Mrs. F. A. Pickernell, third vice president; Mrs. E. T. Fearling, treasurer; Mrs. J. T. Bothfeld, corresponding secretary; directors, Mrs. A. Stuart Pratt, West Newton; Mrs. M. Converse, Auburndale; Mrs. Maud Henry, Mrs. E. P. Tuck, Mrs. Wm. T. Coppin, Mrs. H. M. Taylor, Mrs. Henry Whitmore, West Newton; Newton. The exchange is open every week day from 8:30 until 5:30 at 275 Washington street, Newton. It is earnestly hoped that the support of the public in the coming year will be accorded it as heartily as in the past two years.

Rev. John H. Denison of Boston: The 1915 Movement is one of those spontaneous evolutions in which one cannot but be conscious of the direction of a greater purpose than those which originate in the minds of men. It sprang from the spirit of the times, that Divine power within us, not ourselves, that makes for righteousness.

Whether this particular movement will succeed may be a question of opinion. It is, however, increasingly evident that if the problem of the modern city is ever to be solved it must be accomplished along the lines which this movement has followed. This is the only path to the ideal city.

The trouble with a modern city is not lack of intelligence or lack of righteousness. It is lack of co-ordination. This is due to two causes. First, class, race, and religious prejudice, the results of which are that one man has no sympathy with or knowledge of that which others are doing.

The second difficulty is class and institutional selfishness, the disposition of the man of each class, whether laborer or manufacturer or society man, to work for the advantage of his own little group, in disregard of the fact that his success may mean another's loss.

It is to meet these difficulties that the 1915 Movement exists. In addition to certain great unifying movements which began long ago, the 1915 Movement embraces four subordinate ones, each remarkable in itself. The first of these was the City Club, with the distinct purpose of bringing together all classes and all nationalities and all religions.

Second, in the business world a similar movement took place. There had been various associations representing different trades and each working for its own advantage. These were amalgamated with the Chamber of Commerce.

The third movement was for ward improvement. It was discovered that in each ward there was a little group of men who were working to benefit that ward, often at the expense of other wards.

The fourth movement was religious. As has been said, these movements all focused at the same time, and representatives of them, together with the representatives of other classes and movements which were previously organized, constitute the Directors of the 1915 Movement.

The second purpose of the movement is constructive effort. It stands for a plan in place of irregular and sporadic efforts.

In the third place it stands for stimulus to civic thought. It puts the question definitely to each organization, "What are you doing for Boston?"

The whole movement is succeeding because it is not so much the plan of any set of individuals as a true expression of the temper of the people and of the spirit of the age. It would have been practically impossible to bring the churches together in any one effort a few years ago. The mere suggestion suffices at this time to bring all the Protestant denominations and the Catholics and Jews together in one exhibit to demonstrate what the united churches of Boston are doing and wish to do for the city. Many have criticized the movement, but there is not one who when it has been truly understood has not been heartily in its favor.

Miss George A. Bacon, president of the Massachusetts State Federation, Mrs. May Alden Ward, a former president, and John Hopkins Denison will speak at the Boston 1915 Exposition on Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 4 o'clock, which afternoon it is proposed to make a Woman's Club afternoon.

A SUGGESTION

There is not a more charming room in which to pass a quiet hour than our Book Parlor. With the same surroundings as of your own library, you may turn from one interesting book to another. Here you will find the rare first editions (in the original parts) of Dickens—with the charming etchings by "This" and Cruikshank—also Thackeray—with the illustrations by the author; Browning, Charles Leaver and many others.

Of the famous illustrators of the colored plate period there are many examples: Those by Rowlandson, John Leech, Charles Bennett, H. Alkin, W. Heath and the immortal family of Cruikshanks (I. R. the senior, Robert and George; also the not-to-be-forgotten "Percy," son of Robert).

A wonderful collection of grangerized volumes, beautifully bound and rich in rare plates and autograph letters. All these and many sets of standard authors, all in fine bindings by English and French workmen, may be found on the shelves.

NEWTON WINS.

Newton high school won the championship of the Preparatory league football series on Claffin field Tuesday afternoon, when it defeated Cambridge Latin school, 6 to 0, in one of the hardest games of the season.

Newton was weakened by the loss of Capt. James Gallagher and Clancy, its regular ends; the former was out of the game because of an injured shoulder, while Clancy was forbidden to play by the faculty.

Cambridge Latin played all around Newton in the first period, once landing the ball on the latter's five-yard line, and then fumbling. C. L. S. was off-side on the same play, but Newton declined the penalty.

Capt. Grant and Peterson, the half-backs, repeatedly carried the ball for gains of from 10 to 25 yards through the Newton line. Grant was the star of his team in every department of the game. Not only did he carry the ball well, but he tackled cleverly and hard and intercepted several forward passes.

But in the last half the Newton boys came back and fought like tigers. Cambridge Latin received the kickoff and Capt. Grant ran the ball back 20 yards. Cambridge Latin then advanced the ball to Newton's 45-yard line on plays through the center of the line and on skin tackle plays. The "Cantabs" then fumbled. Noonan, the Newton left guard, getting the ball.

Then it was that the Newton players seemed to get better together and play a stronger game. Osborn and Ryder, the half backs, and Allen, the full back, succeeded in working the ball down to Cambridge's 10-yard line from their own 45-yard line on line plays and forward passes, and then after three more plunges Allen carried the ball across the goal line. Barber kicked the goal from a difficult angle.

Late in the game Newton got the ball to Cambridge Latin's 25-yard line on a forward pass; this was intercepted by a Cambridge Latin player, but he lost it, and Noonan recovered it. Two more tries to gain were useless, and Barber tried a forward pass to Forte, which was fumbled, and Boynton of Cambridge Latin fell on it on his own five-yard line. Time expired on the next play.

MRS. ALMA H. C. HOWES.

At her home in Brookline Mrs. Alma Hurd Curtis, widow of Osborne Howes, died Saturday, aged 92. She was born in Newton Lower Falls at the time that place was a flourishing paper manufacturing centre, and her father, William Hurd, was engaged in that business. In her youth she was a schoolmate of the late Gov. Alexander Rice.

As a young woman she was connected with a noted boarding school for girls in Worcester and was later an assistant at the famous school in New York conducted by Gorham Abbott, an uncle of the Rev. Lyman Abbott. Mrs. Howes was for many years a communicant at Trinity church, but the funeral was held on Monday afternoon at the Church of Our Saviour, Longwood.

Mrs. Howes is survived by four daughters, Miss Edith M. Howes of Brookline, Mrs. Barus, wife of Prof. Carl Barus of Brown university, Mrs. Bartow, wife of Dr. Bernard Bartow of Buffalo, and Mrs. William A. Donald of Boston, and one son, Frank H. Howes of Newton. A son, Osborne Howes, Jr., who died several years ago, was for a long time an editorial contributor to the Boston Herald.

The following word of appreciation has been sent to all the contributors whose names and addresses were on the cards.

"In behalf of the Young Men's Christian Association, we wish to thank you most heartily for your friendly interest and assistance in the building campaign just brought to a close.

The most generous response which the citizens of Newton in all walks of life have given to the movement, is an inspiration to those who had the management of the campaign in charge.

"We deeply appreciate the assistance which you have so freely rendered."

Frank A. Day, Chairman Citizens' Committee, Allan C. Emery, President of the Newton Association, H. W. Bascom, General Secretary.

There were many anonymous givers whom we cannot reach in any other way except through the columns of the Newton GRAPHIC. We wish, however, to express our appreciation of all these gifts which came from "Friends." The total number of subscriptions is 1625. The amount subscribed will be something over $156,000. All of this will be needed to beautify the grounds and prepare them for an athletic field and to erect the building. There are many who have not had an opportunity to give or take part in this enterprise, and their contributions will be greatly appreciated.

The annual Thanksgiving sale of the Ladies' Auxiliary will be held in the Association rooms Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Useful and fancy articles, such as pies, cakes, candy and many other kinds of food will be for sale.

Rev. Maurice A. Levy of the Baptist church of Newton Centre, will be the speaker Sunday afternoon at the Young Men's meeting. Mr. Levy has been a very acceptable speaker to the Y. M. C. A. throughout this part of New England, and his talk to our young men will be greatly appreciated at this time.

MATCHLESS COFFEE

We take this means of calling your attention to the fact that through our affiliation with one of the leading Boston tea and coffee houses we are able to give our customers the finest selections in all grades of teas and coffees, and also the best values obtainable. We wish particularly to call your attention to L. Brayton & Co's Matchless Coffee, for which we have the exclusive agency.

Matchless Coffee is the finished product of expert knowledge acquired by long experience in the coffee business. It is a fine blend composed largely of old crop private estate Java, carefully blended with other coffees. After careful selection and skillful blending it is thoroughly cleaned, sterilized and roasted by the most improved process which makes a coffee unequalled for great strength, fine flavor, and delicate aroma.

As Matchless Coffee is packed in foil-lined, triple thick, waterproof, airtight bags, it is sure to reach the user without losing any of its strength or aroma. We feel confident that a fair trial will make you a permanent user of Matchless Coffee.

BLAKEMORE WINS LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN

FRISBIE HAS GOOD MARGIN IN OWN WARD

The city primaries on Tuesday showed that the voters of this city take but little interest in the selection of candidates for municipal office. Only 976 votes were cast by Republicans and 96 by Democrats. The only contest in either party was for alderman at large from Ward 1 on the Republican ticket, where there were four candidates. Mr. Blakemore was an easy winner with a total of

PRIZE DRILL CLAFLIN GUARDS HOLD ANNUAL EVENT

The annual prize drill of Claflin Guard, Co. C, 5th Regt., M. V. M., was won by Corporal Edward J. Rotchford in Newton armory last Friday night. The second prize was won by Private F. W. McCabe. Third prize went to First Sergt. Albert H. Randall.

The prize drill marked the 39th anniversary of the guard. The Newton armory was well filled with spectators when the full company came onto the floor the first time under Capt. George F. Guilford. Upon the second appearance under First Lieut. George H. Daniels there were 21 men. This number was reduced to 11 when being drilled for the fourth time under Second Lieut. George S. Coulton, and finally the squad was reduced to five.

In awarding the prizes Lieut. Col. Willis W. Stover of the 5th Regt., Infantry, M. V. M., declared that Claflin Guard was handicapped in its drill work by the lack of a modern armory. He said that Newton had been neglected in this regard, and that the city was entitled to receive one of the three modern armories which will be erected by the state next year.

The first prize was a gold medal, the second was one of silver and the third bronze. The judges were Capt. Clifford E. Hamilton, Co. F, 5th Regt.; Capt. George T. Jones, Co. A, 8th Regt.; and Lieut. Jeremiah J. Healy, Co. L, 9th Regt., M. V. M. Dancing followed until midnight. First Sergt. Albert H. Randall was floor marshal, Sergt. Edward A. Wenmouth floor director, Private Daniel F. McNamara assistant and the aids were Quartermaster Sergt. Thomas J. Regan, Corporal Howard E. Reynolds, Corporal Edward J. Rotchford, Private Frederick W. McCabe and Private James E. Wallace.

CLAFLIN GUARD VETERAN ASSOCIATION.
The thirty-ninth anniversary of the "Claflin Guard" of Newton and the fifteenth anniversary of the Claflin Guard Veteran Association will be celebrated by a banquet at Young's Hotel, Boston, on Thursday, December 2nd, 1909, at 7.30 P. M. The association will be the guests of the president, Mr. Lewis R. Speare.

BOY HANGED SAD ACCIDENT LAST SATURDAY IN NEWTON

Sumner F. Hutchinson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Freedom Hutchinson of Centre street, Newton, was found dead in his bedroom early last Saturday evening, hanging from the bed-post of the bed, by his necktie. Medical Examiner West certifies that the death was due to an accident. It is said that the boy, who was twelve years of age, had been reading literature which led him to experiment with this method of hanging and it is believed that he was overcome in some manner and strangled to death. Funeral services were held from the Hutchinson home on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. H. S. Nash of Cambridge officiated.

MR. WELLMAN HONORED.

At a meeting of the executive council held recently, Governor Draper sent in two nominations, one of them being that of Mr. Hiller C. Wellman of Springfield for the Free Public Library Commission of Massachusetts. Mr. Wellman was a former resident of Newton and his many friends will congratulate him on the new honor which has come to him.

Mr. Wellman has been assistant at the Boston Athenaeum from 1894 to 1896; supervisor of the branches of the Boston Public Library from 1896 to 1898; librarian, Brookline Public Library from 1898 to 1902; librarian City Library Association of Springfield, since May 1, 1902. He was secretary of the Massachusetts Library Club from 1897 to 1899 and president in 1901. He is a member of the publishing board and of the council of the American Library Association.

LASELL SEMINARY.

Dr. Arthur Stoddard Cooley will give a lecture (illustrated) at Lasell seminary on Thursday evening, December 2nd, at 7.45 o'clock. Subject: A Tour Through Greece. The public is cordially invited to attend.

When considering heat bring to mind the "WINCHESTER" heater whose name is synonymous with warm houses. Catalogue mailed on request by Smith & Thayer Co., 236 Congress Street, Boston, Mass.

BUDGET PASSED ALDERMEN CUT SCHOOLS WATER ITEMS ELIMINATED FROM TAX LEVY

The session of the board of aldermen last Monday lasted long after midnight as the result of a two hours' conference with the school committee followed by meetings of committees.

In the absence of President Weston, Vice President Palmer presided and welded the gavel like a veteran. At the hearings on petition of F. W. Remick to keep gasoline at Exeter street, and of the Telephone Company for attachments on Rowe street, Carver road, and Camden road, and of the Edison Co. for pole locations on Waverley avenue, no one appeared. On the petition of the Telephone Company for pole locations on Judkins street, Supt. Allen appeared for the company, while Messrs. G. W. Auryansen, N. H. Tucker and A. D. Auryansen spoke in opposition, and offering to find a route for the company over private property. Martha Boynton sent a written protest.

Mayor Hutchinson sent in a communication relative to renewal of insurance policies on the library building and its contents, which was referred. He also gave his approval to requests of the Street, Police, Library and Health departments for certain transfers and of the Police and Health departments for additional appropriations of $400 and $700.

The bond of Alfred M. Russell as constable was approved and the approval of the Massachusetts Highway Commission of the automobile restriction on Commonwealth avenue was filed.

Petitions of W. S. Edmonds and John T. Burns for renewal of auctioneer licenses and of S. A. White for renewal of moving picture license at Lafayette hall were granted.

Petitions were received from residents of Florence street asking for improvements, of Amisden et al for sewers in Harford street, of C. E. Gibson et al for sewer in Sylvan avenue, of G. F. Hall Tr. for sewer in Chapel street, and of Jacob Luff for a junk license, and of the Gas Light

Co. to open North Prospect and Washington streets.

The resignation of Willard S. Higgins as warden of Precinct 2 of Ward 2 was accepted.

A hearing was ordered for Dec. 20 on petition of the Telephone Co. for attachments on Brookside avenue. On report of the Finance committee, leave to withdraw was given on petition of firemen for increase of pay, and these orders adopted—authorizing advance to water department in anticipation of receipts, making grant for city expenses to Dec. 31, establishing rate of interest on unpaid taxes, and making sidewalk assessments on Langley road and Parker street.

On report of the Franchise committee licenses to keep gasoline were granted Herman T. Baldwin, Middlesex road, Dr. F. R. Stubbs, Maple avenue, Newton Garage, Brooks street, and C. M. Boyd, Washington street, an intelligence office license to Martha Evans, West Newton, and a transfer of junk license of L. Genspon to Pine street. The Telephone Company was granted pole locations on Hillside road, attachments on Clinton street, Linwood avenue and Commonwealth avenue, the Edison Co. pole location on Brookside avenue, and attachments on Parsons street, Brookside avenue, Islington road and Homer street. The Edison Company was given leave to withdraw on its petition for poles on Homer street.

An order was also adopted authorizing water mains in Upland street. In presenting its preliminary report on the budget for 1910, the Finance committee omitted a recommendation of the item for schools and suggested a conference with members of the school committee who had been invited to be present that evening. A recess was accordingly taken and a private conference held with the school committee, the mayor and superintendent of schools, which lasted

INJURIES TO CHILDREN

STEALING RIDES AND JUMPING ON AND OFF CARS

Seventy-three per cent reduction in one month results from co-operation of Parents, Public Authorities, Newspapers and the Company

The campaign which the Company undertook in its endeavor to educate the children of the cities and towns wherein the Company operates of the danger of stealing rides and jumping on and off cars has been productive of such results that the Company desires to acknowledge the hearty co-operation of the school and police authorities and the newspapers, as well as that of parents.

In one month the reports received by the Company of children stealing rides and jumping on and off cars have been decreased from 806 to 217 per week.

This must be gratifying to everyone, especially to parents, and the Company not only thanks all who have contributed to this result, but asks further and continued co-operation toward the end that the dangerous practices may be kept down to the minimum.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

for two hours. This was followed by a session of the Finance Committee, so that it was nearly midnight when the real work of the session was reached. The supplementary report of the Finance Committee increased the street light appropriation $2,000 to $54,500, the sewer's department $100 and a majority recommended the school appropriation as $318,812 or $5,870 less than the mayor's figures and $12,313 less than the request of the school committee. Alderman Day dissented from this action of the committee.

When the order was presented for discussion, Alderman Day moved an amendment increasing the school item to $324,682, saying that it was with much regret that he differed from the majority of the committee, but he thought it a grave mistake to hamper the new Technical High school at the beginning of its work, and that the sum in question was too small to interfere with such a great educational purpose.

Alderman Burr spoke substantially as follows:—

We have all read Dr. Spaulding's excellent report with its illuminating, comprehensive statement of facts, its deep sympathy with the cause of education, and its far insight in the future good that may result under the able administration of schools which he and our School Committee have worked so faithfully and intelligently to accomplish. While we hope that we are not deficient in appreciation of all this, we are nevertheless obliged regretfully to cast our votes against the school appropriation of $324,682.

That our school system has improved enormously in ten years we all know; that it might make further great strides under its most efficient management we cannot doubt. But our feeling is that, if not already there, we are too rapidly approaching the danger point in regard to cost, and that, excellent as it may be, we cannot afford it. Dr. Spaulding assures us that the returns are far greater than the outlay, and his report says that—"One engaged in a business enterprise, who believes in his enterprise, whose belief is inspired by the safety and profit of the business, doesn't seek to determine the amount of his investment and current expenditures by the investment and current expenditures of other people engaged in the same business, or by his own past investments and current expenditures; he studies rather the ratio of return. If only the returns warrant it, he doesn't hesitate at all to invest twice, or ten times, as much as he ever invested before, or as any one else is investing."

This is true where capital is at command, but many a profitable enterprise has been "born to bluish-ness" for lack of means to bring it about, and that we believe is our position today. We are told of the hardships that will follow cutting here and shortening there, with each one of which we sympathize. But as against these special pleas, a few broad facts stand in our path like a wall.

Here are some ten-year comparisons:—

	1899	1909	Increase
School Enrollment	5,627	8,875	22%
Total Valuation, real and personal	56,421,120	70,706,800	25.4%
County Taxes and Metropolitan Assessments for years 1898 and 1908	1,148,831	1,332,280	16%
Total Expenditures, including State and County Taxes and Metropolitan Assessments for years 1898 and 1908	1,233,335	1,635,136	30.5%
School Expenses, for operating only	178,687	304,682	71%
Charges, for operating only	209,620	426,709	103%
Cost per Scholar, for operating only	31.64	44.32	40%
Cost per Scholar, including fixed charges	37.25	62.08	66.6%

(NOTE:—These figures do not agree exactly with Dr. Spaulding's, as they are for fiscal years, not school years, and are based on budgets and not on actual expenditures except those for the years 1898 and 1908). But they are near enough for our purpose, which is to give a general idea of the increases.)

We do not want to go back to the school standards of 1899, but these figures show that in ten years our expense has more than doubled for schools, while all other departments (excepting State and County taxes and Metropolitan Assessments, over which we have no control) show an actual decrease of about $61,000.

The report of your Committee on Schools recalled the increase in the November 1907 budget of $24,885 for salaries, of which $13,690 was for increasing salaries, and it reminded us that this increase was repeated the next year. This was an increase per teacher of about $50 (on the basis of 270 teachers). The increases last June, we are informed, amount to $2,200 for four months, or $5,500 per annum, or $20 more per teacher (this on the basis of 274 teachers, or four more than before). In all since November 1907 an increase of $70 per teacher. If the present request of the Department is granted, on the basis of their figures of last spring a further increase of over $21 is asked for, or in all since November 1907 of $91 per teacher. This last figure is perhaps not in point, as we are considering not the Department request but the approval of His Honor, the Mayor; but on the other hand, the figure is for every teacher, and ignores the possibility that under the merit system some may have been advanced little, if at all. Let us not forget the requests for increases in salaries we have had outside the School Department, and the replies we have felt compelled to make. Let us not forget the requests that the future will inevitably bring, and the careful thought they will merit.

Before the increase in last Autumn's budget and the new expense of the Technical High School, we had the most expensive school system of any city in Massachusetts, figured both per pupil and per capita, this comparison being based on operating cost only. Considering fixed charges in addition to operating cost, the cost per pupil has risen 66.23% in ten years. Fixed charges are not included in the uniform figures compiled by cities for comparison of actual operating cost of schools, but for our purposes we should not lose sight of them. We must all pay our rent as regularly as our grocer's bill, and the latter may be no more when we move from a $5,000 house to one costing $10,000. To illustrate,—our cost of operating schools has risen in ten years 71%, while the fixed charge has risen about 35%.

Of the increase granted in the budget of two years ago, viz., November 1907, about four-fifths was for schools. Following this large proportion, the next budget—that of last year—gave three-fourths of its increase for the benefit of schools. This year we are asked to devote $20,000 more to this department, while all other departments, excluding fixed charges and water department, show an increase of $5,326.33.

Forest Hills Extension

NOW OPEN

The elevated extension to Forest Hills Square, including the new Forest Hills and Egleston Square Stations and the new south-bound station at Dudley Street, are now open for public travel and important changes in traffic methods at Forest Hills and Dudley Street have been made.

Changes at Forest Hills Square

All surface lines from points south of Forest Hills Square now terminate at Forest Hills Square, and at that point opportunity for free transfer for those entitled thereto is given to continue a ride upon the elevated trains or upon the surface cars, in the same direction only. Passengers boarding surface cars approaching Egleston Square in either direction on Washington Street, Roxbury, between Forest Hills Square and Dudley Street Stations, may transfer in the same direction to the elevated trains at Egleston Square Station. Likewise, passengers may transfer at this station from the elevated trains in either direction to surface cars in the same direction. A surface car service will be provided between Forest Hills Square and Dudley Street.

Elevated patrons are notified that owing to the absence of any loop at Forest Hills Square, the smoking car, plainly signed, may be found on either the front or the rear end of the elevated trains.

Changes at Dudley Street

Outward-bound passengers leaving the elevated trains at Dudley Street will use the new platform over Washington Street, from which, by means of covered bridges, they will have access to either the east loop or the west loop of the upper level for surface cars.

On the upper level passengers will hereafter board surface cars from new platforms inside of these loops unimpeded by passengers getting off from these cars. Transfers may be made between the east and west loops by sub-passageways, and between the upper and lower level for surface cars by stairways.

Local passengers from the neighborhood of Dudley Street for Forest Hills for the present will make use of the Zeigler Street entrance to the station.

On the upper level passengers may make use of either end of a surface car in entering or leaving.

A WORD TO PATRONS

The changes at the Dudley Street Station, and the addition of the Egleston Square and Forest Hills Stations, together with the surface car changes involved in the opening of this extension, may, at first cause some confusion, although great pains have been taken to avoid such a condition. The extension and changes will, however, when completed, and thoroughly understood, much improve the existing conditions. We therefore bespeak the indulgence of our patrons in becoming familiar with the use of this new extension, which has been provided for their benefit at large cost.

school committee ought to be able to save 2% of its appropriation without affecting the efficiency of the schools. Alderman Gray said that the city had reached the point where it must call a halt and that it was not a question of $5,000 but of principle.

Alderman Palmer called Alderman Doherty to the chair and said that as he wished to see the Technical school a success and believing that the economy recommended by the committee would affect this school he favored the amendment, as he did not wish to even take a chance of injuring the school.

The amendment to increase the item was lost on a voice vote, and Alderman Holmes then introduced an amendment to eliminate the items for water in the various departments, making a net reduction of $4,905 in the total budget, with a proviso that departments should pay for all water used by them in excess of that used the present year. This amendment was an echo of the fight of last year, when it was defeated by a vote of 10 to 8. Alderman Jones favored the amendment, saying that the board ought to be logical and, if no charge was made the sewer department for water for flushing sewers, or the fire department, for water used for fires, then it ought not to charge other departments for water used for other city purposes. Alderman Gray also favored the amendment and it was adopted, 11 to 7. Aldermen Avery, Bacon, Doherty, Gray, Holmes, Jones, Lyons, Miller, Moore, Underwood and Williamson voting in favor, Aldermen Burr, Cabot, Clarke, Day, Palmer, Stone and White voting against. As amended the order carrying a total of $1,255,000.23, was unanimously adopted.

The board adjourned at 1.10 o'clock A. M.

CLERK DISAPPEARS.

With the disappearance of a clerk who had been employed for sometime at the Woodland Golf Club in this city the officers have instituted a careful examination of the books of the club, and a shortage of several hundred dollars is said to have been discovered.

As a result a warrant has been issued for L. Webb Vinton, 25 years old, the missing clerk, for alleged larceny of $100 from the club. Webb disappeared last Thursday. The police received word that he had gone to Florida, but search for him there has thus far been fruitless. He came here from Vermont, and according to word received by the police he has not been there since leaving this city. Officers of the club said that examination of the books had not yet been completed, and they were therefore unable to estimate the amount of the alleged larceny.

If you are considering any kind of furniture for Christmas gifts, we guarantee the best possible quality and finish.

We do all finishing in our own shop,—we also mix our own stains and polishes from the best ingredients that can be bought. You can't get our results in stock goods from regular stores.

To have your furniture by Christmas, we should have your order NOW. It takes time to do good work.

Women's Clubs

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt

Thanksgiving week has brought practically a cessation of club activities. There are, however, a few organizations whose ardor is unabated even at this season of home coming and family reunions. The Monday Club of Newton Highlands is perhaps the most indefatigable, opening its season with the first Monday of October and continuing its sessions every Monday up to the first of May, very seldom, if ever, skipping a meeting. The Social Science Club perhaps stands next in steadfastness to its original purpose of weekly meetings, but its season does not open until November and a meeting is omitted at Thanksgiving and at Christmas. The Newton Centre Women's Club has some form of activity almost every week, but not with quite the regularity of those already mentioned. Of the other clubs identified with the Newton Federation their meetings come either regularly each alternate week or twice each month or occasionally only once a month. In these days of multiplicity of good things it is a question to be considered carefully, how much time a person can afford to give to one particular organization. There is much to be said for both sides, but the matter of proportion is a serious one and should not be overlooked.

The autumn meeting of the Newton Federation will be held at the Technical High School, Newtonville, on Tuesday, Nov. 30, at 2.30. At this meeting the work of the school will be discussed by the headmaster and several heads of departments. There will be opportunity to inspect the building and see the work at first hand. A reception and tea will follow the addresses.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands held its regular meeting on November 22 at the home of Mrs. Turnbull. This year the club is reserving the fourth week of the month, in which to pursue a miscellaneous program, the other afternoons being given to the study of different authors. The subjects presented this time included short papers on women as opera singers, painters and sculptors, with the latter part of the hour devoted to current events. Next week the club will observe gentlemen's night at Odd Fellows hall at eight o'clock. Mr. Seuss McManus will treat of "Irish Legends and Folk Lore." Friends of the club may secure tickets from members.

On December first the Social Science Club will hold its monthly business meeting at ten o'clock. Following this Rev. John Hopkins Denison, D.D., will speak on "The Significance of the Boston 1915 Movement." Guests may be invited for 10.45.

Those who received the attractive booklet sent out last week by the Newton hospital trustees have seen among the pictures one of the tuberculosis camp which has been placed on the grounds by the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, the bungalow house with its roomy enclosed piazza and the adjoining tent. The funds for this purpose have been secured in various ways, in part from the proceeds of the Federation Bazaar held two years ago and last year from "Tag Day." This year the Federation has decided to sell Christmas stamps to further increase its resources. These stamps will come in books of twenty-four at twenty-five cents each. They will be placed in the hands of the presidents of the various clubs of the Federation by the first of December and it is hoped that the whole supply, 100,000, will be disposed of before Christmas. This will yield the Federation something over $900 after deducting expenses. The work has fully justified itself. The camp has been fully summered and there is a constant demand for accommodation, until it is shown that there is neither sufficient room nor adequate equipment to meet the demand. The patients have gained wonderfully under the treatment and two have been discharged as cured. It is hoped that this manner of raising funds will meet with hearty cooperation and any interested in the camp, so that the work may go on with increased efficiency.

A TANGIERS THANKSGIVING DAY.

The near approach of Thanksgiving Day reminds me of the letter I promised to write last year.

After a delightful month in Spain, ending in Picturesque Ronda, the scene of Mason's realistic novel, "Miranda of the Balcony," we reached Gibraltar again on Tuesday, Nov. 24. We found that in order to see Tangiers we must sail on Wednesday, as the steamers go over every other day and return the next day.

So leaving our heavy luggage we took hand bags, and started in close companionship with several Americans whom we had met at various points in Spain. We skirted the southern coast of Spain nearly to Cape Trafalgar and then crossed to Tangiers, our first North Africa port. The city is perched on a side hill and presents a series of Marcus Waterman homes and mosques to the voyager, who eagerly watches the approach to the Mole, where lie the many odd looking craft peculiar to the Mediterranean. The minute we stepped from our gangway onto the little wherry that came alongside, we felt we were in a new country. Strange costumes and stranger tongues greeted our eyes and ears and the turbaned Moors and fezzed Turks made us soon realize that we were the foreigners. Up a series of narrow, crooked, cobble paved roads that resembled me of the New Version of the way of the transgressor is rocky we dodged donkey trains, loaded camels, and rude, jostling natives of every nation in the Old World, we climbed to The Continental Hotel, which overlooks the sea. The best hotel is not very best there, for the English tourist, who predominates, is not a liberal traveller, and we found that even these mediocre accommodations were dear enough! My rear room, chosen for the sake of a quiet night, proved to be over the front door, and all the varied noises of the Orient—whoops, yells, donkey music, straining of prayers by concealed congregations, hucksters and children, continued most of the night. But I did see the Minarets sparkle in the moonlight and heard the Muezzins' call to Prayer long before the daylight and joyed that I had lain awake to watch for it. Who would not choose to, her first night in Moslem? One can sleep any night, but chances like this come seldom enough to be greedily coveted. My friend in her front room facing the sea heard nothing of it, though she declared the noises of the wharves, mole and ships far out-rivalled my inland clamor. That day we heard a wailing cry under my windows and craning our necks out we saw in the alley far below, a procession of white bournoused and veiled women escorting a bride to her purification, in the public bath-house opposite. The sound of the bride's cry so loudly on one high note did it because "she so happy," though not the bride, but hired for the occasion.

In the evening we rushed hastily out of a Turkish cafe to see the bridal procession; a throng of women and boys with lanterns alight, singing in a high monotone, rattling gourd and all sorts of very un-musical instruments, surrounding the palanquin in which sat the veiled bride, borne on the shoulders of half naked fellows. They halted before each mosque and chanted some service, en route to the house of the expectant husband whom she had never even seen! Then we returned to our deserted coffee, up a steep flight of stairs into a room where the orchestra played strange antique instruments, seated cross-legged on a rush mat—and card players gambled on the rest of the floor. I told our courier that my silver bangle which I have worn day and night ever since a Newton girl gave it to me, when, who "married mamma" with him, had been made in the streets of Tangiers. So he took it to the Arab who kept the cafe, and he translated the characters engraved on it—"The time is past, but the spirit of love will live forever."

We went from there to a French cafe Chantant, but there was nothing unique or interesting in the few minutes of vaudeville.

Next morning, Thanksgiving Day, we were quite reconciled to start off to see the city from mule-back, the only comfortable way as there are no cabs, and the cabbies, almost placed on their thin soled shoes. We followed our Arab leader who was seated on his trained mule, large and almost as handsome as those of Spain, only not as well groomed. A sturdy bright-faced young Arab ran at my knees, for our saddles were chairs with little steps for our feet, which was not the safeguard one gets from a pommel. Up the narrow lanes, first to the market place to see the Fair, where we were met by the hideous masked-faced Arab Sheikh whom we remembered at the World's Fair, where he had acquired enough English to say "Chicago—Wash-n't-n, New Lok, Mellan—Gooly—Damm!" for a fee! Also saw snake charmers and fire eaters. Then over to the Khan where were loaded camels ready to start on their long weary journey across the Desert. We rode horses—out into the country—up the mountains to see the sunset, by the Arsenal and the Citadel. Natives, all sorts of men and women, begged, peddled, and stamped. Many of the flocks found their way into my lap, as gifts from my fellow who begged me to take him to America with me.

I shall never again have such a wild interesting, strange Thanksgiving Day. We dined on golden pheasant and on our return trip saw great bags of them and other game; the Arabs put down their heavy burdens, untied the bags, took out bunch after bunch of fluttering gold and iridescence, counted and sorted them, then calmly shoved them back toward downward into the bags until they were a solid mass tied up tight, and shouldered ashore. We saw men in Gibraltar—and in Naples—with strings of one or two hundred larks, thrushes, pheasant, quail, tied round their necks, selling them to anyone who wished to buy. No wonder Spain and Italy have no song birds. They prefer to eat them—as we do the Bobolinks and Robins every time we lunch on "three Rice-birds on a skewer for seventy-five cents."

WILLIAM T. COBB DEAD.

William T. Cobb, who died at his residence, 241 Prince Street, in West Newton, Sunday evening, was born in Brighton, April 12, 1846, the son of Captain William and Emma Lubeck Cobb. For many years he was associated with his brother, M. L. Cobb, in the wholesale coal business at 85 Water street, and his ability as a merchant was recognized throughout the Eastern section of the country, in which his acquaintance with prominent business men was unusually large. Mr. Cobb is survived by a widow and two daughters, Mrs. Ernest S. Gile of West Newton and Mrs. Jonathan T. Lincoln of Fairport, N. Y. Funeral services were held for him Wednesday afternoon, in his home on Prince street, West Newton. Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, pastor of the First Unitarian church of West Newton, officiated. The Lotus Quartet sang, "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Burial was in Newton cemetery.

The pallbearers, all of whom had been associated in business with the deceased, were: David P. Cummings, Ernest F. Gile, Jonathan T. Lincoln, Charles M. Cobb, Frank Sears, George H. Burgess, Walter Bucklin and Charles T. Burgess.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

A memorial service to the late Rev. Henry J. Patrick, D. D., fifty years pastor and pastor emeritus of the Congregational church, West Newton, will be held there on Sunday morning, Nov. 28, at 10.45 o'clock. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Jay T. Stocking of Newtonville, and the Rev. E. E. Strong, D. D., and the Rev. J. Edgar Park will also take part in the service.

Acts as Custodian or Attorney

This Company, besides receiving monies subject to check upon which interest is paid, acts as custodian or attorney of your estate by collecting coupons, dividends, interest and rents. Its safe deposit vaults are of modern construction and afford absolute protection for your valuables.

change room in charge of Mrs. Henry B. Day of West Newton and a Woman's Club room in which several of the prominent women's clubs are interested.

On Saturday a large hall will be arranged for the children with special features for their amusement. In this way they will be enabled to have a good time without monopolizing the whole or interfering with the older people's enjoyment.

The settlement is located at 38-46 Chambers street. To reach it from the subway cross the Common to Joy street, about five minutes' walk from the State House, Chambers being a continuation of Joy across Cambridge street. Or leave any car on Cambridge street at North Russell.

SELECTING AN OPERA GLASS.

Altho' everybody knows what an opera glass is, and how to use it, not many know how to select one economically.

It is a mistake to suppose that a glass must be good because it is imported, for practically all opera glasses, the very bad as well as the good, are made in France. Some are dreadfully bad, the lenses are unmatched; not centered; not corrected; weakly mounted; the covering is of poor quality, and lacks durability. They are intended for premiums, auctions and "marked down" sales. They are not worth having at any price.

A good glass must have well matched lenses; they should be achromatic, that is, when you look straight through the glass there will be no annoying red or blue fringes around the object looked at. It must be well centered, and strongly mounted to insure durability.

Unless you have a clear idea of the "points" of an opera glass, and how to test them, by far your best course is to go to a thoroughly first-rate house, state what price you wish to pay, and ask to see a selection of Glasses at about that price.

You will probably be quite surprised at the assortment of black morocco and brilliant pearl glasses from which you may make a choice. If one style pleases you, you will not be far astray to take that; but if you feel in doubt seek the advice of the selling clerk, who is sure to have had much experience and to be of good judgment. There is one thing you can do, be sure that the seller's name is on the glass. This is not an advertisement, but the responsible guarantee of a good firm.

Opera glasses make very acceptable gifts; everybody who hasn't one wants one. They last a long time, are in frequent use, and are constant reminders of the giver.

The action of the aldermen in reducing the appropriation for schools from the figures asked by the school committee and by the mayor ought not to be misunderstood by the general public. A careful reading of Alderman Burr's remarks, printed in our story of the meeting of the aldermen, will indicate the general position of the majority of the aldermen on this important matter. It has been apparent for the past few years that something must be done to stop the constantly increasing appropriations for schools. It will be recalled that a $5000 reduction last year was met with considerable protest from citizens who did not fully appreciate the true situation. The aldermen again emphasize the fact that it is necessary to mark time in the expenses for educational purposes and allow the city to regain its financial breath. This position is taken by the city fathers with a full realization that the plans of the school committee for the coming year are of great merit—if the city could afford them—and with a full appreciation of the earnestness and ability of the superintendent of schools.

One method by which some saving can be made in the department is by increasing the size of classes, thereby reducing the number of teachers. In the past ten years the average size of classes has been reduced from about 35 per teacher to less than 30 per teacher. A generation ago, one teacher taught from 45 to 50 pupils and there are many who still believe that the educational results are no higher today than at that time. While it may not be desirable to return to the large classes of 20 or 30 years ago, it is also apparent that it is equally impossible to provide a teacher for each pupil. The greater part of the school budget is for teachers salaries and I believe that it is possible to materially reduce expenses by slightly increasing the size of classes.

The aldermen are to be congratulated upon their action in eliminating nearly $5000 from the tax levy for the purchase of water for the use of the city departments. The absurdity of raising money by taxation for the purpose of increasing a large surplus in the water department, for the sole reason "that each department might show its exact cost" has long been apparent, and the saving of about seven cents on next year's tax rate will be appreciated.

The suggestion in a recent issue of the GRAPHIC that the city had done its full duty by giving our youth a thorough school education and ought not to bear the expense of post graduate courses has met with cordial response from some of our tax payers.
I am glad to state that persons taking post graduate courses at our high schools are paying all necessary expenses for the same.

MR. FARRELL DEAD.

Mr. Patrick B. Farrell, for many years a business man of Newton, died at his home on Lyons court, Watertown, last Tuesday, after a brief illness with pneumonia. Mr. Farrell was born in Dublin, Ireland, 62 years ago, and has been engaged in the horse shoeing business in this city for about 35 years. He was a charter member of Middlesex Court of Foresters of Watertown.

He is survived by a widow, three sons, James, Patrick and Thomas, and four daughters, Mrs. Mary Leonard and Mrs. Margaret Sheridan of Watertown, Sarah, who is a nun at St. Francis de Sales convent, Charlestown, and Jennie.

Funeral services were held yesterday morning with requiem mass at St. Patrick's church, Watertown, Rev.
J. E. Kellher officiating, and the interment was at Calvary cemetery, Waltham.

BAD FIRE.

A fire that broke out about 10 o'clock last night as a result, it is supposed, of faulty electric wiring or a defective flue, completely gutted the house of Winslow C. Pierce at 5 Copley street, causing a loss estimated at $10,000.

Mr. Pierce, who is president of the Massachusetts Wharf Coal Co., spent the holiday with his family at the home of relatives in Hopkinton. He left the house unoccupied, expecting to return Friday.

About 10.30 William M. Ferris, whose house at 85 Hunnewell avenue is nearly opposite the Pierce residence, saw flames through its windows. He at once telephoned the fire department. He then took a furnace poker and hurried across the street to break in the door of the blazing house, being joined on the steps by Patrolman McNeill. Meanwhile an alarm had been turned in from box 123.

The two men found that the flames were underneath the floor in the middle of the house and along the chimney at the side. They attempted to turn on the electric light, but could not do so. The fire was too far advanced for them to do anything but take out a little furniture.

In spite of the speedy arrival of the fire department the house was completely gutted, the flames breaking through the roof and in addition to water damage causing an almost complete loss. Only a few rugs and pieces of furniture were saved. The house and contents were insured.

An examination this morning shows that the earlier report that the cause was defective wiring, was incorrect.
The condition of the electric wires indicates that no fire could have started from them.

FINE PROGRAM.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

A host of friends joined in the observance of the 40th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas
O. Cline of Newton Highlands Tuesday evening at the home of Rev. and Mrs. William J. Cozens of 61 Chester street.

The couple received many hearty congratulations. Prominent among those present was a delegation of parishoners of the Methodist Episcopal church in Newton Highlands, which was recently renamed the Cline Memorial M. E. church in honor of Mr. Cline.

Mr. and Mrs. Cline have three children. One daughter, Margaret Catherine, is the wife of Rev. William J.
Cozens, formerly of the Salvation Army. Casper C. Cline, a son, is a leading business man and banker of Frederick, Md., and their third child is Bessie S., wife of Charles T. Noble of Newton Highlands.

MOTHERS' REST.

A novel affair will take place in Bray hall, Newton Centre, on the evening of Monday, January 3rd, under the auspices of the Mothers' Rest.
It is to be an emigrant party and the guests are to come dressed as emigrants. There will be a varied but informal program of dances and spectacles interspersed with dancing for all. The plan will appear in detail next week.

D. R.

To increase the memorial fund of Sarah Hull Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, a Thanksgiving food sale was held from 11 to 4 Tuesday at the residence of Mrs. Oliver M. Fisher, 260 Franklin street. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Albert F. Hayward, Mrs. George B. King, Mrs. Thomas
M. Elwell, Mrs. J. H. Sanborn, Mrs.
T. W. Trowbridge, Mrs. E. J. Cox, Mrs. Edgar W. Warren and Mrs. Daniel A. White.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre—That Albert Chevaller has increased his drawing power as an entertainer, is being evidenced at Keith's, where he is delighting large audiences. He has not only found worthy successors to such classics as "My Old Dutch" and "Misses' enery 'awkins," but he has gone even one better with his new songs such as "The Work 'ouse Man" and "I've got 'er 'at." This last song is one of the best things Mr. Chevalier has ever given us. For his last week he is surrounded by a bill of headliners, many of them new to Boston.
One of the most interesting will be Beatrice Ingram & Company, in a new comedy sketch called "The Duchess" which is said to be a sensation of laughs from start to finish.
Will Rogers, the famous lasso expert, will also appear. Lillian Shaw, the eccentric comedienne, who is always good for half an hour of sustained laughter, comes with new songs, and others are the Tasmanian Van Die-man Troupe, one of the largest companies of women acrobats in America; Inro Fox, the magician, Browning & Lavan in a new sketch called
"The Recruiting Office"; the Three Donals, a musical act, and Doherty & Harlow who will be seen for the first time in travesty.

Tremont Theatre—Elsie Ferguson, whose rapid rise to the position of star in "Such a Little Queen" was the talk of all Broadway for four months, comes to the Tremont Theatre for two weeks only, beginning Monday night, November 29th. "Such a Little Queen" concerns the career of Anna Victoria, the exiled Queen of Herrgovina, and her kindly consort, Stephen IV, of Bosnia, while struggling to earn a livelihood in New York City. The story of "Such a Little Queen" is based on several well-known instances of Monarchs who have experienced poverty in exile;
among the number, Napoleon III., Louis Philippe and Theodore I. of Corsica. The regular Tremont Theatre prices, 25 cents to $1.50, will prevail during Miss Ferguson's short stay, as will the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinee.

Hollis Street Theatre—The visit of Hattie Williams to Boston is always a welcome event, for that charming actress has intrenched herself deeply in the admiration and affection of local theatregoers. "Detective Sparkes" in which Miss Williams comes here conmening Monday, Nov. 29, is billed as "an original comedy-drama" by Michael Morton, and "original" it is both in theme and treatment. "Detective Sparkes" is a play that is full of mystery and fun. It seems with exciting incidents and the action is fast and furious. During every minute of the four acts the audience is kept guessing as to what is coming next, and not until the very end of the play is the real story ended. Unlike the average play, whether comedy or straight drama, there is no time when the auditor can sit back and say:

"Well, I know it must come out."

Castle Square Theatre—John Craig may well be congratulated upon his coming week's production. The play is entitled "Honor," and its author is Hermann Sudermann, the famous German dramatist, who is perhaps best known in this country through his "Magda," which has been produced by Molecka, Elanora Duse, Sarah Bernhardt and other artists. "Honor" has been widely acclaimed in Germany, the country of its birth, and as well in London and New York, but it has remained for Mr. Craig to bring it to Boston. At the Castle Square next week it will receive its first production here.

American Music Hall—The bill which will be presented at the American Music Hall next week will contain so many good features that it is difficult to select a headline but from a comedy standpoint there is no question but that the palm will be carried off by Kate Ellmore one of the famous Ellmore sisters who with Sam Williams will present the screaming farce "The Last of the Sufragettes." Theatre-goers who have seen the El-lmore sisters will recognize in Kate Ellmore the comedy member of the pair. Her long lanky arms and her grotesque style of gesture makes it impossible to keep a straight face while looking at her. Pauline the great French hypnotist, will hold over for another week. He will next week present a complete change of tests and experiments. Genaro & Bailey, late stars of "Tony The Bookbinder," will present a comedy sketch which has been a winner in every city where it has appeared. Incidentally they will introduce their famous "Flirtation Dance." Diamond and Beatrice in a unique musical act, the Broadway Boys, one of the best quartets on the stage, the Three Richardinis mar-vels of physical strength and other acts will complete the bill.

Boston Theatre—Klaw & Erlanger will send their first big production of the theatrical year, and the first real novelty of the season to the Boston Theatre, beginning Monday, November 29th. It is "The Circus Man" and Maclyn Arbuckle will be seen as "Fighting Hime" Look. This comedy drama has been evolved from Holman F. Day's story "Squire Phin" and with its scenes laid in the small town of Palermo, Maine, and its story peopled with denizens of that region, the delightful atmosphere of New England is once again transferred to the boards of a theatre, recalling the triumphs and the charms of "Way Down East" and other plays of the like.
Maclyn Arbuckle's name has gone abroad in the land by reason of his wonderful successes as Jim Hacker in
"The County Chairman" and
"Slim" Hoover in "The Round Up," both of which parts he created. The sale of seats will begin Tuesday, Nov.

She was a native of Leominster, where she was born 85 years ago. Funeral services were held from her late residence Sunday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. Mr. Williams, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Watertown. The burial was in the Leominster cemetery.

—The union Thanksgiving service was held Thursday morning at Channing church and was well attended. Rev. Henry E. Oxnard read the scripture, Rev. H. Grant Person gave the prayer and Rev. Dr. George S. Butters delivered the sermon in which he compared gratitude and ingratitude, stating that many forget to express their gratitude and that ingratitude is the common sin of humanity. Miss Isabelle Melville of Cambridge was the soloist. Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, pastor of the church, was in charge of the service.

—The regular monthly cantata services at the Eliot church, will be resumed next Sunday afternoon when the choir will sing Verdi's Requiem (the entire work). The solo parts will be sung by Miss Josephine Knight, soprano; Miss Adelaide Griggs, contralto; Mr. J. Garfield Stone, tenor; Mr. Leverett B. Merrill, bass, chorus of forty-five voices, Mr. Everett E. Truette, organist and director. Special attention is called to the change of time as these services will commence at four o'clock this season.

—Miss Maria Daniel, a former well known resident of Newton, died in Quincy on Monday. She was the daughter of the late Josiah Daniel and was 65 years of age. Deceased was an authority on cooking, and was well known on the lecture platform. For a number of years she was manager of the Nichevaug Hotel at Petersham and she had managed other high class family hotels in various towns among the Berkshires. The funeral was held from the Mount Auburn chapel Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Francis E. Webster of Waltham officiating. The burial was in the family lot.

AUTO SMASHED.

Mr. Clarence T. Weaver and family of Warwick road, West Newton, had a narrow escape from a serious automobile accident last Sunday afternoon.

The automobile was a 35-horse power touring car owned by Frank Adams of Dedham. It was driven to West Newton in the morning by Mrs. Adams, a relative of the Weaver family. Late in the forenoon Mr. Weaver took several members of his family for a ride in the machine.

Being used to operating a runabout of the steam type, he had some difficulty in driving the touring car. He turned the machine down Watertown street from Washington, and had proceeded only a short distance when he lost control of the automobile.

The machine swerved to the right and ran squarely into a large tree at the edge of the sidewalk. The occupants were thrown with much force against the seats of the machine, but fortunately they escaped with no broken bones. The automobile was badly damaged. When effort was made to pull the car away from the tree it was found the machine could not be moved. A steel rod connected with the steering gear measuring an inch in diameter and a smaller rod had to be sawed off by employees of a garage before the touring car could be hauled away for repairs.

MATCHLESS COFFEE

We take this means of calling your attention to the fact that through our affiliation with one of the leading Boston tea and coffee houses we are able to give our customers the finest selections in all grades of teas and coffees, and also the best values obtainable. We wish particularly to call your attention to L. Brayton & Co's Matchless Coffee, for which we have the exclusive agency.

Matchless Coffee is the finished product of expert knowledge acquired by long experience in the coffee business. It is a fine blend composed largely of old crop private estate Java, carefully blended with other coffees. After careful selection and skillful blending it is thoroughly cleaned, sterilized and roasted by the most improved process which makes a coffee unequalled for great strength, fine flavor, and delicate aroma.

As Matchless Coffee is packed in foil-lined, triple thick waterproof, airtight bags, it is sure to reach the user without losing any of its strength or aroma. We feel confident that a fair trial will make you a permanent user of Matchless Coffee.

TWENTY THOUSAND CANARIES IMPORTED YEARLY.

More than 20,000 canaries are brought from foreign lands and sold each year in this country, according to Suburban Life for December. The greater portion of all the cage birds sold in this country come from the Hartz mountains. More than three hundred years ago, a sailing vessel from the Canary Islands, having on board a large number of the small birds of that island, was shipwrecked off the coast of Italy. Those on board liberated the birds before going themselves ashore, and the birds flew to land, where many of them were captured and bred for their beautiful songs. They were very small birds, having a rusty green shade of color in their plumage, and their beautiful voices were all there was to recommend them. Since then, the bird raisers of foreign countries have, from these crude originals, developed beautiful specimens of many shapes and various shades of coloring.

MRS. SHAPLEY CAN TALK.

In the Superior Court Monday the application of counsel for Charles H. Shapley of Leominster for an injunction to restrain his sister-in-law, Sarah C. Shapley of Newton, from visiting, or writing about the estate of George H. Shapley, was denied by Judge Richardson. The court suggested, however, that Mrs. Shapley file stipulations agreeing not to enter the plaintiff's clothing store at Leominster or interfere in any manner with his business until further order of the court. This case will be heard on its merits at a later date, probably in East Cambridge. The court ruled that a woman has a legal right to talk, when she wants to, where she wants to and to whom she wants to.

HELP THE GIRLS.

FAELTEN PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.

At a recent recital of the Faelten Pianoforte School, when introducing a class of little boys who began their studies in September, Mr. Faelten related what had happened to three boys who entered the school ten years ago. Two afterward went to college, one of whom, after many disappointments, secured a small position principally through his knowledge of music, the other struggling along as a tutor, unable to afford any other pleasure besides his music. The third boy called at the school last spring before going on his vacation trip to Europe, for which he had saved all expenses from his own earnings in his musical profession. Mr. Faelten further intimated that every cultured gentleman should know at least as much about music as he does about football.
